LAKE YARDS TO SEEK SHARE OF NAVY BUILDING

Waterway Will Open a New Field.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 1.—[Special.]—Opening of the Illinois waterway to ocean-lake traffic between Chicago and the Gulf of Mexico next year apparently is destined to inaugurate a new era of shipbuilding on the great lakes.

It was learned today that a well developed movement on the part of lake shipbuilding yards and lake states senators and representatives is already afoot to obtain for the fresh water plants a share of the contracts to be let in the future for the construction of government and privately owned ocean craft.

The Illinois waterway, the construction of which is being completed by the government, will, for the first time, make possible the transit of large ships between the ocean and the lakes. Furthermore, it will be the only channel for many years by which ocean ships from 400 to 600 feet in length and not exceeding 9 feet draft can be floated entire from the lakes to the sea on their own bottoms.

Locks 110 Feet Wide.

The locks of the Illinois waterway are 600 feet long, 110 feet wide, and have a depth of 14 feet on the miter sills. The waterway channel is 200 feet wide at the bottom, with a minimum depth of 9 feet.

On the Lake Erie-Ontario-St. Lawrence route to the sea the new Welland canal is to be formally opened this spring. The new Welland canal locks are 820 feet long and 80 feet wide, with a depth of 30 feet on the miter sills. But the bottleneck of this route is the locks around the St. Lawrence rapids, which are only 270 feet long and 45 feet wide with a depth of 14 feet on the miter sills. The minimum St. Lawrence channel depth is 14 feet.

An ocean ship exceeding 270 feet in length which is built on the great lakes could be floated to the sea by the St. Lawrence route by cutting the vessel in two for passage through the old St. Lawrence locks. The enlargement of these locks is a detail of the plan for development of the St. Lawrence seaway which is the subject of negotiation between the United States and Canada and which will not be realized for some years, if ever.

Third Outlet Available.

On the third outlet to the sea, by way of the New York barge canal and the Hudson river, the locks are 310 feet long and 45 feet wide with a depth of 12 feet on the miter sills. The canal width is 200 feet and depth 12 feet. An ocean ship exceeding 310 feet in length could be floated to the sea from Great Lakes shipyards by cutting the craft in two.

The cutting of ships in two for passage through the locks is entirely feasible and was done in the case of ocean ships built on the great lakes during the war. As the situation stands itself, therefore, ocean ships can be built on the lakes and taken to sea entire by the Illinois waterway route if not exceeding 9 feet in draft, or in sections by the other routes if of greater draft.

In anticipation of the opening of the Illinois waterway next year the lake interests are now organizing a drive for ocean ship construction contracts, calling for delivery not less than 18 months hence.

Seek Destroyer Contracts.

It is understood that a concerted effort will be made to obtain from the navy department contracts for some of the 11 new destroyers for which congress appropriated at the last session. One of these ships is to be a destroyer leader costing $5,300,000, while the other ten will be 1,500 ton destroyers, costing $4,700,000 each.

The navy department is now perfecting the plans for these vessels and expects to allocate their construction next July. These destroyers will be about 335 feet long with a beam of 35 or 36 feet and a draft of 11 feet when fully equipped and loaded. Some of the lake shipbuilding yard bids, it is understood, will be for construction of the ships without the engines, boilers and other machinery, as well as guns, which would be installed after delivery to seaboard.

Without machinery and guns, these destroyers will have a draft of only 6 or 7 feet and, therefore, could easily be passed through the Illinois waterway.

Up to Secretary Adams.

Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams will determine how many, if any, of these destroyers are to be built in privately owned yards, in terms of a limitation on the ap-

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

A poll yesterday of 4,609 women in the downtown district and in each of the three major divisions of the city showed a decided preference for A. J. Cermak for mayor. The women appeared to be much stronger for Cermak than the poll indicated they were for Dever in the 1927 mayoralty race, or for Hoover for President in 1928 or for Swanson for state's attorney in that year.

At the same time another poll was taken of the colored area, and it shows that the voters there are remaining true to Thompson. Altogether 6,253 persons were asked for their preferences for mayor yesterday, and the results may be summarized as follows:

Voters.	Cermak.	Thompson.	Totals.

Colored	423	1,221	1,644
Totals.....	3,825	2,428	6,253

Cermak was the choice of 73 per cent of the women straw voters. President Hoover got 59 per cent of them and State's Attorney Swanson, 60.27 per cent in the 1928 straw votes. Among the four groups canvassed, Cermak ran strongest downtown.

The following four tables show the spots polled in the downtown district and on the south, west, and north sides, together with the straw votes obtained for each candidate:

The poll of the colored voters showed Thompson with 74.57 per cent of the 1,644 straws collected yesterday. The later part of last week showed Thompson with 70.55 per cent of the colored vote in a poll of the movie theaters. Earlier in the week the street corners gave him 68.14 per cent. In one of the pre-campaign tests, Thompson obtained at the theaters 65.97 per cent and on the street corners 73.05 per cent of the colored votes.

The next two days should disclose whether there has been any decided change in sentiment following the flooding of the mails with campaign appeals. Except among the colored voters, it has been impossible thus far to find any large group of persons or any considerable area in the city where the Thompson sentiment predominates.

SIX FIREMEN HURT AS TRUCK TURNS OVER; 1 MAY DIE

Six firemen were injured, one possibly fatally, last night when the squad truck in which they were speeding to answer an alarm, later found to be false, overturned at 75th street and Prairie avenue.

John Kelly, 1515 West 86th street, was the man most severely hurt. The others were Lieut. James Fleming, 6201 Langley avenue, in command of squad No. 5, to which all the victims belonged; Ralph Splitt, 1641 West 85th street, the driver; John Walsh, 7214 South Park avenue; Joseph Phelan, 6340 Harper avenue, and John Kennedy, 8219 South Green street.

The false alarm was sounded from 71st street and Stewart avenue, and the fire truck cut across to 75th street, and proceeded westward. At the same time Charles Fish, a clerk, and his wife, Augusta, of 6728 Dorchester avenue, were driving north in Prairie avenue. Fish's car crashed into the fire truck, according to the police, and Chauffeur Splitt veered the vehicle sharply, swinging against a pole. Kelly was pinned beneath the overturned truck and was taken with his injured comrades to St. Bernard's hospital. Fish was arrested. Neither he nor his wife was injured.

There were no deaths in Cook county yesterday as a result of automobile accidents, the year's toll remaining at 290.

Mrs. Philip O'Neill, 39 years old, 339 Drexel square, was killed in a collision on a highway six miles north of Pontiac, Ill.

Jewish Rites Recall Flight Out of Egypt

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

World wide Judaism's most sacred feast, the Passover—known in the Hebrew as Pesach—began at sundown last night. Throughout Chicago Jewry, families will sit before a meal significant among the members of the race as a symbol of freedom. The meal, known as the Seder, is where the children learn the story of the liberation of the Jews from the slavery imposed by Egyptian Pharaohs.

In orthodox Judaism, the feast lasts eight days, though among Reformed Jews, according to Dr. George G. Fox, spiritual leader of the South Shore temple, it lasts only seven days. The Seder with which the period opens, Dr. Fox explained, is essentially a children's feast. They hear again the story of Israel's liberation as told in the book of Exodus.

Eat Unleavened Bread.

"There are a number of symbols that beautify the festival," said Dr. Fox. "Among these is the matsos, or unleavened bread. This tells the story of the haste in leaving Egypt which did not allow time to bake bread. Then, there is the roast lamb bone, which is emblematic of the paschal lamb, and the wine, which typifies God's creation 'that maketh the heart of man glad.'"

Another symbol is the charoseth, a mixture of apples, prunes, and raisins. The charoseth symbolizes the mortar used in making brick for the buildings the Israelites were forced to build for the Egyptians, while the bitter herbs, parsley and water cress, dipped in salt water, signify the bitterness of the taskmasters. The roast egg found at the feast typifies the eternity of Israel.

Rabbi Fox said the festival probably originated in an agricultural feast. It coincided, he said, with the time the Israelites left the land of their enslavement and the two feasts were combined. The south shore rabbi pointed to the passover as having had age long and world wide influence on the movement toward human liberty.

A Festival of Freedom.

"The story of Exodus, driven by constant repetition, generation after generation, into Jewish minds," said Dr. Fox, "built up a freedom ideal which gave the name 'zeman cheruseinu,' or festival of freedom, to the observance. It was for the Jew a remembrance of the first time that mankind struck for freedom to worship as conscience dictates, and the germ of the idea that later found itself embedded in the spirit of democracy."

FOKKER LAYS BLAME FOR AIR DISASTER ON THE 'HUMAN ELEMENT'

Wichita, Kas., April 1.—(AP)—Anthony Fokker, designer of the airplane that crashed yesterday, killing Knute Rockne and seven others, said tonight he thought that "the flight should not have been undertaken in existing weather conditions." He arrived here by plane from Los Angeles for a trip tomorrow to the Flint hills pasture, near Bazaar, where the trimotored plane dashed to earth in muggy weather. Fokker said he could not "make a very definite statement" until he had talked with eyewitnesses and examined the wreckage.

"However," he added, "I have my own opinion. No doubt the theory that ice, forming on the wings, played a part, and I believe parting of a section of the wing from the plane was a secondary consideration. In my opinion the ship was placed in a violent maneuver and the wing was torn off as a result. I would say the human element entered very strongly into the cause of the crash."

Three hundred ships like the one which crashed have been built in conformity with his designs, the designer said. There has been no accident of major importance to them where the cause appeared to be a structural failure of a wing, he asserted.

JUROR FINED FOR ACQUITTAL VOTE IN DRY LAW TRIAL

Media, Pa., April 1.—(AP)—Much to his surprise, Thomas Meaney, real estate man, learned today that one may be fined for indicating contempt of the prohibition law. He paid $25 for the information.

Meaney was a juror in the bootlegging case of Joseph O'Brien. The evidence was indisputable and Judge Albert D. MacDade said the jury need not retire. It was polled in the courtroom and Meaney cast the lone ballot for acquittal. The judge, surprised, ordered another poll, an again the vote was 11 to 1, with Meaney for acquittal.

That ended the voting. Judge MacDade called Meaney from the box, dismissed him as a juror and fined him $25 for contempt of court. O'Brien, changing his plea to guilty, was sent to jail for a year.

What a Man! 3 Military Medals and 6 Wives

New York, April 1.—(AP)—Bob Gosling, crooning troubadour, who police said admitted having six wives in six cities, pleaded guilty to a charge of bigamy on Staten Island today. He was remanded to jail for sentence April 8. He was decorated for bravery by eight foreign nations.

Throngs Surge to Pay Rockne Last Tribute

Knute K. Rockne of Notre Dame, whom experts called the greatest football coach of all time and whose death President Hoover termed "a national loss," came through Chicago last night in a casket and received a tribute as impressive as any of the spontaneous outbursts accorded his victorious teams in his lifetime. The demonstration was tumultuous, yet respectful.

Ten thousand men and women, including judges, politicians, leaders in athletics, Notre Dame alumni and faithful followers of the sporting pages were jammed in the grimy Dearborn station and surrounding streets when a Santa Fe train bearing the funeral coach from Kansas City rolled in at 7:45 p. m. Rockne and seven others were killed Tuesday in an airplane crash near Bazaar, Kas.

Crowd Becomes Unmanageable.

From the time the train arrived until 9:15 p. m., when a New York Central train pulled the funeral party out of the La Salle street station in three special coaches, the crowd pressed around the casket and, with only eleven policemen to maintain order, became unmanageable at times.

It has been said of Rockne that the pulsating action of the gridiron and the glamour of the crowds were his life. Perhaps then he would have found nothing indecorous in the conduct of the crowd, struggling pell mell after the truck which bore his casket over Dearborn street between the two depots while policemen shouted commands and photographers boomed their flash guns.

Over at Soldiers' field, scene of many a Rockne triumph, a flag was whipping at half staff as twilight fell and the stands, which had often resounded to the thunderous chant of the Notre Dame victory march, were empty. At the Dearborn station, some six blocks west, a throng gathered to await the arrival of the funeral train from the west and to give the famous coach a last vigorous farewell from Chicago.

Train Crawls into Shed.

The train, arriving on schedule to the minute, moved into the shed at a crawl. The engineer had evidently perceived the peril of accident, with hundreds standing six deep on a baggage platform close to the rails, and was ready to stop in an instant should any one topple off.

While the casket in its gray steel vault was being lifted from the baggage coach to a truck at the right side of the train, the Rev. Michael Mulcahy, vice president of Notre Dame, was at the rear coach on the other side, helping the coach's two sons, Billy, 15, and Knute Jr., 12, off the train and steering them away from the crowd to a taxicab. Then the confusion arose.

So tightly did the crowd wedge around the truck that movement became impossible. Policemen shouted, women lost their shoes, and derbies were crushed until, after two or three minutes, the cortege got started up the platform to the waiting motor truck. Yet in all the crush there were few who forgot to doff their hats and bow their heads as the casket passed by.

Place Flowers on Casket.

A guard of honor, comprising fifteen past presidents of the Notre Dame club of Chicago, clung in place beside the casket by sheer force of gripping the hand truck with their hands as it was forced through the press of humanity. In the cramped baggage room a halt came as James H. Brennan, president of the club, laid a floral blanket on the casket. The odor of flash light powder mingled with the scent of roses for a moment, the crowd pressed forward, and the police yelled: "Stand back, have you no respect for the dead?"

Amid much pushing the casket was transferred to a motor truck. Then no police lines formed, the truck driver forced a lane with the fenders and

Six State Witnesses Reply to Defense.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

About noon today the Leo V. Brothers case will be given to a jury in Judge Joseph Sabath's court.

Closing arguments to the jury are to be made this morning by Attorney Louis Piquett for the defendant and by Assistant State's Attorney C. Wayland Brooks. Instructions will then be given by the court and the famous trial, growing out of the murder of Alfred Lingle will pass to the verdict stage.

Evidence in the trial ended yesterday with rebuttal witnesses presented by the state which had a devastating effect on at least four of the defense witnesses. The defense offered no rebuttal.

Both Sides Open Arguments.

Mr. Brooks, who has borne the burden of the active prosecution of this case, began his opening argument to the jury at 11:30 o'clock. He was followed in the afternoon by Attorney Harry Cantwell for the defense. Mr. Piquett also spoke for a few minutes, and adjournment was then taken until this morning.

The trial attracted crowds which struggled for admittance and filled every niche in the courtroom. Several who had been witnesses were in the audience, and Brothers' father and mother, who had been excluded for a week in the witness room, took their old seats among the spectators, although they were not together.

First Rebuttal Witness.

The first of the state's rebuttal witnesses was Ryan J. Kelly, a salesman from Kankakee. He said that he had met Paul Thorne, fiction writer, in a publishing house on Michigan avenue about 2:15 o'clock on the afternoon of June 9 and that Thorne had told him he was half a block away from the scene of the Lingle murder in the Illinois Central subway at Michigan avenue and Randolph street. Thorne had testified for the defense that he was at the east entrance of the tunnel when the shooting occurred and that he had gone directly home from there.

John Lane, a police stenographer, identified a statement which Pasquale Clarizio, a young defense witness, had made to Capt. John Stege at 3:30 on the afternoon of the murder in which the fugitive had been described as having "dark, black hair," a contradiction of the youth's testimony on the stand. Capt. Stege testified that he had talked with Clarizio and that the witness had signed four copies of the statement.

Capt. Gilbert Testifies.

Capt. Daniel A. Gilbert of the police department testified that he had talked with Harry J. O'Conner and Albert Stein, two defense witnesses, and that they had told him they were at the bottom of the stairs at the west entrance to the tunnel at the time of the shooting and that they could not identify any one. He had dismissed them at the time as useless to the investigation. On the stand O'Connor and Stein declared they were a few feet from the east entrance of the tunnel.

Policeman Fred E. Joyner of the staff of Pat Roche, chief investigator for the state's attorney, testified that he had tried to get Mrs. Helen M. Whitehouse to come down to Mr. Roche's office to tell what she knew of the case, but she refused to go and said she would not help Rohde in the case because he had not helped her in a will case in which she was interested the previous January.

Roche Takes the Stand.

Roche himself took the stand to deny that he had ever called Thorne the "star witness" in this case.

The defense asked for time to produce two or three rebuttal witnesses, and the court waited half an hour. Then the defense attorneys withdrew their request and Judge Sabath ordered the case to proceed.

Mr. Brooks talked until noon adjournment and for an hour in the afternoon. He talked first of the character of "Scarface" which the defense has injected into the case in the opening statement to the jury by Attorney Tyrrell Hyma.

"They don't show you a Scarface did that? He killed the Terrible Swede. They don't show you the third man, law abiding type of young man this defendant is, do they?

"I am proud to make my appeal for the honesty with which we have worked and presented this evidence. They can't find a man in town who will say that Brooks told him to tell anything but the truth.

"If there has been a frameup against this defendant, I framed him for I interviewed all the witnesses alone.

"If Brothers did not fire the shot that killed Lingle, he was with the man who did, for he dropped the gun."

Conscience and Courage.

The prosecutor talked of the degree of conscience and courage which it requires for a witness to come forward with testimony that may send a man to the penitentiary or the electric chair, and of how much easier it was for a witness to help a defendant out by a negative identification.

It was in this class that he placed the defense witness, Mrs. Wilson.

"She is a sympathetic mother," he said. "She responded to the pull of the heart strings for another mother. You cannot get a mother to come into court and say, 'That is the man.' I can forgive her, but I do not believe her. She knew very little about it."

Sorry for Policeman Ruthy.

As to Policeman Anthony Ruthy, the witness declared unreliable by the state, Mr. Brooks said:

"If he had possessed the full faculties which he apparently had, the man who ran down the street that day would have been stopped. I feel sorry for him. Whether his testimony was imagination or whether it was deliberate falsehood I cannot tell. You have a picture of his fractured skull."

Vincent Veitch, hotel clerk, was "only a shadow to hide and confuse the truth," he said, without a single word of competent testimony.

As for Lawrence J. O'Malley, railroad switchman, he asked:

"Where has he been all this time? Out of the darkness, a relative of a friend of defense counsel, to help in giving a doubt."

The Rebuttal Testimony.

Mr. Brooks referred to the rebuttal testimony on Mrs. Whitehurst, O'Connor, Stein, and Thorne.

"Not even a newspaper would believe Thorne and buy his story," he said. "If there is any element of framing, it is here."

"There are eight identifying witnesses," he continued, "who have not been answered by any real evidence. The defense has not kept its word with you.

"Under the evidence we have presented, that man [pointing at Brothers] is guilty of that murder. That man dropped that gun. That man ran up those stairs. It is time for 12 men in Chicago to say that if men come here to lie and murder they forfeit the right to live. You are the last line of defense in this town. If it gets beyond you it's gone. My client is every honest home in this town. I ask you to treat them fairly."

Cantwell Opens for Defense.

Mr. Cantwell, in his closing argument, pointed out that no state witness had ever said the defendant had killed Lingle. He referred to the state witnesses; with the exception of Father John Reynolds of the University of Notre Dame, as a "group of trained seals." They were all liars, he said, and their motive was money.

Father Reynolds' primary purpose in coming into the courtroom, the defense attorney said, was to prove that the man who killed Lingle was not a gangster dressed in priest's clothing, as some stories at that time intimated. He said that Father Reynolds told the truth, that he did not identify Brothers as the man he had seen, but merely said he answered the description. He said that sinus trouble, for which the priest had come to Chicago for treatment that day, might have affected his vision.

Mr. Cantwell then took up the testimony of each defense witness and said:

"If ever a reasonable doubt was put into a case it is in this case."

Mr. Piquett, in the course of his short talk, said that this was "the most gigantic frameup since the crucifixion of Christ."

STATE MAKES REBUTTAL

Evan J. Kelly of Kankakee, the salesman, was the first witness placed on the stand by the state in rebuttal testimony when the morning session of court opened. The brief examination ran as follows:

Q.—Directing your attention to the 9th day of June, 1930, were you in Chicago? A.—I was. I had just taken a new position with the Vestico Publishing company, at 180 North Michigan avenue.

Q.—Where were you at 1:30 p. m. that day? A.—At the northwest corner of Randolph and Michigan.

Q.—Did anything unusual happen? A.—Yes. I was purchasing a paper when a man ran by.

Q.—Do you know Paul Thorne [defense witness]? A.—I met him that day.

Sees Thorne After Shooting.

Q.—When and where? A.—About 45 minutes later, at the office of the publishing company.

Q.—Did you discuss what had happened? A.—Yes.

Q.—What did he tell you? A.—He said he was one-half a block from the mouth of the tunnel when the shooting occurred and unable to give a description of the man who ran out.

After a whispered conference defense attorneys announced that they would not cross-examine the witness.

The testimony of John Lane, the police stenographer, and of Capt. John Stege, concerning the police statement made by Pasquale Clarizio, followed.

Capt. Gilbert Called.

Police Captain Daniel A. Gilbert was the next witness. The questioning was by Prosecutor Brooks:

Q.—Do you know Harry O'Connor [defense witness]? A.—Yes. I've known him for 10 years.

Q.—Do you remember O'Connor telling you in my presence that he was 10 feet from the west entrance of the tunnel when the shooting occurred and not 10 feet from the east entrance? A.—Yes. Stein and Kane were with him.

Q.—Who turned in the names of Stein and O'Connor? A.—I did.

Q.—Did they both tell you that they were so far away that they couldn't identify anybody? A.—They did.

"Couldn't Identify Any One."

Q.—Was O'Connor asked to come out here [to the Criminal courts and jail building] and view Brothers? A.—Yes, and he said it would be useless; that he couldn't identify any one.

Q.—Did you subsequently talk to Stein? A.—Yes. I brought him to the Temple building.

Q.—Did Stein ever tell you he was only 10 feet from the east entrance? A.—No. He said he was with the two others at the bottom of the west stairway.

Q.—Did he come to this building to view Brothers? A.—Yes. He said Brothers answered the description as to height but he wasn't sure of the face because he was so far away.

Attorney Piquett cross-examined Capt. Gilbert.

Q.—You're sure he didn't say he was 10 feet from the east stairway? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Didn't Stein say the man was 5 feet 10 inches tall? A.—No, he said he was 6 feet tall, taller than I, O'Connor said also he was 6 feet tall.

Joyner Is Next Witness.

Policeman Fred E. Joyner of the state's attorney's office was called as the next rebuttal witness. He told of an interview with Mrs. Helen M. Whitehurst [defense witness] at her home at 11247 South Campbell avenue.

Q.—Tell us the circumstances of that visit of yours. A.—Mr. Roche sent us out to bring in Mrs. Whitehurst for questioning. She asked first for a warrant and I told her it wasn't an arrest, just a request to come in and be questioned. Then she called her attorney, saying she didn't want any notoriety, although I told her there would be none. The lawyer said it was all right for her to go with us and she dressed to go out, then changed her mind again. She said Mr. Roche hadn't done anything about the murder of her cousin in a mysterious fire and that there was a $300,000 estate involved. She said she wouldn't go down to be questioned by him.

Q.—Did you ever manhandle Mrs. Whitehurst. A.—No, sir.

Roche Placed on Stand.

Patrick Roche, chief investigator for the state's attorney, whose name had been mentioned by the defense in cross-examination more than a hundred times, was placed on the stand by the state.

Q.—What is your occupation? A.—Chief investigator for the state's attorney of Cook county.

Q.—And before that? A.—Special agent for the intelligence unit of the United States government.

Q.—For how long? A.—Ten years.

Q.—Did you ever tell Paul Thorne that he would be a star witness? A.—No, sir.

BROOKS' ARGUMENT

Prosecutor Brooks began his closing argument on the same quiet note which had characterized his examination of witnesses. Later on he was to raise his voice in a vigorous emphasis of his statements, but his first words were serious and his expression sober.

"Gentlemen of the jury," he began, "I think that I should first read to you that section of the Illinois law pertaining to murder. (He read the definition of the term.) And I will also read to you the indictment in this case against Leo V. Brothers, alias Bader, alias Louis Bader, alias Buster, for the murder of Alfred J. Lingle.

"Now, I wish you men of the jury to go back with me a few days to the time when we first met. You will remember that I asked you then to look to the truth in this case.

Looking for the Truth.

"You have heard suggestions and insinuations of a frame-up in this case. You promised me when you were selected as jurors that you would stand by the evidence. Let us get back to that frame of mind. We are looking for the truth then, now, and all the time.

"Have I been truthful with you in everything I have presented for your consideration? Did I not tell you that certain witnesses for the state had received some help from the state? Did I, in my opening statement, hide anything from you or state anything that was not subsequently proven from the stand?

"Only in one immaterial instance did the state fail to present evidence which was promised in the opening statement. That was in the case of Miss Rose Huebech, who would have told you the unessential facts concerning the arrest of this defendant.

The Defense Promises.

"But what have we had from the other side? They charged a frame-up, dishonesty, trickery of all kinds against the state's attorney.

"They said they would show you the type of man this defendant is. They didn't do it, did they?"

Prosecutor Brooks' voice rose to a higher key as he flung this rhetorical question at the jury. Defense attorneys jumped to their feet with objections. Such statements constituted a reference to the fact that the defendant did not take the stand, a reference not permitted by the law, they contended. But Judge Sabath ruled that a comparison might be made between the promises made by the defense in its opening statement and the actual evidence presented.

Questions for the Jury.

"They told you they would bring in witnesses who would tell you who this man is and what he is. Did they do it? They said they would show a frameup against this man. Have they shown it?

"They told you they would show that this man, Brothers, lived an ordinary life; that he knew no hoodlums.

TO INSTRUCT JURY

JUDGE JOSEPH SABATH.

They said they'd lay his life bare before you. Have they done so?"

"You men are engaged in a public service at this time," he said. "And I am a public servant. I am proud to make my accounting to the state. We have worked hard and honestly in presenting our evidence.

"The defense has had every opportunity to present its side of the case. They have been given leave to examine every one of our witnesses before they took the stand. The only witness of theirs that we talked to was the fiction writer, Thorne, a man who writes and talks fiction equally at ease.

"You cannot find any one who can say that I told them to tell anything but the truth about this case.

"From experience I know that no sane, normal man, even though he be a criminal, will come into court, raise his hand to God and swear that a man is guilty when he is not positive, especially when the defendant's life is in danger. He knows the consequences to the man from a false identification and he won't do it.

Points to Eight Witnesses.

"Eight persons have come in here and told you positively that this is the man at the murder scene that day, who ran away. You must go a long way to find men to come in and testify—they don't want to do it in a case like this.

"The defense has shouted about the reward. But there's more reward offered by organizations other than this paper that the murdered man worked for than by the paper itself. And by no interpretation of the law that I know of can any of these witnesses for the state share in that reward.

"Now, on this bright sunshiny day in June that the murder was committed, many persons were on their way to the races. The victim in this case was walking through that subway when suddenly some coward—he must have been a coward—put a gun to the back of his head, at the base of the brain, and fired.

No Parade for Sympathy.

"In passing I might point out to you that I haven't tried to curry your favor by parading relatives of the dead man to excite your sympathy. I want you to judge this case like men. No citizen is safe if we can't take 12 men from the cross-sections of life and present the evidence to them. The state must be fair and the state is fair.

"Now in their opening statement the defense said there was a witness to the shooting, one McCann by name, who was dropped by the state like a hot cake when it found that he could not identify Brothers. Have they presented a single bit of proof of that statement? It was just a sample of the poison they have tried to introduce in this case to influence you.

"This murder was committed by a single shot—a shot that went around the world. The search for witnesses began. It was harder to find them than to find the murderer. And that was for the reason that never in the history of Cook county were so many efforts made to distort every bit of evidence.

"A poison fog of enmity was thrown out across the scene of the murder. The state's attorney was called a framer. Pat Roche was called a framer. But every one of you men has looked me in the eye and told me you won't think of it.

EXAMINING THE EVIDENCE

"Let us look the evidence over.

"Warren Williams was the first witness. We did not try to hide his connections with Roche. You saw Roche here on the stand. Do you think any one connected with him could be a framer?

"Williams had lost his job and was looking for work. He was standing on the corner, watching the crowd. He heard a muffled report. He didn't know then that there had been a murder. Then he saw a man come running across the street. The man jumped back to avoid being hit by an automobile and his face was full in the sun. Williams showed no hesitation in pointing to Brothers as the man.

"They told you Brothers was playing golf all summer and swimming on the beaches. Have you ever seen sun bleached hair? Keep that in mind when the color of the defendant's hair is talked about.

"Williams was a valuable witness. He was the one man to look at suspects and identify the murderer. He was put on a payroll by Roche, not a private payroll, but the public payroll of the county. We told you that; we didn't try to hide it. It was the truth. And the whipsaw of cross examination could not make him swerve from the truth.

"Williams was the man who was taken to identify Brothers before the grand jury. Why? Because he was in bed sick when Brothers was arrested and had read nothing about the case. He took one look at Brothers and said: 'That's the man.'

"Now take the case of little Otto Swoboda. He's a married man, father of six children, a typical cook, temperamental, prone to throw up a job, but as honest as his face, and you men have seen him.

"I think one part of his testimony revealed the true nature of the man. That was where he told of saving the crumbs from his sandwich for the pigeons. Such a man could not falsely accuse another. It isn't in his makeup.

Incident of the Cigaret.

"That day, June 9, he was at the public library. That was where he spent his time, when not looking for a job. You didn't find him in any hoodlum's hangout. He ate his sandwich and stood on the steps, smoking a cigaret.

"He noticed a man drop a whole cigaret and not pick it up. That was unusual. He was broke at the time and a whole cigaret meant something to him. He saw the man, who kept one hand in his pocket, draw out another cigaret and stick it in his lips.

"Then a second man came over and lighted the cigaret for him. Swoboda was attracted by this unusual little scene.

"He walked down the steps and started through the tunnel. A man brushed by him, knocking his cigaret out of his hand. Swoboda turned angrily and as he says: 'Gave the man a good look.'

"He says he saw two moles on the man's face. Again, as he says, 'I'd know that face so long as I live.' When Swoboda spoke, you knew the truth was fairly jumping out of him.

He Points at Brothers.

"When you notice a man, you don't see his shirt or his tie or his hatband, but his face. And it is this defendant's face and the character it shows [pointing at Brothers] that has put him in this chair."

Attorney Harry Cantwell of the defense objected to this last statement and it was ordered stricken by Judge Sabath. Prosecutor Brooks continued:

"It was weeks later that Swoboda, watching a ball game in Grant park, got into a conversation with some men. He had noticed a picture of Frank Foster in the paper and a story telling of Foster's arrest in connection with this case, and he told the men that the picture was not that of the murderer. The murderer, he said, had two moles on his face, just like this defendant here.

"A policeman told him to go to THE TRIBUNE and there he was told to go to Roche's office and tell what he knew. He did so, just like a good citizen. If there were 3,000,000 more such men as little Otto Swoboda in this town we could go to sleep nights.

"When Swoboda first looked at Brothers he said: 'See, there are the moles!'

"He had a chance in succeeding months to get jobs out of town but

LOUIS PIQUETT.

Roche told him to stay here, that he was needed. And he received from Roche altogether about $300. Is that framing? You can't think so if you remember how sad Swoboda was when he said on the witness stand: 'If I know I had to go through all this, I'd never be here.'

Campbell Is Careful.

"Campbell is the next witness. He is not the type that wants to wrongly accuse anyone. He was careful. He said: 'Brothers answers the description of the man I saw.' But the defense pushed him a bit and said: 'You can't say positively that Brothers is the man?' and then Campbell answered: 'Yes, that is the man.'

"I've been proud of these witnesses who got on the stand. They told their stories. They looked you in the eye and told you.

"Another thing is that none of these witnesses knew each other. They were strangers and none knew what the other was to say.

"Take the witness, Mills. He was a boy who worked his way through Northwestern university. He perhaps would rather have a job other than driving a cab but the depression is on and one must do what he can. He is an honest fellow trying to grow up into a good citizen. He pointed at Brothers and said: 'That's the man who ran out of the tunnel.'

"He said the man was about his own height, six feet and one-half inch. He said the man's hair was light. He had a good look at him and he gave the word of an honest man. Any evidence of a frame there?

"Remember how he was asked if he hadn't said, 'We Northwestern men must stick together.' And he replied that he had jokingly remarked it to Attorney Krum but that he meant it only 'when a matter of duty wasn't involved.'

Applegate Sees Gun Dropped.

"They said they would prove Clark Applegate, the next witness, a tout. You saw and heard him. He is from Kentucky, a country of hospitality and fairness. He went into the race horse business. He gave his complete history and they've proved him a tout about as much as they've proved me a framer.

"He said he saw this man drop the gun. And, as he remarked a little later that afternoon at the race track: 'I'll remember that face in my sleep.'

"Of course, the state paid his expenses from Louisiana here. He was down there, away from all this turmoil. There was nothing for him to be afraid of. He could hardly be expected to pay his own way up here to involve himself in this case and perhaps alienate some of his friends. Race track people are not partial to persons who go into court and testify as witnesses.

The Oath of Father Reynolds.

"And Father Reynolds of Notre Dame. He obviously regarded his oath to tell the truth as much or more than any man who testified here. Yet you heard him testify concerning this defendant and the sheen on his hair. He went over and put his hand on the shoulder of Brothers when asked who was the man he saw that day.

"Marcus David told you that he was waiting for a bus. He said definitely that Brothers was the man who ran out of the tunnel. He is an ordinary working man but give me the common folks who are honest in this town and we won't have any persons living under assumed names.

"Kelfstrom, who told of selling a suitcase to Brothers shortly after the murder, is a man who has lived 30 years in one neighborhood. He saw this defendant hiding in a darkened hallway. He was pale, white.

"He transacted the business of the sale of the suitcase while this man kept out of sight of the street behind a large post. Then he ushered him to a lavatory and the man disappeared into a darkness which was to last a long time.

"And these witnesses saw the same man running from the murder scene. He was the man who dropped the gun. It is time for twelve men to rise up and see what's in this picture."

CANTWELL BEFORE JURY

Attorney Cantwell, the tall lawyer sent from St. Louis by a labor union to help in the defense of Brothers, opened the final arguments for the defense.

"Gentlemen," he said, "here is Diogenes [pointing to Brooks]. And here is the man on trial [pointing to Brothers]. You don't need Mr. Brooks to tell you whether those witnesses are lying. You are the judge of their credibility. Let us go into this list of witnesses.

"Warren Williams was an unemployed policeman who said he was leaning on a lamp post—not shown on this map, by the way. [The map of the scene of the murder was introduced before the jury when the presentation of evidence began.] He went down to the bureau of identification and looked through thousands of pictures. He was put on the pay roll—a policeman again.

Discusses Otto Swoboda.

"Do you think any man would do anything else than what he did in this court, in a situation like that? I don't think so. And Mr. Swoboda. Mr. Brooks feels sorry for him and I feel sorry for him, too, but in a different way. He has slept in some of the finest hotels and some of the lousiest flop houses.

"Those moles that he speaks of on Brothers' cheek. First, he remembered them on the chin, then on the cheek. Of course, he couldn't forget them altogether, although he saw them only 30 seconds. Yet he sat six feet from me and couldn't see a mole on my face.

"He said: 'I could never forget that face.' Yet he could not tell what color eyes a man had that he was with for thirty hours.

"I don't say that any one lied. I say that some of them erred and erred humanly. Mr. Brooks says that it is hard to get a man to come in here and point a finger at Brothers and say: 'That's the man.' Yes, it is hard to do that when it is not the man.

Campbell and Mills.

"Now, Mr. Campbell. I think it best that we should pass over Mr. Campbell. Mr. Mills was the next witness. He said he had been parked in his Yellow cab in the no parking zone. Yes, he testified. He said: 'Yes, that's the man.' Yet he didn't know what color hair or suit the man had. And no one else saw that cab parked at the place where buses stop. No other state's witness saw it.

"Consider Mr. Applegate, the big race horse owner. He wasn't a tout, was he? He admitted giving his 'candid opinion' on the horses to others. He was the only witness the state could find who was actually there at the shooting. And it was shown that he was a good friend of Pat Roche. They bet on the races together.

"But where is Mrs. Applegate, his wife? Why didn't she testify here? Applegate says he saw Brothers drop the gun and he is the only one who says that. It seems unusual when you remember the great amount of money spent in improper investigation of this case that Applegate was the only actual eyewitness they could find.

Commends Father Reynolds.

"Now they bring in Father Reynolds to throw a halo of dignity around the group of trained seals they have already produced. Father Reynolds did not say Brothers was the man. He pointed him out as the man he had previously seen at the showup in the hotel.

"All he could say was that Brothers answered the description of the man who ran from that scene. I dare say there are 300,000 persons in this city who answer that description.

"Moreover, Father Reynolds had sinus trouble, and everybody knows that that affects the optical nerve. He is to be commended as the only state witness who was honest and truthful in this case.

"Poor Policeman Ruthy! A man who was actually crazy could not have acted as insane as he has acted in this case. By putting him on the stand the state served notice to every policeman in Chicago not to run after a murderer.

"Kelfstrom, the trunk salesman, had a peculiar mentality. He could identify nothing but the face of this defendant. He couldn't remember anything about his clothing. Marcus David identified this man because he is a neat dresser and the man David saw that day was, as he put it, 'a very classy dresser.'

The Defense Witnesses.

"Now consider the witnesses we have produced. One after another they said positively: 'That is not the man,' when Brothers was brought before them. They were positive. Stein called the man he had seen a Scandinavian blond. I ask you to look at this defendant's hair.

"If, as Mr. Brooks said, the sun might have bleached his hair, then it would likewise have tanned his face. And Kelfstrom testified that this man was very pale when he saw him.

"And who can say that Mrs. Wilson lied in her testimony? You saw her demeanor, her attitude. The state very quietly avoided much attempting to impeach her. Mrs. Whitehurst, the other woman witness, was positive that the man she saw come out of the tunnel was not Brothers.

"The judge will instruct you that if a reasonable doubt exists as to the guilt of this defendant, you are to acquit him. Mr. Brooks says you men are the bulwark against crime in this community. I say you are also a bulwark against depriving a man of his liberty. If ever a reasonable doubt was put into a case, it is in this case. You cannot take a man's liberty on such evidence as this."

PIQUETT BEGINS

Attorney Piquett for the defense spoke briefly before the close of court for the day and will conclude this morning.

"The great question here," he shouted at the jury, "is who killed Jake Lingle and why. Find the motive of this prosecution. Is it a prosecution by the state's attorney or by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE?"

Objections by the state to this query were sustained and the remark was ordered stricken.

"I tell you that they haven't shown the motive in this case," continued Attorney Piquett. "After eight months' investigation by that master psychologist and detective, Pat Roche, they haven't told us that. Who killed Jake Lingle and why? That is the question. This is the most gigantic frameup since the crucifixion of Christ."

JUDGE DEMANDS GRAND JURY QUIZ IN BANK FAILURE

The state's attorney's office was criticized by Superior Judge Robert E. Gentzel yesterday when he held Alex Flower, chairman of the board of the closed Roosevelt-Bankers State bank, to the grand jury on a charge of larceny by bailee. The judge said he was amazed at the failure of the state's attorney to take action against officials of the bank.

"If the state's attorney does not act within 30 days, I will," Judge Gentzel told Assistant State's Attorney James L. Henry, whom he had summoned to the courtroom. "Either the matter will be investigated by the regular grand jury or I will ask Chief Justice McGoorty to appoint a special grand jury to investigate.

"The officials of this bank are notoriously dishonest. I have found during the hearing before me that the 20,000 depositors, most of them Negroes, will be fortunate to get ten cents on the dollar."

The charge against Flower was brought by the Glenwoodie Country club. It was alleged that $50,000 worth of the club's bonds had been converted by Flower to his own use.

REPORT BURKE READY TO PLEAD GUILTY TO KILLING IN MICHIGAN

Benton Harbor, Mich., April 1.—[Special.]—Fred Burke, held in Berrien county jail, today was reported ready to plead guilty to murder charges here.

Attorney Charles W. Gore, counsel for Burke, and a former prosecutor of Berrien county, made an announcement to this effect following a conference with Burke at the jail today.

Gore denied reports, quoting him as saying Burke would plead for mercy at his trial on the ground he was intoxicated when he shot Policeman Skelly here following a traffic accident in which Burke and Forrest Kool Buchanan, Mich., farmer, became involved.

Kool is being kept in seclusion. He has expressed fears for his safety.

Gore will not reveal by whom he was retained to represent Burke, neither denying nor affirming he was employed by Burke's latest 20 year old wife in Missouri.

SEIZE FAKE DRY OPERATIVES AS EXTORTIONISTS

Two men posing as federal dry agents, who, it is charged, helped shake down roadhouse owners for about $10,000, were arrested yesterday by county highway police under Lieut. Lester Laird. The men are: Charles La Fata, 25 years old, of Cincinnati, living at the McCormick hotel, and Frank Harris, 38, of Macon, Ga., living at the Berkshire hotel under the name of H. J. Morgan.

Federal authorities were notified and seized Miss Rose Kelly of Newport, Ky., and Martin Salzman at the Berkshire, and Miss Fay Murphy in La Fata's room at the McCormick. Harris and La Fata will be taken to the prohibition offices in the Transportation building this morning. Another man, Charles Lewis, who recently served a six months' federal sentence for impersonating a dry officer, is sought as the alleged leader of the band.

According to Lieut. Laird, Harris and La Fata were arrested in the roadhouse of Gus Steinke at State and Higgins roads when they demanded $2,000 hush money. They are also charged with trying to extort $1,500 from Peter Botaman, owner of a roadhouse 4 miles southwest of Des Plaines. On March 27, it is said, the two accompanied by two other men, demanded $2,000 at the Deer Grove tavern, and took $300.

PROBE RECORDS SEIZED IN OFFICE OF SERRITELLA

Jurors Hunt Evidence of Short Weight Plot.

The special and regular grand juries, working overtime, started yesterday to hear evidence in an investigation which, according to State's Attorney Swanson, will show that there exists an "organized system of cheating and short weighting" among merchants. Both grand juries worked until late in the night hearing the evidence of shopkeepers, who were called in to tell of the suspected conspiracy.

The offices of City Sealer Daniel A. Serritella, Capone lieutenant in the Thompson cabinet, were raided yesterday morning as the opening step in the investigation. Squads of state's attorney's detectives invaded the city hall shortly after 8 o'clock and took possession of Serritella's office. They seized all his records and took them to the Criminal Court building for perusal by the grand jury. Nearly thirty employes of Serritella's office were questioned before the grand juries.

Seek Immediate Evidence.

No immediate indictments are expected from the investigation, according to Assistant State's Attorney Harold Keele, who has charge of the inquiry. He explained that both grand juries were asked to work overtime to take evidence, so that no opportunity will be given to intimidate witnesses.

Serritella, whose department has charge of weights and measures regulations, was not present when the raiders took over his office nor did he appear later in the day to issue any statement on the situation. The prosecutors refused to say whether they had any definite evidence to link Serritella personally with the suspected conspiracy, but said:

State's Attorney Swanson said that hundreds of thousands of dollars have been taken from the pockets of the working people through the system. It is alleged that certain merchants were allowed to alter their scales so as to give short weights. He said that his attention was called to the situation two months ago by the better business bureau and that his assistants had been working secretly ever since. He said the facts presented in the original statement seemed "incredible," but that investigation had verified them.

Statement by Swanson.

"I was told that there was an organized system of cheating and short weighing and that this was in some cases voluntary and in other cases involuntary," said Mr. Swanson's statement. "I was further told that it was particularly vicious in so far as it concerned the working classes.

"The facts that have been obtained so far seem to warrant the conclusion of an organized system of shakedowns. We are not yet in a position to indicate how long this has been going on. But hundreds of thousands of dollars have been mulcted from the pockets of our working people and the evidence brought by a large staff of temporary investigators, both men and women, all corroborate the allegations made."

Nearly 200 Before Juries.

Under Assistant State's Attorney Otho Fasig, 120 witnesses—mostly storekeepers and clerks—told their stories to the regular grand jury. More than 60 others, under Assistant State's Attorney Homer Dodge, testified before the special grand jury which is investigating graft.

It was alleged that graft amounting to many hundreds of thousands of dollars had been levied on small merchants during the last four years. The graft pressure, it was said, was especially heavy preceding elections. Where merchants gave honest weight, investigators would exact tribute by threatening prosecution for short weight, it was charged.

The prosecutors' raiders did not confine themselves to the city hall raid, but also took possession of the records of Maxie Eisen's fish dealers' union. Eisen was not arrested, although subpoenas were issued for officials of his union. They are to be questioned.

Hunt Evidence of Threats.

It was indicated at the state's attorneys' office that the prosecutors were in search of evidence to show that Eisen, a west side labor racketeer, had the coöperation of the city hall department in driving fish dealers into his union under threats of short weight prosecutions.

Prosecutor Keele said that the investigation was confined to merchants handling foodstuffs, but that it would be broadened to take in such fields as the coal industry. He said he had information to show that on loads of 10 tons, patrons in some cases had been cheated by 2,500 pounds.

City Hall Conference.

After a conference in the office of First Assistant Corporation Counsel James W. Breen, it was rumored that the city hall officials had decided to go into court and ask for the return of the records on the charge that they were illegally seized.

Those at the conference, it was reliably reported, decided to recommend to the mayor that he take away city policemen assigned to Prosecutor Swanson's office in retaliation for the raid. It was also agreed, it was said, that a resolution should be introduced in the state senate calling for a legislative investigation of the prosecutor's office. Serritella is a state senator in addition to holding the city hall job.

A NIGHT LETTER from Ring Lardner

Tucson, Ariz., April 1.—[Special.]—Have just received another letter from Willis Clough, whom you may recall as the young Tucson semi-pro pitcher that joined the Pittsburgh baseball club for a tryout at his own expense. He writes from Los Angeles:

"Will know by tomorrow if Pittsburgh is going to keep me on their staff as Manager Ens has promised to talk to me and see if we can come to terms.

"Paul Waner was reading in the paper today where a motion pitcher director name Luther Reed was sewing his wife for a bill of divorce because when they was on their honeymoon at Agua Caliente she got mad and throwed a lot of silver dollars in his face and rest of his body.

"She has sewed him right back on grounds of him being cruel and Paul Waner says that if she wins the suit he ought to buy himself a catcher's mitt and protector and mast and pay her the alimony in silver."

Teachers' Pay to Use All of Available Cash Today

The educational fund of the board of education will be entirely depleted today following the payment of $3,775,000 for teachers' salaries, it was announced yesterday by Harry H. Brackett, school auditor, who forecast payless pay days for school employes if efforts of the board to sell 1930 tax anticipation warrants are not successful soon. A $400,000 civil service pay roll was met yesterday, Brackett said. This amount is due again in the middle of April. The next pay day for teachers falls on the first of May.

DISINHERITED SON OF CAPITALIST DIES IN FLAMES

Gifts Left to Charity by Henry D. Laughlin.

The will of Henry D. Laughlin, former Chicago capitalist and once president of the Great Northern Hotel company, was filed for probate yesterday, two hours after a son, Elmyr Laughlin, whom the father had cut off with $1 in his will, was found burned to death in a barn on his farm near Oregon, Ill. Another son, Randolph Laughlin, a lawyer of St. Louis, was also disinherited because of a dispute dating back to 1916. The estate of Henry D. Laughlin is valued at $175,000.

The elder Laughlin, formerly a judge in the Superior court at St. Louis, died on March 21, in his summer home near Ashland, Wis. He was 83 years old. He was for 20 years president and chief stockholder of the Great Northern hotel. He sold his interest in the hotel in 1926. Before coming to Chicago he had been a practicing attorney and real estate dealer in St. Louis.

Based on Legal Dispute.

His will, filed with Mitchell C. Robin, clerk of the Probate court, cut off Elmyr and Randolph Laughlin with $1 each, because, according to the will, of a legal quarrel started by them 15 years ago. The dispute centered on attachment proceedings begun by the two sons, it was said, to get control of their father's property.

The most of the estate is left under the terms of the will to a third son, Robert Laughlin of Chicago, the remainder being divided among two grandchildren, several business associates, and four charitable institutions.

Early yesterday morning Elmyr Laughlin's wife and three children awakened in their home to find the barn on their estate north of Oregon in flames. Laughlin was not missed at that time and his absence was not discovered until his charred body was found near an automobile in the ruins of the barn.

One automobile had been driven out of the barn and it was believed that Laughlin had returned to run the other car out, when he was trapped. Whether he knew the contents of his father's will could not be determined.

Inventor of Railway Devices.

The dead man was reputed to have been wealthy. He was the inventor of railroad appliances. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Elizabeth Laughlin, and three children, Henry and Elmyr Jr., and Mrs. George Mix, none of whom was mentioned in the will of the elder Laughlin.

Among the bequests in Henry Laughlin's will was one of $5,000 to the city of Chicago. The will says: "Chicago, whose broad spirit of come along, a spirit found everywhere when I first came here a quarter of a century ago, which has grown with the city's growth, now prompts a bequest at the end of my humble career, appropriately to return a portion of the natural benefits she has bestowed to the people among whom I have lived."

Other bequests include: Robert Laughlin, $50,000; Mrs. Robert Laughlin, $25,000; Chicago Woman's shelter, $10,000; St. Joseph hospital of Ashland, Wis., $5,000; Principia college, St. Louis, $5,000; Northland college, Ashland, Wis., $5,000, and $35,000 in trust to two grandchildren, Robert Laughlin Jr. and Elizabeth L. Laughlin, daughter of Randolph Laughlin.

Friends and business associates of Mr. Laughlin are left approximately $20,000. The will says that Mr. Laughlin's widow, Mrs. Ora B. Laughlin, had been made beneficiary of a $100,000 trust fund prior to the execution of the will.

LINER COLLIDES WITH WARSHIP; SEVERAL KILLED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 1.—A number of members of the crew of the French liner Florida were killed and others were seriously injured when that ship collided with the British aircraft carrier Glorious in a dense fog about sixty miles off Gibraltar today.

The 500 passengers aboard the steamship, which was bound from Buenos Aires to Genoa, were taken aboard the warship, which then took the disabled liner in tow. Cruisers and destroyers stood by in case further assistance was required. The Glorious was not extensively damaged, but the Florida was badly battered.

The admiralty in an official announcement at midnight said that "as far as can be determined no passengers were killed or seriously injured."

Demonstration Will Be Staged Saturday.

Arrangements were completed yesterday for the women's parade and massmeeting for Cermak to be held in the loop on Saturday afternoon as the principal demonstration of women of all parties who seek a change in the city hall. Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, chairman of the women's independent committee, announced the program.

Following the massmeeting in the Auditorium theater at 2 o'clock, the women will form in a parade on the lake front plaza at Van Buren street at 4 o'clock. Slogan signs, banners, and floats are to be in the procession, which will be headed by Brig. Gen. John V. Clinnin. Two hundred women leaders of the fifty wards will act as marshals. The line of march will be north on Michigan avenue and west on Washington street to the county building. Here a committee of the women will present Mr. Cermak with resolutions pledging their support.

Reserve Boxes for Chairmen.

The tiers of boxes in the Auditorium theater, famous as the golden horseshoe of opera days, will be filled with ward chairmen and their workers The speakers will be Mr. Cermak, Francis X. Busch, Coroner Bundesen, Judge Harry M. Fisher, Miss Harriet Vittum, and Mrs. Fairbank. Mrs. George Bass will preside.

Among the women's Cermak meetings yesterday was a tea for Republican women at the Woman's City club given by Mrs. Willa B. Laird and Mrs. Arthur Sullivan. Mrs. Elizabeth A. Conkey, Mrs. Fairbank, James Weber Linn, and Mrs. Morrisson were the speakers.

"Keep Working," Is Plea.

Cermak supporters were urged to continue their campaigning "until the votes are counted" by speakers last night at a dinner for Mr. Cermak in the Congress hotel. The affair was sponsored by the women's independent committee for Cermak. Among the speakers were Senator Lewis, Col. A. A. Sprague, Prof. Charles Merriam, and Judge Henry Horner.

At the Drake hotel a musical and political meeting was held for Mr. Cermak attended by 2,500 voters of the Forty-second and Forty-third wards.

Moir, of Fire Engine company 44, was recommended for the Lambert Tree medal for 1930. He rescued a man from a fire in a building at 2937 Warren boulevard on Nov. 29, 1930.

BANDITS TERRIFY 15 IN HOSPITAL; FLEE WITH $1,000

Two armed bandits invaded the lobby of the Franklin Boulevard hospital, 3230 Franklin boulevard, yesterday, terrorized fifteen visitors and three employés, and stole $1,000.

One of the bandits was armed with a shotgun and wore horn rimmed glasses. He and his accomplice entered the lobby and ordered the men and women inside to remain quiet.

While the shotgun armed robber stood guard, the second man, carrying a revolver, walked behind the office desk. He threatened Miss Harriet MacBride, the manager; Miss Isabelle Moran, the switchboard operator, and Miss Florence Hass, the bookkeeper, and forced them to open a wall vault. The money was taken and the pair escaped.

REED'S CRUELTY CHARGES DENIED BY JOCELYN LEE

Los Angeles, Cal., April 1.—(AP)—Testifying in her divorce suit, Jocelyn Lee, red haired film actress, today said slappings given her husband, and objects hurled in his direction, were entirely justified as self-defense measures. Miss Lee denied all accusations made in court by her husband, Luther Reed, film director.

She declared she never called Reed a bad name. Strong words about the house were used by her husband, not by her, she testified.

Miss Lee's face was almost hidden by a large flop hat. She told Judge Robert Sproul the light hurt her eyes, and she spoke just above a whisper because of a sore tooth.

"If I can't hear you there's no use having a trial," said the judge.

The contested divorce action has been on trial for three days. Reed's main testimony regarded a marital fight at Agua Caliente, and his claim of cruelty was largely based on the incident. Reed testified he and his wife were thrown out of the hotel because of a disturbance she caused.

THESE SENATORS "HELL RAISERS" TO A NEBRASKAN

Laguna Beach, Cal., April 1.—[Special.]—Senators Norris, Borah, Brookhart, and La Follette were referred to here today by former Lieut. Gov. George A. Williams of Nebraska as "the most accomplished hell-raisers the world has ever seen."

Speaking before the Businessmen's club on "the advantages of civil government under the American constitution," Williams asserted, "It would be a lot better for the country at large if the people of their respective states should call these senators back home."

"If the good people of America would band together they could have any kind of government they want," Williams declared, deploring that "the forty-five per cent who vote at the primaries include most of the dissolute, criminal, and vicious element."

CATCH ROBBERY SUSPECTS IN RACE WITH "L" TRAIN

Two robber suspects were arrested last night in a race between a police squad and an elevated train. The prisoners, who deny any crime, are Forest Martin, alias Miller, 27 years old, and Edward Conley, 28 years old, both of 5221 Woodlawn avenue.

The cause of their arrest dates back to the robbery on March 6 of Merle D. Hansen, insurance agent. Hansen was visiting Mr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Gavin at 8518 South Elizabeth street when two men took $22.50 from him in a holdup in the Gavin apartment.

Last night Hansen was riding in a north bound Jackson park elevated train. He saw Conley and Martin and recognized them, he said, as the bandits. He alighted from the train at the 55th street station and notified police. A radio alarm was flashed and Sergt. Chris Callahan and his squad pursued the train, arresting the suspects at the 39th street and Indiana avenue station.

LABOR TO STAGE CERMAK RALLY IN LOOP TODAY

More Union Groups Urge His Election.

A Cermak union labor massmeeting will be held at noon today in the Apollo theater. Speakers will include Mr. Cermak, Judge John J. Sullivan, William F. Quinlan, president of the street car men's union; Lester G. Goudie, president of the teamsters' joint council; Peter J. Brady, candidate for city clerk; Col. A. A. Sprague, and Edward J. Kaindl, candidate for city treasurer.

The labor speakers will talk on the high tax situation as it affects wage earners. One hundred thousand letters have been sent to union members throughout the city describing the formation of the Cermak Union Labor club and giving the reasons for the Cermak indorsement. Another hundred thousand are being printed.

A copy of a resolution adopted by the Chicago Truck Drivers and Chauffeurs' union, endorsing Cermak was received at the offices of the labor club yesterday. The resolution stresses the economic situation of the city under the present régime, and points out that outside capital has lost confidence in Chicago.

Another organization to officially indorse Cermak during the day was the Molders' Conference board. The indorsement was signed by Martin Keefe, president, and Samuel Taylor, recording secretary. All expenses of the Cermak Union Labor club have now been defrayed by contributions from union men, it was announced at the headquarters. The club is nonpartisan and will be disbanded following the election.

CERMAK OPENS FIRE ON PUBLIC SCHOOL WASTE

Points to Trebled Cost of Education.

BY PARKE BROWN.

A. J. Cermak, Democratic nominee for mayor, took a new tack in his campaign last night by criticising the Thompson school board for trebling the cost of providing school facilities for the children of Chicago.

He swung into the south side with several big meetings, the largest of which was at the Trianon ballroom, where he appealed to taxpayers of Hyde Park and Englewood to put an end to the extravagances of the present administration. Other speakers at these meetings were United States Senator Lewis and Minority Leader Igoe of the Illinois house of representatives.

Cites Campaign Pamphlet.

Cermak based his criticism on the Thompson campaign pamphlet, which was issued in the guise of an annual report of the board of education. He said the multicolored printing job cost $41,000 and said that such expenditures may account for the higher cost of public school facilities under Thompson.

"This is a political pamphlet issued in the guise of an annual report, although the present school board has not issued an annual report for the last two years. It looks more like a color supplement to a newspaper than an accounting to the taxpayers for the disbursement of their funds, which is what a report should be."

The pamphlet contains pictures of a large number of public schools, and Cermak has pointed out that it also includes beautiful pictures of Chicago university, Northwestern university, Loyola university, and Armour institute, as if these institutions of learning were produced by the Thompson administration.

Set Cost Record, Claim.

"Of course, there has to be a little reading matter around the pictures," continued the Democratic nominee, "so it is stated without any supporting statistics that the board has made a 'record of achievements unparalleled in the history of Chicago.'

"We all will agree that it is unparalleled, for the records of the board show that it has cost three times as much to provide a new seat for a school child than ever before in the history of the United States of America.

"The present board of education says it has spent $59,000,000 in the last four years and provided seats for 71,600 children. But its own records, which have been withheld from the public, show that there has been $57,-000,000 expended for sites and buildings and that only 32,900 children have been provided with seats.

"This amounts to $1,736 per seat. Contrast this with the previous administration's record of providing seats for more than 86,000 children—considerably more than twice as many in the same length of time—at a cost of $46,000,000, which is $528 a seat.

Charges Political Waste.

"Is it any wonder, when you look at this record, that the city corporate and educational tax rates have gone skyward—from $3.15 up to $4.03—under the present city administration?

Greek Meets Greek

But there is no tug o' war between George and Danae Thomas of 500 South Halsted street, both are for Cermak for mayor. They attended the luncheon given at the Hotel Sherman yesterday, at which various national groups were represented.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

At the same time the Cook county tax rate has been slightly decreased."

Mr. Cermak went on to say that increases in the school tax rates would be justified if the proceeds were not diverted for political purposes. He said that if the cost per seat had been kept where it was under the Dever administration all of the present portables would have been done away with before now.

"Yet there are in use in our public school system today 600 portables in connection with 80 different schools although the administration would have you believe that a search warrant is necessary to find them.

"The official lists published by the board itself show that there are 47 portables at the Lane school, 14 portables at the Bowen school, 8 portables at the Crane school, and so on down the list of the 80. At some schools such as the Herzl and Cregier, portables are used as lunchrooms.

38,700 Pupils in Portables.

"The record shows there are 38,700 pupils in portables, half day schools where they receive only part of the training of the full period to which they are entitled. And this number is only 10,000 less than the number when the present mayor took office four years ago."

In some of his evening speeches and also over the radio, State Representative Igoe condemned the Thompson appeals to racial and religious prejudice.

"Driven to desperation by the turning of the tide of public opinion," Igoe said, "the opposition has resorted to its old tactics of dragging in creed and color, race and religion, to confuse the true issue of public well being through hatreds, antagonisms, and the evil passions of men.

Plea for Americanism.

"Thirteen years ago, on the western front, when the barrage lifted and the long olive drab lines leaped over the top to drive against the foe, the question of former nationality or ancestry did not arise.

"When the machine guns crackled and the steel splinters slapped there was no question whether the man on the left was Catholic or Protestant, of foreign extraction or a native son. When a man fell his comrades did not debate the hue of his skin before going to his assistance. They all were Americans, fighting a common foe, defending one country and working toward a single end.

"Now we must let no cause, purpose or group who would obtain their ends through the breaking down of Americanism to be installed as a part of our governing system."

The same subject was taken up at an afternoon meeting of officers of nationalistic societies representing American derivatives of twenty different nations held at the Hotel Sherman under the chairmanship of Congressman A. J. Sabath.

"In his desperate effort to save his doomed cause," read resolutions which were adopted," Thompson has cast aside all principles of decency and set out on a course calculated to arouse group hatreds and racial and religious prejudices. This he did deliberately and brazenly.

"The dissemination of the seeds of discord among the various groups constituting America's citizenry is a despicable assault upon the most sacred institutions of our country. We call upon all citizens to rally to the defense of these institutions and to express their disapproval of Thompson in a manner that will overwhelm him."

The meeting unanimously indorsed Cermak.

Thompson's best meeting during the day was at the Broadway armory in the evening but the hall was only two-thirds filled and it was noticeable that many persons walked out during the candidate's speech. At his noon meeting at the Princess theater Len Small, former governor, sat on the platform. Thompson spoke. As usual his speech was largely an attack on THE TRIBUNE and an appeal to the Jews, Irish, Germans, and Poles to vote against Cermak.

SEIZE A $20,000 WINE SHIPMENT AND ARREST TWO

Three hundred cases of imported wines were seized by special prohibition agents led by Assistant Chief Eliot Neff last night, as two men were shifting the cargo from a freight car to a truck on the Pennsylvania railroad team tracks at Taylor street. The wines were estimated to be worth $20,000 at bootleg prices.

The men with the truck were arrested. They are Bernard Luyest, 240 West 26th street, and John Fox, 3109 North Long avenue. Luyest, according to the agents, has been arrested for prohibition violations before, and is known as a member of the Ted Newberry gang.

A bill of lading showed that the wine had been loaded on the car at Buffalo and was described as electrical machinery.

CERMAK TO GET FIVE VOTES IN THIS FAMILY

The independent women's committee for Anton J. Cermak yesterday issued another of a series of interviews with women who are supporting Cermak for mayor. The committee is headed by Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank.

Miss Mary Corley, 1411 East 72d place, a cashier in a loop drug store, asked why she was going to vote for Cermak, said:

"My whole family's voting for Cermak. There are five voters in the family. I admit one reason we're doing so is because we're anxious to get rid of Thompson as a mayor. But aside from that, I think Cermak will make a good mayor."

COURT REFUSES TO PUT 6 NAMES BACK ON BALLOT

Avoids Reprinting at Cost of $30,000.

Judge Thomas Taylor of the Circuit court yesterday denied mandamus writs to compel the board of election commissioners to replace on the April 7 ballot the names of six minor candidates who had been barred by the board. The court ruling definitely clears the ballot of all mayoralty candidates except Mayor Thompson and A. J. Cermak.

Judge Taylor ruled that the petitioners had the right to bring suit in a court of equity, but he found that the additional cost and difficulty in reprinting the ballots outweighed the benefits which the petitioners would gain if he ruled in their favor.

Six Candidates Barred.

The mayoralty aspirants who had sought the aid of the court were Ernest Stout, American National party; John E. Sankstone, Better Government by Non-Coalition party, and John M. Collins, Socialist. Three other candidates for city offices on the Socialist ticket had also petitioned to force the printing of their names on the ballot.

Although the six filed notice of an appeal to the Illinois Supreme court the form of the ballot cannot possibly be changed as a decision from the higher court will not be handed down until after the election.

Before the case was settled Judge Taylor had overruled 23 demurrers to the petitions. A twenty-third demurrer, which said that the petitions were not valid because the six candidates had not filed separate petitions was sustained. Stout and Sankstone had joined in filing one suit and Collins and the other three Socialist candidates were joined in the other suit.

Not of Interest to Voters.

Attorneys for Collins then offered to strike the names of the other three men from their petition, but the judge halted the proceedings with his announcement that the interest of the petitioners was not comparable to that of the election commissioners and taxpayers. If the ballots had been ordered reprinted to include the additional names it would have cost an extra $30,000.

The election board had barred the names of the six entrants on grounds that their only claim to places in the race were caucus certificates of nomination.

A total of 6,088,900 baloits are being printed for the election, the board of election commissioners announced last night. This includes 5,646,900 official ballots and 442,000 specimen ballots.

Thief Has Head Start, but Policeman Sprinter Wins

A colored thief snatched the purse of Mrs. Minnie Smith of 7804 South Racine avenue as she left the home of her sister-in-law at 312 West 52d street, last night. Policeman Francis Mahoney of the Stockyards station, who was a block away, saw the theft and gave chase. Within three blocks he overhauled and collared the thief, who said he was Miles Bennet, 21 years old, of 5155 Wentworth avenue. "Say boss," Miles asked the policeman, "how come you catch me when I got such a head start?" Mahoney grinned. He has won the sprinting events in two police field meets.

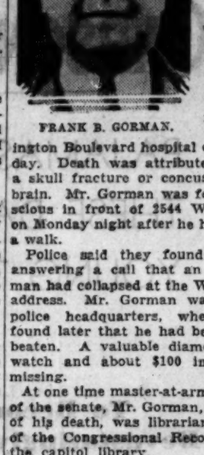
PROBE MYSTERY OF FORMER U. S. CLERK'S DEATH

The inquest into the death of Frank B. Gorman, 60 years old, for years a government attache at Washington, was continued until April 23 to allow time for a post mortem examination.



FRANK B. GORMAN.

Mr. Gorman, who was in Chicago visiting his brother, Philip Gorman, of 189 North La Vergne avenue, died in the Washington Boulevard hospital early yesterday. Death was attributed to either a skull fracture or concussion of the brain. Mr. Gorman was found unconscious in front of 2544 Wilcox street on Monday night after he had gone for a walk.

Police said they found him after answering a call that an intoxicated man had collapsed at the Wilcox street address. Mr. Gorman was taken to police headquarters, where it was found later that he had been severely beaten. A valuable diamond ring, a watch and about $100 in cash was missing.

At one time master-at-arms and clerk of the senate, Mr. Gorman, at the time of his death, was librarian in charge of the Congressional Record room at the capitol library.

A decrease of 15 per cent in the number of marriage licenses issued in the first three months of 1931, as compared to the corresponding period in 1930, was announced yesterday by Sidney Summerfield, chief clerk of the marriage license bureau. The total number of licenses issued since Jan. 1, 7,373 licenses issued during the three 7,373 licenses issued durng the three month period last year. Economic conditions were blamed for the reduction by Mr. Summerfield.

SEEK TO LINK DOPE SUSPECT WITH SLAYING

The police last night said they suspected that Joseph Condi, alleged head of a national dope ring, was involved in the murder of Max Tendler, who was shot to death on the street by two gunmen on Monday night. Government officials had revealed that Tendler was an informer and that he had given the information on which several dope raids were predicated, including the raids early yesterday morning in which Condi was seized and a large quantity of morphine, opium, and yen-shee was found by federal agents.

In raiding Condi's flat at 921 Eastwood avenue the police and government agents found two .45 caliber automatic pistols and a Lueger gun. One of the .45's had recently been fired and it was sent to Col. Calvin Goddard, ballistic expert of the Northwestern university crime detection department, for examination. Goddard was out of town and last night his assistant said tests had not yet been made to determine if the bullets taken from Tendler's body had been fired from Condi's guns.

Condi and his sweetheart, Lorraine Kirsch, were held in bonds of $7,500 each yesterday by United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker on charges of the possession and sale of narcotics.

QUAKE VICTIMS FLEE MANAGUA; FIGHT DISEASE

Marines Dig in Ruins for More Bodies.

BULLETIN.

Washington, D. C., April 1.—(AP)—The navy late tonight received a message that "additional severe" earthquake shocks were felt in Managua at 8:10 p. m. The message was received, the navy said, from the naval area commander at Balboa. It said simply that information coming from Managua told of the new shocks. No information as to the effect was contained in the message.

[Copyright: 1931: By the Associated Press.]

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, April 1.—Twenty-five thousand hungry, half-clad refugees camped tonight in the Nicaraguan hills overlooking the mass of smoking ruins which was their home until yesterday's earthquake laid this city waste.

COL. FREDERIC BRADMAN. [United States Marine Corps Photo.]

Officially there are 600 dead, but marines and volunteers still dig in the ruins tonight, bringing out bodies which had been buried since yesterday morning. The final death total is expected to reach the early estimate of 1,000. No one has attempted to count the number of injured, but that total probably will run into the thousands.

Hardly a House Standing.

Hardly a house is left standing, and those with walls still upright are so shaky they are likely to fall at the slightest tremor.

One such light earthshock was felt this afternoon, doubling the fear of the refugees who had been crowding the trains running out of the hills to Granada.

Others, fearing a recurrence of the quake, were begging automobile rides out of Managua. Some, carrying such belongings as they could salvage, trudged down the dusty roads, leaving the devastated city behind.

On the whole, however, the situation was under control. Last night looting began. One man was shot under the martial law and there have been no further reports of similar attempts.

Marines Work Day and Night.

United States marines worked all last night and all today, many of them without food. Col. Frederic Bradman directed the work himself, despite injuries received when a beam fell on him.

There was no water, for the water mains had burst at the first shock, and fighting the terrible fire which came on the heels of the earthquake was a hand to hand job. Many of the marines, striding into the flames, suffered loss of their shoes, which were burned off their feet, but they stayed on the job.

In an effort to check the march of the flames they started blasting, but it was hard work, for the flimsy houses of stick and adobe burned like tinder.

Gasoline Storehouse Explodes.

Once it seemed that the impossible had been accomplished. Then the flames licked up the walls of a storehouse where drums of gasoline were piled. The stuff exploded, hurling blazing brands over the area nearby and starting the fire afresh.

Late this afternoon the national palace, where the Nicaraguan congress sits and where the government records are kept, caught fire after every one had thought it was safe. The palace was only a pile of wreckage after the earthquake, but the debris roared into a blaze fanned by a stiff wind.

From the market place in the middle of the city 150 bodies have been taken. This was where the blow fell heaviest. As in most Latin cities, the housewives do their shopping in the morning at the central market. They were there when the first shock came. Most of the bodies were crushed beyond recognition.

Nearly All Prisoners Killed.

At the national penitentiary every prisoner, except a few who were in the yard, was killed. A hundred bodies have been taken out of the wreckage. Marines, aided by National Guardsmen, carried the bodies to a hill outside the city, where they were cremated while relatives stood by, struck dumb with grief.

In the midst of all this there rose the specter of a possible epidemic of disease. It was being fought off under the leadership of the United States navy.

Two airplanes from the Coco Solo air station at Cristobal, Panama, arrived this afternoon, each bringing 300 pounds of medical supplies and two physicians. Capt. A. D. Bernhardt, commanding officer at Coco Solo, came with them, then went back immediately for more supplies.

Many of the injured have been put up at the military headquarters of the marine corps.

There is no telephone communication and no water supply, but marines are bringing in water from Lake Nicaragua, which must be boiled before it can be used.

Despite their grief, the people today had turned already to the job of reconstruction. President José Moncada, working as hard as anybody, wasted no time mourning the disaster but asserted Managua would arise from its ashes as a modern city. He expressed deep appreciation for the help extended by the United States.

Matthew E. Hanna, United States minister, who was in Guatemala when the quake struck, was back on the job today.

Sufficient Supplies on Way.

Washington, D. C., April 1.—[Special.]—Sufficient emergency supplies to meet all immediate needs of the earthquake victims at Managua are on the way to the Nicaraguan capital, John Barton Payne, chairman of the Red Cross, informed President Hoover today.

Four warships and a number of smaller vessels are rushing army and navy aid to the stricken city. Seven naval planes arrived at Managua today, five from the U. S. S. Lexington, giant aircraft carrier, and two from Coco Solo, naval air station in the Canal Zone. All had on board doctors and medical supplies.

The Pan-American Airways through its president, J. T. Trippe, today placed all of its planes and facilities at the disposal of relief workers in the earthquake zone. In messages to the secretary of state and the acting secretary of the navy, Mr. Trippe said the company would rush all its available aircraft to Managua for relief duty. The offer was accepted at once and it was understood here that Matthew Hanna, American minister, was utilizing the planes.

Virtually all of the resident Americans at Managua are homeless. As there are virtually no habitable houses, Col. Bradman today recommended that the families of marines and American guardia officers be evacuated to the United States. The naval transport Chaumont, which is due at Corinto, the port of Managua, on Friday, will be used for this purpose.

Chicago Woman Safe.

New York, April 1.—(AP)—The Baptist Home Missionary societies today received word from Managua that all the buildings of the church in that city were ruined by the earthquake but that the entire personnel had escaped injury. The church workers have taken up quarters a mile from the stricken city, the radio advices said. They include Miss Phoebe Rice of Chicago and Miss Mary Mills, 31, of the Evansville First Baptist church of Evansville, Ind.

INJURED MARINE'S WIFE HERE.

Mrs. George Ochionero, 4644 North Rockwell street, wife of Gunnery Sergeant George Ochionero of the United States marine corps, yesterday was informed by newspaper dispatches that her husband had been injured in the Managua earthquake. With her daughter, Carol, 7 years old, she returned a month ago from a year spent with her husband in Massaya, Nicaragua, where he was acting chief of police.

Yesterday morning she received a letter from him saying he was leaving Massaya enroute to Corinto, from where he would leave for the United States to take a promotional examination. He was to spend one night in Managua, he wrote.

41 MURDER TOLL IN NEW YORK FOR MONTH OF MARCH

19 Classed as Victims of Gangland.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 1.—[Special.]—Forty-one persons were murdered in New York City during the month of March. Nineteen of the slayings were gangland executions. Ten other were directly connected with robbery or racketeering and the remaining eleven are classified as crimes of passion, personal grudges and murders by a degenerate.

Today's survey of last month's crime activities does not include murders followed by suicide, infanticide or suspicious deaths. In several cases victims were reported by police as "mortally wounded." They were not counted. Of the nineteen gang feud victims, four of the bodies were found across the Hudson river in New Jersey, two on Long Island and one in Westchester. Indications were that they had been taken there.

The Gotham Death List.

An explanatory list of the March death roll follows:

Killing attributed to gangland rivalry	19
Stickup men or bandits killed by police	5
Slain in personal disputes [not gangsters]	5
Torso victims of maniac slayer	3
Murders of jealousy	4
Killed by bandits	2
Unidentified murder victims	2
Police killed by bandits	1
Total for March	41

The 31 days of March were devoted to human target practice in the face of the greatest offensive against crime this city has ever undertaken. February had seen flare-ups in the old dock wars and unprecedented week-end crime waves and then, too, March almost had been ushered in by the Vivian Gordon murder.

The murder of the Gordon woman, which still is unsolved, occurred late in February and on March 1 police department orders placed an additional force of 8,500 patrolmen and detectives on street duty to augment the regular force of 6,000 men throughout the city. The sweeping order affected 14,500 of the department's total of 18,000 men, but apparently it did not greatly affect gangland.

Few in First of Month.

The first week in March saw six slayings, but only one of them directly concerned gangland. There was a lull in target practice, the next few days only three homicides being brought to the attention of the police. The remainder of the month, however, found the gunmen busy.

A flare-up of gangster shootings broke out in several sections of the city on March 23, when a woman was found strangled to death with a piece of wire in her Harlem apartment. A strange thread of coincidence appeared to connect several of the shootings that night. Two "union" organizers were found dead in a hallway and soon afterward an unidentified man was found dying in a nearby gutter. A comparison of bullets connected the three and the entire matter apparently was returned to the underworld for final settlement.

Gangland Accounts for 19.

It is of interest to note thae manner in which March's 19 gangland victims died. There were no "big shots" on the list—just run of the field gunmen. One racketeer died in Westchester of lead trouble as he sat in his front parlor. An informer was found dead on a Long island beach. Three others were shot to death and their bodies left in gutters. The deaths of the three "union" organizers has been recounted as has that of the Harlem woman. Two minor trigger men were picked up on Manhattan sidewalks and died with lips sealed in hospital beds. An 18 year old gunman bled to death outside a speakeasy. Another "union" organizer died of knife wounds in his back. Two gangsters met death as they slept in their beds (at least that is where they were found). Two others died fighting for their lives.

New York City has become the domain of the racket, of murder and of sudden death, but no great attention is paid to the passing of the lesser gangsters. It takes a big shot of the underworld to make page one in this town—there are too many political and vice inquiries in session to give space to the passing of a root of the evil.

CZARNECKI TAKES OATH FOR SECOND TERM AS COLLECTOR

Anthony Czarnecki was sworn in as collector of customs of the port of Chicago for the second four year term yesterday. The oath was administered by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson in the collector's office, which was filled with federal, state, county, and city officials and floral tributes.

Former Senator Charles S. Deneen was present for the ceremony and Mr. Czarnecki received telegrams of congratulations from Senator James Hamilton Lewis and Senator Otis F. Glenn. The collector expressed thanks to President Hoover, Senator Glenn, and former Senator Deneen for their confidence, which resulted in his reappointment, and also Senator Lewis, who once sponsored him for a consular post in Poland during the Wilson administration.

Last night Mr. Czarnecki was the guest of honor at a banquet tendered by Chicago customs officials and importers at the Traffic club.

YOU CAN'T CARRY RUM WITHOUT POSSESSING IT

Atlanta, Ga., April 1.—(AP)—The Georgia Court of Appeals held today that a person acquitted of possesing liquor may not be convicted under the same allegations of fact on a charge of transporting it.

The case was appealed from the Superior court by Ella Davis, who was tried in March, 1928. The two charges were heard by the same jury at one time. She was acquitted of possessing the liquor, but was sentenced to serve three months in prison or pay a fine of $75 for transporting it.

DUELISTS FIGHT FACE TO FACE IN DARK; BOTH DIE

New York, April 1.—[Special.]—In the dim light from passing trolley cars that trickled down a hundred feet into the canyon under Queensboro bridge, two men stood face to face, almost at arm's length, and poured shot after shot into each other until they fell with their cheeks touching. That is the way the police today reconstructed a double killing which probably occurred about midnight in South Jane street, Long Island City, and which was discovered at daybreak by a patrolman.

The two men, as identified by slips of paper in their pockets, were Zito Loscalzo and Patsy Citro. Their finger prints, sent to police headquarters, are being checked with the fingerprint files to see if they had criminal records.

It might have been a double murder and the bodies might have been arranged in the dark street under the bridge to look like a duel, but the police doubt it.

Patrolman Ralph Nocera of the Hunters Point station was patrolling the loneliest part of his beat just at dawn today when he came upon the bodies.

Mrs. Joseph L. Rategan

Keenly interested in the career of her husband, a member of the Illinois legislature, Mrs. Rategan, 4840 Washington Boulevard, accompanies him on his political trips whenever possible. "This requires real endurance, but Welch's gives me the strength to keep going," she says. "I began using Welch's to help keep my weight down. You know grapes are about the most nourishing of all fruits and yet they are absolutely not fattening. So Welch's became a mainstay of my diet. And it is perfectly amazing how much more strength and vitality I now have on a sensibly light diet with plenty of Welch's, than I had before on an unrestricted menu without Welch's. Even my complexion shows the benefits of my generally improved health."

For Sincere Hospitality

HERE'S a beverage perfectly designed by Mother Nature for healthful sociability. Let Welch's be the life of your party, for it contributes the conviviality of exuberant good health. Its quick energizing coolness stimulates good cheer with no depressing aftermath.

In the highlands of upper New York state, soil, water and sun combine to create this delightful beverage-tonic which stays hunger and satisfies thirst. Slightly laxative and non-fattening, it is so rich in vitalizing elements that many prefer it diluted with one-third to one-half water. Serve it tomorrow morning as a breakfast fruit. You'll find it wonderfully delicious!

1930 was a vintage year in the Westfield grape section. This means that today you enjoy an extra measure of that subtle bouquet, exotic flavor and lambent purple color which is the exclusive heritage of the Concord grape.

There are dozens of delightful ways to serve Welch's — both as a beverage and in a variety of desserts and frozen hot-weather dainties. The best plan is always to keep a generous supply in the pantry — convenient for impromptu entertaining and for preparing happy surprises for the entire family. Send for free recipe booklet containing valuable information for the thoughtful hostess.

Welch's "by-the-bunch" is now available in the 10c Junior, the new sampler size, convenient for a single serving. It is the concentrated goodness of one and a quarter bunches of full-ripe Concords. Ask for Welch's at leading fountains, hotels, clubs and restaurants. Include it in your diet for one month — then check results. The pint bottle at 30c is most economical for household use. Write for health-and-weight-control booklet. Welch's, Dept. CT-6 Westfield, N. Y.

JANE FILSTRUP, BENTON HARBOR, CROWNED QUEEN

Host City Blond to Reign Over Festival.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Benton Harbor, Mich., April 1.—(Special.)—Whoopee of an anything but mild description broke forth in the Liberty theater here tonight as the title of queen of the blossom festival of southwestern Michigan came home to one of the host cities.

Miss Jane Filstrup, 20, blonde and gray eyed, the radiant representative of Benton Harbor, won the honor for the 1931 season on the thirteenth ballot by a panel of seven jurors.

For the better part of an hour a lively contest had the citizenship of the twin cities—St. Joseph and Benton Harbor—biting its finger nails as the race narrowed down to their two contestees, with "Miss Kalamazoo," Miss Mildred Griffin, as the only distant. Miss Therese Briggs, the candidate from St. Joseph, was paired in the order of entry with Miss Filstrup and it seemed certain for a time that the choice would fall between them.

Wins on Thirteenth Ballot.

On the twelfth ballot, however, No. 11, as Miss Briggs was identified to the judges, was voted out, and a crescendo of moans from her enthusiastic townspeople in the audience signaled her departure. The judges were then called together from the various parts of the theater in which they were placed, and by unanimous consent singled out Miss Filstrup for the throne of blossom queen.

Members of the jury making the selection were strangers to all the thirty-four girls involved. They comprised Ben Bernie, orchestra leader; Frank Carideo, Notre Dame football star; Miss Marie Callahan of Chicago, editor of Modern Beauty Shop magazine; Mrs. Mildred Jaklon, society editor of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE; G. E. Collins, Chicago attorney; George Wintz, an associate producer with Florence Ziegfeld, and Carol Frink of the Herald and Examiner.

"Queen Jane," Her Title.

"Queen Jane," as the winner is entitled to be known henceforth, until her successor is picked a year from this time, has been admittedly the prettiest girl in her home town in recent years.

By her victory of this evening she is also recognized as the most beautiful of more than 700 girls in thirty-four Michigan communities participating in the competition, which is steadily growing in fame and importance throughout the country.

One week ago tonight she was selected on the same stage as "Miss Benton Harbor," defeating a field of more than forty of the most attractive misses the town affords. And that in an area where pretty girls seem to blossom as profusely as the orchards that provide at once the background and the basis for the annual fête.

Her Majesty Chicago Born.

She is the daughter of one of the oldest and best known families in Benton Harbor and has had the advantages of travel and education.

Although born in Chicago, she was brought here as an infant, received her elementary and high school training here and then went to the La Salle seminary at Auburndale, Mass. She is five feet seven in height, animated of countenance and athletic of disposition and possesses as one of her chief charms a winning smile that went far to make her a popular favorite.

For the stiff rivalry she faced tonight Jane chose to array her sylph figure in her favorite dance dress of shell pink crêpe Elizabeth with a low decolletage, fitted to her knees and draping softly to the floor in an uneven hemline. Her slippers were in the same delicate shade, the entire ensemble immensely flattering to her head of fluffy golden curls, her smooth olive skin, and big greenish gray eyes.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin W. Filstrup, and has one older brother, Alvin Jr. Her father is president of the Covel Manufacturing company, and was the donor of Filstrup field, the city athletic grounds and stadium.

Brunette Her Rival.

By way of contrast the judges had in the runner up, Miss Griffin, a dainty brunette, 18 years old and a senior at the Central High school in Kalamazoo. She is the oldest of a family of five children and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Griffin.

"Miss Kalamazoo" is smaller and thinner than the blossom queen, whose maid or honor she will be in the flower parade that will feature the festivities here the week of May 4 to 10. She is an Irish type of beauty, with dark brown hair, naturally curly, and deep blue eyes. Her height is 5 feet 2 and her weight 108 pounds.

In her formal frock of Bouffant white net, worn over a yellow sprigged white taffeta slip and yellow moire slippers, she was warmly applauded, although the group of rooters accompanying her from her home city was comparatively small.

Admirers of Miss Briggs, "Miss St. Joseph," were enthusiastic over her ensemble of vanilla colored crêpe satin. It featured a deep décolletagé, closely fitted to the hip line and billowing from there into a floor length, full skirt, slashed in front to show a panel of chartreuse satin, and made an excellent foil for her bronze hair and dark blue eyes. Her slippers were of chartreuse moire to harmonize.

Though required by the terms of a radio contract to return to Chicago to broadcast with his orchestra, Ben Bernie refused to leave at the appointed time, the decision being still a mystery. It marked his first nonappearance on schedule, he declared, but, "having only one vote to give for his country," he determined to stay and cast it.

WOMAN FALLS FROM WINDOW.

Mrs. Caroline Kirnkauer, 84 years old, was seriously injured yesterday when she fell from a window she was washing at her home on the third floor at 1503 Elston avenue.

COMPROMISE ENDS STRIKE OF 600 TRUCK DRIVERS

More than 600 members of the Commission Drivers and Helpers' union, local 703, who went on strike at the South Water market yesterday morning, will be at work again this morning. A compromise between the union and the market association was reached in the afternoon and approved by the union at a meeting last night.

Under this agreement the old wage scales will remain in force, but the drivers will go to work at 5:30 a. m. instead of 6:30. Heretofore they charged overtime when reporting early.

The one day strike was not attended by any disorder.

DR. H. R. HOFFMAN NAMED HEAD OF NEW JAIL CLINIC

Dr. Harry R. Hoffman, assistant professor of nervous and mental diseases at Rush Medical college, was appointed yesterday as head of the new advisory behavior clinic established in the county jail through the efforts of Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the Criminal court. The judge said that this is the first clinic of its kind to be established in a jail.

The clinic has been established for the purpose of aiding the judges in disposing of cases where the mentality of the defendant is at issue. The judges will get the reports from trained psychiatrists not influenced by payments from either prosecution or defense.

FASCIST RULERS OF THURINGIA OUSTED BY DIET

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, April 1.—The Fascists suffered a severe blow today when the parliament of Thuringia, Hitlerite stronghold, gave a no confidence vote of 29 to 22 to Home Minister Wilhelm Frick and Vice President W. Marschler, National Socialists.

Both promptly resigned, and with them the rest of the nationalist cabinet.

Reasons given for the ousting of the Fascists after their 14 month tenure were that their principal achievements had been filling officials posts with Fascist followers, establishing a chair of racial research at Jean university, and abolishing jazz music in the state.

BRITAIN TO ASK 20,000 TON LIMIT ON BATTLESHIPS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 1.—Battleships of 20,000 tons, and with 12 inch guns, is the type Great Britain will advocate at the 1935 naval conference. Contrary to reports in American newspapers, the British admiralty does not favor abolition of battleships, says the well informed naval correspondent of the Daily Telegraph. He declares the general questions of battleships has been undergoing a close investigation.

The Telegraph's correspondent states that French and Italian support can be counted on and Japan is not expected to raise difficulties; but he anticipates opposition from the United States.

CONSERVATION BUDGET UNDER FIRE IN HOUSE

Democrat Calls for a $700,000 Cut.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 1.[—Special.]—The predicted fight on state departmental appropriations burst with intensity on the floor of the house of representatives this morning in an attack upon the $1,014,000 budget asked by the department of conservation. Representative Truman A. Snell [Dem., Carlinville] led the fight and managed to keep the bill on third reading after it had been called for passage.

Snell introduced amendments to cut the appropriation to $340,000, and then apologized for the size of that figure, saying: "I don't think this department is worth $340,000 to the sportsmen of Illinois."

The amendments would practically do away with game wardens and would slash the appropriations for the maintenance and purchase of game farms. Representative Homer J. Tice [Rep., Greenview], chairman of the house appropriations committee, said they would virtually open the game preserves to "poachers and bootleg sportsmen."

Charges Partisanship.

"It's good Democratic politics to attack a Republican office holder," Tice said in reply to Snell's charge that Director of Conservation Ralph Bradford would not give detailed information on the money needs of his department.

Among the bills passed by the house this morning was the first of the labor program—the prevailing rate of wage measure, which would require the state or any of its political subdivisions to pay laborers working on a state contract wages not less than those prevailing in the city or village where the work was being done. Mr. Snell was the sponsor of this bill. It passed with a vote of 88 to 11.

Representative Luther B. Bratton [Rep., Kankakee] introduced a bill which would prevent members of the general assembly from accepting money for securing or attempting to secure the release of convicts on parole or pardon.

Police Teletype Bill Offered.

Another bill introduced by Representative Richard Lyons [Rep., Mundelein] would establish the teletype system of communication in the state highway police department. A previous bill presented by Mr. Lyons called for an appropriation of $75,000 to erect a radio station controlled by the department of public works and buildings which would be used in conjunction with the teletype.

French Parliament Adopts Budget; Upholds Premier

PARIS, April 1.—(AP)—The French parliament adjourned today until May 5, following acceptance by the senate of the chamber of deputies' amendments to the budget. The budget, as finally adopted, provides for receipts of 50,643,485,395 francs and expenditures of 50,640,509,352 francs [about $2,024,900,000], a surplus of about $100,000.

GETS DIVORCE

HELEN TWELVETREES.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 1.—(AP)—Helen Twelvetrees, screen actress, has obtained her final divorce decree. She was granted an interlocutory decree March 26, 1930, after charging her husband, Clark Twelvetrees, with cruelty. The couple were married in 1927.

Dolan, Ex-Ball Player, Is Sentenced in Rum Case

Albert J. Dolan, former big league baseball player, was sentenced to 15 days in jail by Federal Judge John P. Barnes yesterday after he had pleaded guilty to violating the dry laws as manager of the Club Huron, 16 East Huron street, which was raided last July. Dolan's attorneys told the court that he had been promised a job as coach with a Green Bay, Wis., ball team, and that a long sentence would preclude the opportunity.

STATE TO SEEK WAY TO DODGE TAX WARRANTS

Legislative Committee to Meet in Chicago.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 1.—[Special.]—Ways and means to avoid the issuance of tax anticipation warrants for the maintenance of the state government will be sought by a legislative committee meeting in Chicago a week from today. The group organized this afternoon and decided to hold its first formal meeting in the offices of the state tax commission, 33 North La Salle street.

Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg [Rep., Chicago], who sponsored a resolution to investigate the exact financial condition of the commonwealth, was chosen chairman of the committee.

Other members are: Representatives M. F. Browner [Rep., Mound City] and Michael Fahy [Dem., Toluca]: Senators Harry G. Wright [Rep., De Kalb], Martin R. Carlson [Rep., Moline], and Richard R. Meenth [Rep., Ashkum], and State Treasurer Barrett, State Auditor Nelson, and Director of Finance Kinney.

Assistant Treasurer John Stelle suggested to the committee this afternoon that it might be possible to allocate moneys in the treasury to the funds nearly depleted, principally the University of Illinois fund, and stave off issuance of the warrants until other moneys come in. This will be examined Wednesday.

Another fact that the committee will seek to determine is the amount of property in Illinois which escapes taxation. The committee must report back to the general assembly by April 14, the date on which it is estimated that the state will be in its most straitened circumstances.

CONVULSIONS KILL GIRL, AGE 4.

Dorothy Morris, 4 years old, 3142 Auburn avenue, died yesterday of convulsions that began when she choked on a piece of banana.

BILLS PRESENTED TO LEGISLATURE FOR ENACTMENT

Springfield, Ill., April 1.—[Special.]—Among bills introduced today in the senate were:

Senate bill 439 [Barbour]—Creates a free employment office in Evanston.

Senate bill 444 [Roberts]—Provides for pensioning of deputy clerks and deputy bailiffs of municipal courts at age 65 after 20 years' service at rate of half of last year's salary. Four per cent of salary to be withheld to create the fund.

Senate bill 451 [Mills]—Increases salaries of judges of city courts from $1,000 to $2,500 in cities of 5,000 to 8,000.

Among the bills in the house were:

House bill 774 [Ickes]—Provides for the election of a school board in each county and establishes each county in the state a school district.

House bill 786 [Woodward]—Provides for the nonpartisan election of judges of the municipal court—first election in October and runoff six weeks after the first Tuesday in October.

EMMERSON "NO" ALONE CAN BLOCK REPEALER BILL

Springfield, Ill., April 1.—[Special.]—The O'Grady-McDermott state prohibition repealer bill was signed late today by Speaker Shanahan and Lieut. Gov. Sterling. The enrolling and engrossing clerk failed to get it down to the governor's office before the doors were closed, so it will land on Gov. Emmerson's desk tomorrow morning. He has ten days, not counting Sundays, in which to sign or veto, the time expiring April 13.

Following the custom the measure will be referred by the governor to Attorney General Carlstrom for an opinion as to its constitutionality. Gov. Emmerson is still mum, saying he will not make known his position until the time to act. Close friends of the administration say the chances are he will sign, or else let the bill become a law without signature at the end of the ten day period.

SENTENCED TO U. S. PRISON.

Vincent del Pinto and Dean Cramer, arrested several weeks ago by federal secret service agents, were sentenced to two years and one year and a day, respectively, at Leavenworth penitentiary by Federal Judge Barnes yesterday on pleas of guilty to charges of passing bogus $20 notes.

Fashion Tailored "Famous 7" Tests"

STYLE, QUALITY and FIT are self-evident in Parkside Fashion Tailored Clothes. But that which you do not see is what makes these clothes values so prominent. Every fabric is subjected to these tests:

(1) The Double All Wool Test
(A) Boiling out test—all wool is dissolved; if any cotton is in the cloth it is rejected. (B) Acid test—shows any loss in weight or strength. Only fabrics that rate 100% are used in Parkside Fashion Tailored Clothes.

(2) The Concentrated Sunlight Test
Made on a color Fade-o-Meter. Fabrics are exposed to terrific light. Demonstrates the resistance to fading of fabric.

(3) The Test of Color Fastness
Perspiration tests for color fastness—determines that acid will not change or bleach the color of fabric.

(4) Microscopic Wool Quality Test

(5) The Friction Wear Test

(6) The Iron Jaw Test
Made with a mechanical arrangement that registers MAXIMUM pounds of the pull on warp-way and fill-way. Fabrics used in Parkside Fashion Tailored Clothes have the greatest strength. Same test is used on Canvas, Haircloth, Body Linings, Thread, Trimmings, etc.

(7) The Zero Shrinkage Test
To prove the absence of any further shrinkage after fabrics have undergone standard shrinkage. Fabrics that do not measure up to this test are rejected.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

Illinois Waterway to Open New Field.

propriations prescribe that the ships shall be built in the government's navy yards to the extent of existing facilities, provided such navy yard construction shall "not involve an appreciable increase in cost to the government." Representatives of private yards assert that they can do the work at lower cost than the government.

The lake interests are prepared to meet the objection that construction of any warship on the great lakes would be a violation of the Rush-Bagot agreement of 1817, which provided for mutual disarmament by Great Britain and the United States on the lakes. Each country bound itself to maintain no more than four warships of 100 tons each on the lakes and agreed "that no other vessels of war shall be there built or armed."

Want Agreement Clarified.

It is contended that the clear intent of this agreement was to prohibit the construction on the lakes of warships for maintenance in those waters, and not to disallow the building of warcraft on the lakes which would not be placed in commission until reaching salt water. If, however, there is any reasonable doubt of this interpretation it could be cleared up, it is pointed out, by an exchange of notes between Washington, London and Ottawa.

There is reason to believe that if the lakes states delegations in congress unite and bring sufficiently strong pressure to bear on the administration, contracts for some of the destroyers will be obtained for the fresh water yards. At present the seaboard interests are strongly intrenched in Washington and may be expected to offer stiff resistance to the demands of the interior.

Fat Contracts in Sight.

Some idea of the amount of navy ship construction which an efficient aggregation of go-getters could obtain for the lake yards is conveyed by the program of the department to build not less than 100 destroyers to replace those that will be retired for age in the next few years.

In addition there is business to be had from other departments of the government. The treasury department is about to advertise for bids on the construction of a coast guard cutter for assistance and rescue work on Lake Michigan. This ship will be 162 feet long with 36 feet beam and 14 feet draft, for which congress has appropriated $650,000. A sister ship for Lake Erie has been authorized.

Of the 33 rum boat chasers delivered to the department for great lakes use, 21 were built by the Robinson Marine Construction company at Benton Harbor, Mich., the others having been built at Brooklyn. The contract for 7 new rum chasers for lake use, costing $198,000 each, was awarded to the Bath Iron Works, a Maine concern, the Defoe Boat company of Bay City, Mich., having been the next lowest bidder.

Other Work Available.

The commerce department has $980,950 for construction of lighthouse tenders and two are to be built this year, one of 6 feet draft for New Orleans, the other of 8 feet draft for the Staten Island district, New York. The Manitowoc Shipbuilding corporation built the lighthouse tender Violet, stationed in the Baltimore district. It is 173 feet long with 32 feet beam and 8½ feet draft. Bids have just been opened on construction of the Lilac, duplicate of the Violet, but the Manitowoc concern, which submitted a bid of $357,000, was not the lowest bidder.

LIBERTY IS SOLD; PUBLISHERS BUY A DAILY IN DETROIT

New York, April 1.—[Special.]—Sale of Liberty Magazine, owned by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, to MacFadden Publications, Inc., was announced today. At the same time it was made known that the publishers of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and the New York Daily News, Col. R. R. McCormick and Capt. J. M. Patterson, have purchased from MacFadden Publications the Detroit Daily, a tabloid newspaper.

Announcement of the double sale was made by MacDonald De Witt, attorney for Liberty, and Joseph Schultz, attorney for MacFadden. They issued a joint statement as follows:

"The publishers of Liberty have sold that weekly to the MacFadden Publications, Inc., which has sold the Detroit Daily, a tabloid newspaper, to Mr. De Witt's clients.

"Mr. De Witt stated that the new owners of the Detroit Daily intend to publish the newspaper along the lines which have given the News, New York's picture newspaper, also published by them, the largest circulation of any newspaper in the United States.

"Mr. Schultz stated that his clients will continue the identical editorial policies of Liberty, which have given it the largest single copy sale of any magazine in the country. The new owners of the respective publications assume control on April 1, 1931."

HUNGER MARCHERS RIOT IN MARYLAND LEGISLATIVE HALLS

Annapolis, Md., April 1.—(AP)—A score of men and women battled members of the legislature and police today as a session of the house of delegates was broken up in disorder following an attempt to present an unemployment relief petition.

Two of the 20, who with about 50 others came here from Baltimore in a so-called "hunger march," were sent to a hospital with head wounds, and nine others were taken to jail.

After the disorder had quieted the marchers were granted a formal hearing, and the house ways and means committee heard speakers demand that an unemployment relief fund of $10,000,000 be created and other steps taken to meet "starving conditions among the workers of Maryland." The demonstration was organized in Baltimore under communist guidance, police said.

New York, April 1.—[Special.]—A little girl who tried to imitate her mother today in bathing her baby sister, Majorie Hellman, 7 months old, turned on the water while the child sat in a bathtub in their home in the Bronx. When Mrs. Julia Hellman returned to the bathroom with fresh clothing and towels, she found that the baby had drowned. The other child, Adela, 5, was sobbing under a bed.

FOR THE CHAMPAGNE OF GINGER ALES

Beginning today, Canada Dry announces a reduction of twenty per cent! Now, more than ever, this fine old ginger ale is a value far above the price.

Slightly higher in some places for icing, delivery or other special services. But in all cases now 3 to 5 cents cheaper than before.

IT IS only nine years since the first two carloads of Canada Dry were sold in New York City. As the news of its wonderful flavor spread from city to city, the demand for it increased—until today, wherever people gather for enjoyment, you almost always find them drinking Canada Dry. Steadily, each year, it has grown in popularity.

Now an even greater value

It is this large and constantly increasing preference for Canada Dry which—in spite of the many extra processes necessary to give it its distinguishing excellence—now makes possible a material reduction in price. Today, at its new low price, The Champagne of Ginger Ales is one of the most economical ginger ales you can buy.

3 to 5 cents lower

As in the past, the new low price of Canada Dry will vary. Sometimes, particularly at night, or when it is iced or delivered, it may be slightly more because of the extra service. But in all cases, you will find that a bottle of Canada Dry is now 3 to 5 cents cheaper than before.

Take advantage of this outstanding value, and let the sparkling zest of Canada Dry add more and more to your enjoyment.

MORE JOBS.

The coming mayoralty election is unique in one respect. No previous election of our recollection involved any important economic results of direct and immediate consequence to the average worker. This one does. In past elections the choice of one candidate over the other might have meant more economy and efficiency in the expenditure of public money and better administration of city affairs. These were economic consequences of importance to everybody in the city to the extent they were brought about. But the present election in addition offers something more important still. The election of Cermak and the retirement of the present city hall régime promises more employment to thousands now looking for work.

The misgovernment of Chicago under Thompson has not only demoralized administration and wasted public money. It has hurt existing business in many lines and retarded the growth of new business. Chicago and its people suffer today not only from the depression with which the whole country and the world is afflicted but also from its own special condition. The ill repute given the city by Thompson's régime has unquestionably kept thousands of visitors away from the city, visitors for pleasure and visitors for business. It has discouraged the entrance of new enterprises and slowed down our own. The restoration of responsible government will stimulate business and give the natural advantages and attractions of the city a chance to operate again. It will bring spenders to the city and new enterprises.

That means jobs. That means new employment. Therefore every man and woman in the community, and especially the thousands out of work or working on reduced earnings, have a substantial personal stake in this election. The man or woman looking for a job had better think this over before casting a vote on Tuesday. The election means something important to him and to her. It will decide whether the blight on Chicago's business prosperity and growth is to be continued or removed. It will decide whether new business is to come and old business revive, or stagnation and deterioration remain. It means whether new jobs are to be made and old jobs restored or unemployment drag on slowly awaiting the gradual restoration of the whole country's prosperity. Job seekers have an immediate stake in the cleanup of the city's affairs. They have an immediate interest in destroying at once the blight on the city's repute and the misgovernment of its affairs in a new deal. More business for Chicago means more jobs and better jobs.

RAILROADS AS SHIP OWNERS.

Gen. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, thinks the railroads should be permitted to operate ships on the great lakes and other inland waterways and through the Panama canal. The suggestion is a sound one. Legislation which now prevents the railroads from entering the shipping business should be repealed.

The theory underlying the present law is that the railroads if permitted to own ships will first drive all competitors off the water and then turn all the business over to the land lines. Thus, it is argued, the public will be deprived of water service and the cheaper rates which it makes possible.

Unfortunately, the facts do not bear out the theorizing. Before the railroads were obliged to divest themselves of their lake lines the railroads maintained fleets which provided regular and frequent service. Since the lake lines were disposed of, this service has deteriorated. Ships withdrawn from the lakes during the war have never been replaced. At the same time, despite the divorce, the level of rail freight rates has risen. The facts have belied the a priori reasoning of congress. The sale of the lake lines by the railroads did not result either in improved service or in lowered rail rates.

The present laws were enacted at a time when congress was intent upon preventing the organization of large-scale corporations. Whatever may have been the motive in the minds of the trust-busters it must be conceded that their effort has largely failed. Economic forces, more powerful than legislation, have brought about consolidations on a scale which was not even imagined in the Roosevelt ian era. The evolution of the railroad industry, which is peculiarly subject under our constitution to congressional supervision, has been somewhat retarded, but even in this field congress is now on record as approving consolidations. The realisation is growing that the operation of railroad freight and passenger trains is only one aspect of a larger concept, the transportation of men and goods. It is in the interest of the public that the men engaged in the transportation industry be free to operate any and all kinds of carriers, whether freight cars, trucks, buses, ships, or airplanes. In that way the public will have some assurance that goods will be moved in the most economical manner.

As Gen. Atterbury says, there can be no danger of gouging rates as long as the interstate commerce commission maintains general supervision of the rate structure. As a matter of fact, even without supervision, the danger would not be great. Competition between transportation systems will serve as one check; and competition between rail owned and privately owned facilities would serve as another. More than that, freight rates cannot be maintained for long at exorbitant levels. Rather than pay excessive charges, an industry will move closer to its markets.

THE AIRPLANE TRAGEDY IN KANSAS.

The death of Knute Rockne and his seven companions in an airplane accident has brought grief to tens of thousands. Mr. Rockne's outstanding successes may have brought him the envy of some of his opponents, but it was the envy born of respect rather than dislike or distrust. There was only admiration for the man and his achievements.

The accident has served to focus attention in this country as never before, perhaps, on the safety, or lack of it, in commercial air transport. Probably the precise nature of the accident will never be known. It is possible, however, to draw certain tentative conclusions.

It is highly questionable whether the plane ever should have gone up that Tuesday morning. The evidence leaves no doubt that visibility was poor and the clouds were hanging low. A drizzle had been falling just before the flight began. At least one witness to the accident says he saw the plane break through the clouds in crazy spirals, and, as it fell, a wing tore loose. In this description there is the implication that the pilot lost his sense of the horizontal in the clouds, that in consequence the plane went into a spin, and that the effort to right it when the ground became visible overstrained the ship's structure.

In the absence of other evidence this is the explanation which appears most plausible. If the explanation is the correct one it is evident that greater caution must be exercised in future with respect to weather conditions. If the chances of driving through unfavorable weather are 100 to 1, or even 1,000 to 1, the risk is still too great. The managements of the air transport lines must accept the fact that, so far as passenger travel is concerned, planes must not go up when there is the slightest question of visibility.

The dispatches mention the fact that the take-off at Kansas City was delayed by the lateness of another plane in arriving with the mails. Presumably, then, the plane in which Mr. Rockne and his companions rode was carrying mail as well as passengers. In this practice there is economy for the government and the transport companies, but in the light of the event it appears to be a questionable economy. The mails must go through. Risks must be assumed to get them through. Mail pilots understand and accept the danger, but passengers should not be subjected to it.

As a matter of fact, had the mail been flown in a small plane, without passengers, it is altogether likely that even the pilot's life would have been spared. If a mechanical or structural failure had developed, the pilot might have had ample time to make a parachute jump. As it was, he could not desert his passengers, and his passengers, of course, had neither the training nor equipment to desert the ship in midair.

If the mails are to be flown in passenger ships it must be with the clear understanding that passengers may not be carried except when weather conditions are safe. As it is doubtful if such a rule could be readily enforced, the better plan would seem to be to fly passengers in passenger ships and the mail in mail ships.

There is, of course, the possibility that the accident was caused by inadequate inspection of the plane before the takeoff. In fairness to the company operating the line and to the government inspection service it must be said that no evidence to support this theory has come to light. Nevertheless the tragedy serves to call attention again to the need for extreme caution in inspection and for a high degree of discipline and a fanatical attention to duty on the part of ground crews. Without that there can be no safety in the air.

WALES ON THE KULAK.

Among his vivid pictures of conditions in Russia Mr. Wales has painted none more poignant and impressive than that of the miseries of the kulaks. The very word is eloquent of the difference between soviet standards and those which capitalist America maintains. A kulak is supposed to be a "rich" farmer, and his riches would mean abject poverty to the American. They mean two animals instead of one or none, a bit of land he could call his own, a hovel only a little less wretched than his neighbors, a little store of food which any accident of nature would wipe out. By a little more thrift and self-control, by a little more intelligence and energy, this small margin was painfully built up. Then the dictatorship of the proletariat, a handful of theorists and politicians, representing a party of a million out of Russia's one hundred and sixty millions, descended upon the kulak, confiscated his home and his pitiful accumulation of bare necessities, and sent him far away to work for the state.

The virtue and ambition of free men, the exercise of intelligence and thrift for the protection of their own lives and their families, qualities and accomplishments, however humble, which a free people respect and which a free society fosters, are anathema to the communist tyranny and it stamps them out.

Americans who are invited to embrace that system, who are preached to upon the waste of competition and the oppressions of capitalism, would do well to observe the realities of Russian conditions under the soviet.

SOMETHING WRONG.

[New York Sun.]

Captain Robert Dollar, 87 years old, on his way to his shipping office, met a reporter intent on a birthday interview, particularly desirous of a recipe for business success. To him Capt. Dollar said these words: "Hard work and a hopeful heart are two important aids. Years mean nothing. It's ambition that keeps the heart young."

His words add to the suspicion with which the world has long regarded those of its citizens who keep on working and doing and accomplishing long after most of their contemporaries have lapsed into the back porch and the crossed legs and the twiddling thumbs and the "It wasn't so in my day" of retirement. The suspicion is that these preternaturally active old boys and girls, these folks who keep on keeping on, don't know how to count, can't even read an ordinary calender. Otherwise they would be bowed down by the sheer weight of the Tempus Fugit of literature and from 30 on be prepared to go down hill with solemn tread. Something is wrong somewhere.

SHOES.

MOST of the shoe trouble with the human foot develops in the front end of the member. There are heel troubles, but they are the result of infections or other causes that lie beyond the foot. The toes turn out, causing weak foot or fallen arches. They turn in, causing pigeontoes, a fairly symptomless deformity. Bunions develop on the ball of the foot, as do callosities and warts. There are hammer toes, ingrowing toe nails, and corns. In comparison, the back of the foot is a haven of comfort and ease.

It follows that in construction of a shoe the principal thought should be given to the front part. In standing or walking, everything goes well so long as the weight is carried by the heel. Complications arise when the weight is carried forward and the front end of the foot begins to spread.

In the army, shoe building is based on the shape of the foot when the weight is on the ball. They even go further. They have the soldier load his back with a rifle, knapsack, and the usual load of a marching man, and they measure the spread as it then is.

The civilian has no such thought put on his shoe gear, probably because he does not choose shoes built on that basis. The shoemaker has convinced the trade that shoes should be long. That there should be considerable space in front for the toes to spread into. They have overdone length by the fraction of an inch. But breadth is another story.

No allowance is made for lateral spread. In consequence, when a man, nicely fitted in the sitting posture, or even when standing perpendicular and quiet—when a man so fitted walks, runs, or carries weights his feet spread laterally and his shoes bind. His feet tire easily and begin to ache and burn. Some of the weight falls outside the sole and the shoe leather is pulled, stretches, and wears. The ball of his foot is cramped and bunions and hammer toes may follow. Callosities result. The pinching of the toes causes ingrowing toe nails. Rubbing them causes corns.

Conversely, some of these conditions can be cured by wearing broad toed shoes unaided by any other curative procedure. This measure will cure most cases of corns and callosities, and cure without this procedure is never possible. It will cure some cases of ingrowing toe nails and a few cases of bunions. Bad bunions and hammer toes will require some attention. Changing the type of shoe alone is not enough.

SEVERAL POSSIBILITIES.

W. B. C. writes:

1. What is the cause of a boy of 13 having boils? For two months they have kept coming and are dreadful sore. What is lacking in the blood?
2. What can be done to cure them?
3. Should they be poulticed or lanced?

REPLY.

1. There is more than one possibility. Diabetes is one. Eating too much starch and sugar is another. Dirty skin a third. Some exposure to skin injury due to occupation a fourth.
2. Phage is an excellent remedy, but the principal treatment should be directed at whatever is found to be the causes—direct and contributing.
3. As a rule, poulticing does harm. There are exceptions. Lancing is generally done too early.

CAUSE AND CURE VARY.

Mrs. M. A. A. writes: I have noticed several inquiries how to stop children from wetting the bed. The doctor told me it was caused by too much starch in the food. I noticed that by stopping the oatmeal porridge the nuisance stopped. It is such a pity for the child to be whipped because of the parents' injudicious feeding.

REPLY.

The diet you used will cure the habit in a few instances. Rarely is the whipping cure of any service and it may do harm. The cause varies and so must the cure.

ILLINOIS PROHIBITION REPEAL.

Chicago, March 30.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Does the repeal of the Illinois state enforcement act mean that the state, county, and Chicago police are powerless to prevent the sale and transportation of intoxicating beverages? 2. How soon does the repeal become effective? 3. Have Chicago police a right to arrest a possessor of intoxicating beverages? E. B. B.

1. There is nothing to prevent them from enforcing the federal laws.
2. We have not seen the wording. If it does not include an emergency clause, the act would go into effect next July 1, if the governor signs it.
3. Depends on the facts.

SNOWSTORM INTERFERED.

Chicago, March 30.—[Friend of the People.]—Ashes, garbage, cans, and all sorts of refuse are being dumped in a vacant lot north of us. Two or three janitors from neighboring buildings gather this refuse from apartments as far north as Arthur avenue and dump it into the vacant lot. Please advise the proper authorities. C. S.

Report is made that because of the heavy snowfall alley was made impassable and our equipment as a result could not give service. Householder dumped ashes in vacant lot. Lot has been thoroughly cleaned and a "no dumping" sign erected. Service is given regularly, weather conditions permitting.

SALE OF PROPERTY.

Chicago, March 29.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—"A" and "B" own property in Georgia. Must this property be sold through a dealer in Georgia or can it be sold through a Chicago agency?

J. W.

The law would permit it to be done either way. Presumably the neighborhood of the property would be the easiest place to find a purchaser.

ASK CIVIL SERVICE BOARD.

Chicago, March 29.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Will you kindly give me the information as to the exact dates of the examinations held at the city hall for [1] city food inspector, milk inspector, and license inspector; and [2] through what text book source or otherwise can one obtain the specific preparation relative to these subjects? J. S. L.

Take the matter up with the civil service board. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

LIFE IN RENO.

A VOICE—Come on, boys, twenty can play as well as one. While the little ball goes round and round fortunes are quickly won. Come on, boys——

A LADY—I'm going to play 43 black; that's Jack's age and the color of his hair.

ANOTHER LADY—Who's Jack?

FIRST LADY—The poor prune I'm out here to get rid of.

SECOND LADY—Hain't it grand! Yuh only got to live here six weeks to get a divorce.

A GENTLEMAN—After this you'll be getting all your divorces in Nevada.

FIRST LADY—Now, really! But, sh-h! Oh, rotten! Red 24 wins. I should never have bet on Jack; he's always been my hoodoo. But, 24! Why, that's just Jimmie's age. And red! Why, he's got red hair. Push these chips over on to red 24 for me.

THE GENTLEMAN—You've got a wonderful system. I wonder if it will work?

FIRST LADY—Oh, how provoking. Black 55 wins.

THE GENTLEMAN—You shudda had a sugar daddy; they're always 55.

FIRST LADY—You are quite silly. Oh, look at all those people coming in to play and the room's full now.

THE GENTLEMAN—The noon train from the east is just in. That six weeks thing and the gambling is certainly pullin' 'em. Nevada going to be full up inside of a week. Good-by, California and Florida.

FIRST LADY—Come on, let's go over to the crap table. I believe we'd have better luck.

A VOICE—Come on, you big Dick; mamma needs a new dress.

FIRST LADY—Oh, let's not stop here; that was the name of my first husband.

THE GENTLEMAN—Well, if you never had a husband named Faro let's play that.

SECOND LADY—Oh, isn't it just heaven here in Reno? I don't suppose that any place was ever more delightful. I'll really be sorry if I love my next husband, because getting a divorce in Reno with gambling and music and everything is such fun. Now, get us chips for faro.

FIRST LADY—Sh-h—let's go. My second husband is playing at the faro table.

THE GENTLEMAN—Of course. Look over at the poker layout and see if you've got any former husbands over there. Or, can you remember them all?

FIRST LADY—Cut out the comedy or I'll get sore. I suppose you're out here for your health?

THE GENTLEMAN—Yes, I'm going to get rid of one hundred and ten pounds.

SECOND LADY—Oh, you're too funny for words! But look out in the street; it must be some kind of parade.

THE GENTLEMAN—That's the New York contingent moving in. It's going to be lonesome on Broadway for the next six weeks.

FIRST LADY—Oh, there are the little horses over there on that table. That's an awful cute game; I just love to see 'em go around. And I always win on that.

THE GENTLEMAN—Whoa! Did you ever have any husband named Dobbin?

FIRST LADY—Oh, why bring that up!

THE GENTLEMAN—I knew it! But let's play anyhow.

APRIL COMES.

Soon you will be coming,
Gliding through the gloom,
Trailing on your garments
Scent of cherry bloom.

Soon you will be coming,
Laughter in your eyes,
Seeing ever sunshine
In the grayest skies.

Soon you will be coming,
Bird-song in your mouth,
Tasting of the fragrant
Breezes of the south.

Soon you will be coming,
We've waited one whole year,
Saving up our welcome,
Why, my dear . . . you're here!

E. LESLIE SPAULDING.

AMERICA FIRST in everything! Three rousing cheers! The treasury department reported yesterday that the government deficit for next year is mounting daily and will probably be over seven hundred million dollars. And Great Britain says its deficit will be only one hundred and fifty million dollars. Hooray! Bigger and better deficits. We've got everybody else licked a mile.

THE DOWN EAST papers are terribly het up over Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England. They seem to think that when he goes home he will take with him all our gold reserve (if any), the dome of the capitol at Washington, and over half of Wall street in his baggage. Why can't the farm board make him take the umpty steen million bushels of wheat that kind Mr. Legge saved up for the country? But why worry? The only question is, does Mr. Norman want our wheat? For if he wants it he'll get it. And ask him what he'd like for Christmas.

APRIL. Well, we're edging along into this much touted and warmly greeted 1931. Here we're in the fourth month, but there doesn't seem much doing yet. And Prosperity is still around the corner and nobody seems to know where the stock market is. Well, the year is young yet. R. H. L.

THE CALL OF THE WIDE OPEN SPACES

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

APRIL 2, 1915.

LONDON.—German submarines operating off Beachy Head have torpedoed and sunk two more merchant vessels with a loss of 30 lives within the last two days. The vessels are the British owned steamer Seven Seas and the French steamer Emma. Neither of the ships was given warning before being destroyed.

ROME.—A Vienna dispatch says that news of the fall of the Galician fortress of Przemysl provoked hostile demonstrations in the capital. Many people paraded the streets shouting "Down with the war!" and "Death to the general staff!" Police dispersed the crowds and many were injured. The feeling of opposition to the war continues unabated.

LONDON.—Terrific fighting in the snow choked defiles of the Carpathians with the Austro-German and the Russian opposing armies sustaining heavy losses is the substance of reports from Petrograd, Berlin, and Vienna. In the struggle for Uzsok and Lupkow passes leading to Germany Petrograd claims substantial progress. In northern Poland Petrograd also announces an important success over the Germans west of the Niemen river and the lifting of the siege of the fortress of Osowetz.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

APRIL 2, 1901.

ST. PETERSBURG.—It is reported that Count Leo Tolstoy was banished from Russia on March 26, having been escorted over the border at Vilna by two gendarmes. It is said the order of banishment was made on the ground that the famous writer provoked violence.

CHICAGO.—T. C. Hammond, former president of the Walker-Oakley company, now a part of the American Hide and Leather company, dropped dead of heart disease at Superior street and Dearborn avenue, a year after the death of Mrs. Hammond in a like manner in Boston. He was 60 years old.

CHICAGO. — The city campaign ended and this is the day for the voting. Mayor Carter H. Harrison is the Democratic candidate to succeed himself and Judge Elbridge Hanecy is the Republican nominee. Both sides claim victory.

CLEVELAND, O.—Tom L. Johnson, the millionaire single tax advocate, was elected mayor, but the Republicans won all other places. In Toledo Sam H. Jones, the mayor of "Golden Rule" fame, was reelected.

CHICAGO. — David Henning, the Chicago apple king, died at his former home in Battle Creek, Mich., at the age of 79. Among his surviving children are Edwin and Joseph Henning and Mrs. Mary Frazier of this city.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

APRIL 2, 1881.

LONDON.—The Times condemns the prosecution of Herr Most, the anarchist, because it is calculated to give wide publicity to the ravings published in his obscure sheet, the Freiheit, and gives him a certain amount of notoriety which he craves.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—This was a day of extraordinary excitement in the senate. It began with a justification and defense of the solid south by Senator Lamar and ended in a personal passage which may result in a duel between Senator Voorhees of Indiana and Senator Mahone of Virginia unless Joe Blackburne's declaration is true that Mr. Voorhees lives on the wrong side of the line to receive a challenge. Voorhees, the Tall Sycamore of the Wabash, in language fluent, earnest, and possibly malignant, indorsed as his own the utterances of an editor who characterised Mahone as a renegade Democrat, and thus brought on the row.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Senator Logan had a long conference with President Garfield relative to the appointment of the commissioner of pensions and pressed the name of Gen. Jesse K. Moore of Illinois for the place.

CHICAGO.—Mrs. McNeill, wife of a member of the wholesale grocery house of McNeill & Higgins, was crossing the street at Clark and Randolph in her buggy, the horse backed into street car No. 21 of the Milwaukee avenue line. The buggy was upset and the hind wheel broken, but the lady was extricated from the wreck in safety.

IMPOSED UPON.

Chicago, March 30.—Since the business depression, with so many people out of work, I have been more than sympathetic with the numerous visitors at my back door asking for money, clothing, and work. My husband has already subscribed to the governor's fund, so I have never given money, but have given food and clothing. Of late I am growing skeptical as to whether this sort of help really amounts to anything except to encourage bums and beggars.

Several weeks ago a man rang my front door bell, and in the humblest words and most pleasing manner said he was starving and asked for food. I suggested he wait outside and I would fix a lunch for him. I did, but when I went to summon the man he had gone.

Again a woman begging at my door asked clothing for her children and poor old father. I told her to return the next day, and in the meantime I looked up some clothing. She returned, but I was not at home, being at a relative's, whose apartment overlooks mine. The woman, probably in disgust at not receiving the clothing, rewarded my good intentions by picking up the morning supply of cream. I saw her tucking it in her bag as she went down the alley.

My conscience will never prick me again for not aiding these back door visitors. ELIZABETH G. FRANKLIN.

ADVICE TO MR. IGOE.

Chicago, March 30. — Why all this worry about our convicts in Joliet? I see Mike Igoe is calling on these birds for their stories and they say the pardon board won't give them a break. Did these birds give their victims a break? Yes, they would break their heads if they didn't have any money or they would break up everything in a home when they were looting it. Did they give a butcher a break when they would shove him into an icebox to freeze to death or scare the life out of a poor mother when they would ring the bell and when the door was opened shove a gun to her head?

Come on home, Mike; all the victims agree that the parole board is right. You may find yourself a private citizen if you try to get these hoodlums a break. Marty Durkin doesn't live in your district. A. F.

THE BIRD HOUSE.

Chicago, March 27. — Mrs. Cherry's criticism of the hornbill's cramped quarters in the Lincoln park bird house might well have extended to the whole house. Why this structure, dark, poorly planned in the first place, and now hopelessly antiquated, is tolerated is hard to understand. It is a disgrace to the zoo, and if the unfortunate creatures confined in it cannot be better housed they should be disposed of and the building relegated to the scrap heap where it belongs. G. E. V.

ENJOYMENT AND APPRECIATION.

Goshen, Ind., March 28.—The writer wants to express his enjoyment and appreciation of the interesting and instructive letters on Russia written by that charming correspondent, Mr. Henry Wales. These letters as published daily in THE TRIBUNE give us an excellent insight into existing conditions in interior Russia under Lenin's five year plan. O. H. BIGGS.

JAIL FOR A BAR OF SOAP.

Chicago, March 25.—I noted in yesterday's TRIBUNE that a colored man was sentenced to 60 days in jail for stealing a bar of soap. Regardless of the merits of this particular case, isn't it a rather ironic commentary on the civilized age that a man should thus suffer for merely wishing to be clean?

I recall an incident which happened last summer in the small town where I live. A highly respected woman of the community awoke one hot, sultry night and, happening to glance out of the window, noted a colored man taking an impromptu bath by means of her garden hose. Not stopping to think that the man lived in that portion of town where he would either have to walk two miles to the lake or forego the pleasure of an all over bath, she called the police. They took him to jail.

I suppose justice was meted in both these cases, but I can't help regretting the passing of an age when tolerance was still with us and Americans boasted a sense of humor. A. G.

WASHINGTON'S ANCESTRY.

Chicago, March 23.—In reply to the inquiry of "Seeker," I have never read anywhere that George Washington had Swedish ancestors, but several historians do credit him with Danish or Norse antecedents.

The historian Clare says that the founder of the Washington family was Thorfin the Dane, earl of the Orkney Isles, also known as Torkill of Richmondshire, England, baron and lord of Tanfield, who was born about A. D. 1010 and settled in England between 1020 and 1035. Yet at that time the Orkney isles along the Hebrides, Shetland isles, Faroe isles, and Isle of Man were known as the kingdom of the Norwegian islands. So there is a doubt as to whether Thorfin was a Dane or a Norwegian.

However, it must be remembered that our earliest historians made very little distinction between the Scandinavian people. They were usually referred to as Norsemen, Northmen, or Danes [whichever word suited the writer best], regardless of what part of Scandinavia they were from, so that people from what we now know as Sweden were probably included in that classification, too.

But while the Danes and Norse extended their activities mostly westward the Swedes were chiefly concerned in the Baltic sea region, where they were the masters. So that the probability of Washington's ancestor Torfin being a Swede is very remote. His classification as a Dane or Norseman would be more apt to be correct. P. JOHNSON.

WHO ARE THE TAXPAYERS?

Chicago, March 30. — One of your readers sent in an article asking if it is fair to have nontaxpayers vote on bond issues. It was followed up in today's column by a query from one Mortimer Sherf, who asks, "Who, in the city of Chicago, are not taxpayers?"

Now, I have a feeling that Brother Mortimer is under an illusion [although once a fact] that we are all taxpayers. Theoretically that's right, but since the time that prosperity was at its peak rents have declined about 25 per cent while taxes in most sections have advanced about 50 per cent. Well, now I'll bite. Who are they?

LAUNCH 2 NEW AIR SERVICES AT LOCAL FIELD

Offer 31 Hour Coast to Coast Journey.

BY ROBERT WOOD.

With the opening of the spring flying season two new air services were inaugurated yesterday, speeding up mail and passenger service for Chicago and adding to the congestion of air traffic at the Municipal airport. The event was marked by festivities at the city field.

The extension and alteration in schedules was effected to increase passenger service on the assumption that summer weather brings better patronage to air lines. The inaugurations yesterday increased the number of scheduled passenger plane arrivals and departures in Chicago to 60 daily.

Ticket Sales Increase.

The Kansas air crash, which killed Knute Rockne and seven others, dampened the ceremonies at the city field, but the accident appeared to have no serious effect on ticket sales. The consolidated air bureau in the Palmer house reported that 135 reservations were made yesterday, as compared with 103 the day before, and that only three cancellations were attributed to fear induced by the crash.

United Air Lines inaugurated their new 21 hour continuous air passenger service between New York and San Francisco by sending a greeting from the World's Fair trustees to Postmaster General Brown at Washington. Indians astride pinto ponies galloped from the replica of Fort Dearborn on the lake front and delivered the greeting to a waiting National Air Transport plane to be carried to Washington.

Hereafter the N. A. T. planes will make direct connections here with Boeing Air Line planes, providing a through service requiring a night and a day's travel between the eastern and western coasts. This additional service will automatically provide a second air trip to New York daily.

Increase Detroit Service.

Trans-American Airways also started a new and more frequent service between Chicago and Detroit. Four planes will fly each way daily. A fleet of tri-motored Stinson transport planes was put in service yesterday carrying passengers. Officials of the air line and of the postoffice department dropped in at the airport in the afternoon on their round trip flight over the line.

Long needed improvement and expansion of the airport awaits the letting of contracts which were approved by the Chicago aero commission a week ago. The city field is to be doubled in size and runways are to be improved. A new administration building to be erected at 63d street and Cicero avenue will cost $75,000.

CHICAGO STORES FIGHT PLAN TO RECORD SALES

Springfield, Ill., April 1.—[Special.]—The advisability of recording all conditional sales—purchases made on the installment plan—in the county recorder's office will be considered in the state senate by a subcommittee of the license and miscellany group, it was decided today after a four hour hearing. Senators Victor P. Michel [Rep., Peoria], Martin R. Carlson [Rep., Moline], and Richard J. Barr [Rep., Joliet] make up the committee.

During the afternoon session representatives of Chicago department stores protested against passage of the bill which has already gone through the house under the sponsorship of Representative Thomas P. Sinnett (Dem., Rock Island). The Chicagoans declared the task of recording each installment sale with the recorder would become burdensome.

INSURE NEW YORK BRIDGE, TUNNEL FOR $55,000,000

New York, April 1.—(AP)—The Holland tunnel and the Fort Lee bridge, linking Manhattan and New Jersey, were insured today for $55,000,000 under one of the largest marine policies in history.

It was written for the port of New York authority by a syndicate of surety companies "from all over the world," the authority announced. The bridge and tunnel are protected from damage by any possible contingency, the authority said, including structural weakness or "acts of God."

The tunnel was insured for $30,000,000 and the bridge for $25,000,000.

Prisoners Kidnap Officer; Handcuff Him to Tree

Holland, Mich., April 1.—(AP)—Three men whom he attempted to arrest last midnight kidnaped Patrolman Peter Montekoe in their automobile, disarmed him, took him fifteen miles to a place near Allegan, Mich., and fastened him to a tree with his own handcuffs.

Montekoe was rescued six hours later suffering from cold and exposure. He said he failed to search the men.

"LITTLE JAPAN" RISES IN MIDST OF AMAZON JUNGLE

Parks and Electric Lights Invade Brazilian Wilds.

BY ANTHONY PATRIC.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BELEM, Para, Brazil, April 1.—A little Japan, picked up and transported from far off Nippon, swiftly is growing up in the heart of the Braxilian jungle in the 247,000,000 acre concession granted to the Japanese Plantation company in 1929.

In less than two years, working against natural and economic odds, two villages, bearing many of the characteristics of Japanese towns in the orient, have sprung up and are being peopled at the rate of 150 families a year who migrate from the overpopulated islands in the far east.

Previous Efforts Failures.

When the concession was granted it was merely another gamble by the Brazilian government in an effort to populate the vast virgin territories in the Amazonian country. Previously, at great expense, the government brought over Italians and Spaniards, gave them land grants, railroads, and implements to clear the forests. The results were a complete fiasco. The Latin immigrants refused to clear the land. They took the government appropriations, swarmed to established towns, and many are still living there on enterprises started with government funds.

The strict economic policy of Dr. Hashiro Fukuhara, president of the Japanese company, and the industry of his followers have had a contrary result. In a fever-infected spot on the Acara river, known only to a few natives in 1929, Thome-Assu, a model Japanese village with 200 bungalows, paved streets, and a central park now teems with life. Some distance away on the Amazon is Monte Alegre, an agricultural village.

Harvest First Crops.

The Japanese in these villages, with the help of caboclo [half breed natives], with whom they mingle on friendly terms, have harvested their first crops of rice, tobacco, manioc meal, and corn from the cleared fields. Thirty per cent of the crop has gone to the company as royalty paid by each colonist. The people have enough rice for the coming season, and the company, although working on a slim margin, is solvent and prepared to carry on the work of reclaiming land to make room for the constant influx of new colonists.

Aside from the task of "making land" under the requirements of the concession and working out an existence from the soil, the Japanese have carried on a vigorous program of construction. In Thome-Assu there are now a Roman Catholic church, three hospitals, and a typical Japanese emporium where anything can be bought from a box of matches to fake jewelry made in Czecho-Slovakia.

Everybody Attends School

Two model schoolhouses, run by Brazilian teachers, are attended by Japanese children by day and by their parents at night. The Japanese are quickly adapting themselves to the Portuguese language.

A sawmill, a rice shelling plant, leather goods factory, warehouses, a postoffice, radio station, and a police station complete the lower part of Thome-Assu. In the upper part are lodging houses and restaurants. The entire settlement is supplied with electricity by a modern power plant.

At Monte Alegre there are now one hospital, a church, school, rice mill, and a cotton gin plant. Cotton is the chief product raised, but cereals and tobacco are also produced for local consumption.

More Immigrants Due.

Construction similar to that at Thome-Assu is progressing rapidly in preparation for this year's quota of immigrants, most of whom will be settled at Monte Alegre.

While the low price of agricultural products this year barely permitted the Japanese Plantation company to show a profit for the fiscal year, wider fields are being cultivated, and next season's crops are expected to be much larger.

Both settlements have been opened for residence to peoples of any and all nationalities. With increased wages for the Brazilian natives during the last year, it is felt that more of them will stay in the villages and in a few years be permanently integrated with the Japanese.

COL. LUKE LEA KITED CHECKS FOR MILLIONS, BANK EMPLOYE SAYS

Nashville, Tenn., April 1.—(AP)—The former assistant cashier of the closed Liberty Bank and Trust company told a legislative committee investigating state affairs today that during the five years of the bank's existence transactions of Col. Luke Lea, Nashville publisher, totaled approximately $12,000,000, "a large portion of which were 'kited'."

Testifying before the investigating committee, M. D. Johnson, the former cashier, was asked if "kiting is using the assets of a bank without having the proper security therefor." He replied: "It's just a loan without a note."

Transactions of Luke Lea Jr., the publisher's son, totaled in excess of $1,000,000, and he "kited" also "in some instances," Johnson said.

"Weren't practically all the transactions Col. Lea had with that institution kites except that he borrowed?" asked Robert L. McReynolds of committee counsel.

"Yes, I'd say they were," Johnson replied.

Faults Pointed Out by Wickersham Body.

Washington, D. C., April 1.—(AP)—Present methods of gathering crime statistics in the United States were condemned today by the law enforcement commission.

Meeting for the first time in a month seven members of the commission signed the crime statistics report prepared under the direction of Dean Roscoe Pound of Harvard. It was the first completed since the prohibition report.

The Pound report was said authoritatively to have condemned the present crime statistics not only as inadequate, but also as often fallacious and misleading.

As one example, it was pointed out that in some statistics a lack of standardization in the classification of crimes often caused the dissemination of false information as to the volume of law breaking in the communities concerned.

The solution recommended in the 205 page report was described as complex, involving not only changes in some state laws, but also an agreement upon uniform classifications and methods.

In an effort to speed up the commission's work another session has been called for the latter part of this month. Even Chairman Wickersham, however, has said it will be impossible to complete entirely the task assigned by President Hoover before the commission's appropriation expires July 1.

Pays for Plug of Tobacco He Bought 60 Years Ago

Rochester, Ind., April 1.—[Special.]—A dime plug of tobacco bought sixty years ago was paid for today by George B. Lease of St. Louis, who in 1871 bought it from J. G. Howell, at that time a grocer at Marshtown. Having forgotten his pocketbook, he did not pay for it then. A short time later he moved to Missouri, and when his nephew, Henry Lease, Kewanna, visited him the uncle gave him the dime to "pay for that plug of tobacco." Today Lease gave the dime to Henry Howell, J. G. Howell's son.

U. S. PREPARING FOR CONFERENCE ON ARMAMENT

Technical Experts Busy on Recommendations.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 1.—[Special.]—Preliminary preparations for American participation in the league of nations world's arms conference at Geneva in 1932 will begin within the next few days when army, navy, and state department experts meet to study technical phases of the disarmament problem. While no definite invitations to the parley have gone out, Secretary of State Stimson expects to send a delegation to the conference which will be held next January.

Technical experts in both the navy and army have been devoting considerable attention for some time to the problems that will come up at the approaching parley. A questionnaire has been sent to heads of divisions in the navy department propounding pertinent questions regarding the advisability of battleship reduction, curtailment of air forces and other matters which are expected to come up at the parley.

Battleships Defended.

The United States anticipates that a determined effort will be made at Geneva to reduce the size of battleships below 35,000 tons; to reduce the size of guns placed on future battleships; to further curtail air forces and to limit armaments by placing limitations on national defense budgets. The navy today is opposed to any reduction in the tonnages of battleships or in the size of big turret guns placed on these ships.

Information reaching Washington is that Japan plans to demand a 10 to 7 ratio in all auxiliaries at Geneva in addition to parity in submarines.

Reports on Battleships.

The recent naval maneuvers at Panama and in the Caribbean have served to strengthen the battleship element in the navy. In a report on the last phase of the Caribbean aircraft problems David S. Ingalls, navy secretary for air, asserted today that aviation can not stop an attacking force of surface vessels.

"The outstanding feature of the problem," Mr. Ingalls said, "was the assurance that where a number of battleships are accompanied by airplanes, cruisers, and destroyers they, the battleships, will eventually gain control over a given sea area defended only by an equal cruiser and destroyer force and an air force of approximately the same strength as that of the attacking force."

FORMER OFFICIAL OF CLOSED INDIANA BANK DROWNS SELF IN LAKE

Kendallville, Ind., April 1.—[Special.]—Lauren E. McCartney, 44, secretary-treasurer of the defunct Noble County Bank and Trust company, committed suicide today by jumping from a pier into Bixler lake. Worry over the bank closing was considered his motive.

A self-addressed letter to Ray Irwin, undertaker, informing him to go to the lake, accompanied by Coroner Harold Shew, where he would find the body, was the first intimation of the tragedy.

McCartney had been connected with the bank for twenty-five years, until it closed Jan. 10 last, by order of the board of directors. Losses suffered by depositors aggregated a million and a half.

In his last statement, apparently written a few hours before he ended his life, he said there was nothing dishonest in the affairs of the bank and gave as a reason for his act: "I am mentally and physically too sick to start life over again. The strongest proof of my honesty is that I was completely wiped out along with many others through my implicit faith in the ability and integrity of Samuel Keller Jacobs."

Mr. Jacobs, president of the bank and a New York financier, fled the country and is now in Europe.

ECONOMY TO BE BATTLE GAGE IN NEXT CONGRESS

Special Groups Expected to Attack Program.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 1.—[Special.]—Lines for the coming congressional battle, eight months away, are already being laid down. As President Hoover indicated in his statement of yesterday, it will be a contest between economy in government and the demands of special and group interests.

The goal of the administration will be to keep appropriations under the five billion dollar mark. Appropriations at the last session of congress totaled $5,180,107,522. The budget bureau is already at work paring estimates down to a minimum.

The administration is counting on there being no continued necessity for emergency appropriations, according to a statement made today by Senator Wesley L. Jones [Rep., Wash.], chairman of the senate appropriations committee. "And the Democrats ought to be as anxious as the Republicans to keep down expenditures," said Senator Jones. "Either party may come into power and naturally each party realizes that it may be held responsible for the condition of the treasury after 1932."

He admitted, however, that one of the major expenditures would continue to be for veterans' relief. Appropriations for the veterans' bureau at the last session totaled $952,431,527, and the bonus bill created the necessity of immediately raising a possible billion dollars. Senator Jones was a supporter of the bill.

Against the economy program will be the radical wings of both parties. With nothing to win at the presidential election they can afford to do as they did at the last session, clamor for huge federal relief appropriations to be paid for by tax increases in the upper brackets.

DISCOVERS 35 MICE IN WINTER QUARTERS IN HIS AUTOMOBILE

Rochester, Ind., April 1.—[Special.]—William Baker, who lives on a farm west of this city, drove into a filling station with his automobile to have it serviced. He had it stored in his garage during the winter. Search revealed a mouse inside the sedan. Baker killed the mouse and then discovered numerous mouse holes in the upholstery. He drove the machine home and into the garage.

Closing all windows and crevices, Baker started the motor and left. After thirty minutes Baker discovered the carbon monoxide gas fumes had killed thirty-five mice.

GANDHI PICTURED AS GOD'S ENVOY TO SAVE WORLD

American Tells Why He's Holy Man's Follower.

Boyd W. Tucker of Mansfield, O., who expects to go to the second London round table conference as unofficial adviser to Mahatma Gandhi, today told why he embraced the cause of India's independence, adopted the Hindu dress, and became a disciple of Gandhi. The American, who is associated with the school of the Indian poet, Rabindranath Tagore, is Gandhi's personal guest.

BY BOYD W. TUCKER.

[Copyright: 1931: By the Associated Press.]

KARACHI, India, April 1.—The western world seems puzzled why I prefer the simple life of Mahatma Gandhi to the mechanical comforts of modern American life. It is just as difficult for Indians to understand why Americans are willing to sacrifice all natural comforts of life and secure for themselves conveniences of the modern home.

Why am I considered a crank and fanatic because I adopt loose flowing garments? This simple dress, consisting of a homespun loin cloth, light gossamer shawl and sandals, has not been fashioned by style makers living apart from the life of India, but has been evolved in thousands of years by experience under climatic conditions of the Indian tropics.

Blames Our "Racial Pride."

Only our racial pride has kept every westerner from adopting the dress best suited to the climate and environment. For the white man to wear Indian clothes offends the majority of Americans and Europeans in India, because they fear the Indians will fail to be impressed by the white man's superiority if the white man himself adopts Indian dress.

I am a disciple of Gandhi because I find him the most vital living spiritual personality in the world today. In some respects he has given Christ's message a richer and fuller interpretation, which Jesus himself had neither the time nor the environment in which to develop it.

I believe that in Mahatma Gandhi, God has again visited the world in its hour of desperate need.

Gandhism vs. Bolshevism.

Two great forces are striving for conquest of the world—Gandhism and bolshevism—but both are moving in diametrically opposite directions. Bolshevism stands for class discrimination, but Gandhi knows no distinctions in seeking to achieve his ideal by reason and love.

Gandhi stands today as the world's greatest hope of salvation from militarism, from class war, from bolshevism, from sectarian strife, and from tragic conflict between the orient and the occident. He is utterly misunderstood in the west, but I make a bold prophecy. His proposed visit to London and later to America will be an epochal event, representing the greatest transformation since the Renaissance.

Succumbing to the terrific strain of the last eight weeks of political activity, Gandhi took to his bed today against his wishes. While not serious, his condition is aggravated by a severe cold and utter physical and nervous exhaustion. His physicians say that only rest will rehabilitate him. In the last ten days the aged leader has had only one hour's sleep a day.

Princes Threaten to Bolt.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 1.—Twenty of the first class states of central India, it was reported today, have threatened to withdraw from the chamber of princes if the scheme for federalization of India is persisted in. The movement is led by the Maharajah of Rewa, youngest and ablest of princes.

The action is based on the reluctance of the princes to surrender any hereditary rights to low born subjects, as might be the case in event of a popularly elected legislature governing the federation. One of the leaders of the movement was quoted:

"What right have these people to claim a voice in the management of the states we have built up, fought for, and maintained through thousands of years? What would you say if your wife claimed equal rights in the disposal of money you have earned? What would we come to if we have to consult with stable boys, sweepers, and scavengers on how to run our states?"

British Princes to Visit Gold Mine, 7,200 Feet Deep

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SAO PAULO, Brazil, April 1.—The official program of the prince of Wales and his brother, Prince George, at Bello Horizonte, in the state of Minas Geraes, includes a visit to the famous Morro Velho gold mine, which has a depth of 7,200 feet below the sea level. Hundreds of mules have been removed from the mine in order to permit of more oxygen during the princes' visit.

COUNTRY KEEPS IMMIGRATION TO NEW LOW MARK

But 3,147 Aliens Land in February.

Washington, D. C., April 1.—(AP)—Tighter restrictions and the economic depression were cited today by Commissioner General Hull as having reduced immigration to the lowest point in the history of the labor department.

The February total of 3,147 immigrants admitted was below the lowest month of the world war period. The number admitted during the eight months from July 1, 1930, to Feb. 28, was 50 per cent under the corresponding period in 1929-'30. Total immigration for the eight months ending Feb. 28 was 82,536.

While American consuls abroad were weeding out undesirable aliens and those likely to add to the unemployed, the drive on alien criminals and aliens here illegally, continued to show results.

The department sent back to the country from which they came 1,517 aliens during February and at the same time turned back 693 who were without proper immigration visas or who failed in other ways to come up to requirements.

Washington, D. C., April 1.—(AP)—John N. Healy today was getting into his automobile a short distance from a police scout car when he saw three armed men taking a $6,500 pay roll from two employés of a Peoples Drug company warehouse.

He ran into the warehouse and shouted to the telephone operator:

"Please get me police headquarters. There's a holdup outside."

FELONS CONFESS FIRING PRISON IN WHICH 320 DIED

Ohio Grand Jury to Vote on Indictments.

Columbus, O., April 1.—(AP)—Prosecutor Donald J. Hoskins of Franklin county announced tonight that two convicts had confessed they started the fire that claimed the lives of 320 prisoners at Ohio penitentiary last April 21.

The prosecutor named the men as Clinton Grate, alias "Cotton," and Hugh Gibson, alias Gibbons and "The Jew." Gibson was sentenced from Cleveland, while Grate was sentenced from Dayton, O. Both are serving terms for robbery.

They confessed in the presence of Hoskins and several other county and city officials.

Penalty Death in Chair.

Hoskins' announcement came a few hours after the county grand jury had concluded its investigation into the catastrophe. The jury will vote tomorrow on whether indictments shall be returned against the two convicts, charging them with first degree murder. Under the state arson code they would be liable to death in the electric chair if convicted.

The fire, according to Hoskins, was started by the convicts because they objected to aiding in the construction of a new cell block.

First Attempts Fail.

In the first of several attempts to start the fire, the confessions said, candles were placed in wooden forms used in making concrete walls for the cell blocks. The forms were piled in the prison yard near the chapel.

Hoskins reported that "the Jew" watched while "Cotton" tried to kindle the flames.

After telling how other plots failed, Gibson's statement explained how a final attempt succeeded through the use of a "fuse" on the fifth range of J and K cell blocks.

"Cotton fixed it up and he fixed it up pretty good and put the shavings all around it and he took a little pan and we filled that full of oil and put the shavings in it. And he set a candle in there and put some sticks around it. He said, 'It is all set now, so let's light it.' I lit the candle."

Oil Poured Over Kindling.

The oil, which was poured over the kindling and the sides of the forms near the fuse, was a mixture of straw oil and kerosene. It was not explained how the mixed oil got into the prison.

With the candle lighted the conspirators went to the mess hall for their evening meal and later were locked up for the night. At 5:21 p. m. there was a muffled explosion and a few minutes later they heard terrifying cries of "Fire."

The blaze swept along the oil soaked boards and quickly engulfed the dry timber under the old G and H cellhouse. There was no thought of escape, the confessions said, as the heat and oil laden smoke permeated the locked cells in which hundreds perished.

Mutiny followed and National Guardsmen patrolled the prison for weeks after the fire.

AUDITOR TAKES CHARGE OF BANK ON WEST SIDE

State Auditor Oscar Nelson yesterday took charge of the Ridgeway State bank, 3722 Chicago avenue, at the request of the bank directors. A statement said that heavy withdrawals during the last few days had depleted the cash resources to such an extent that the directors decided the interests of all depositors would be better served by placing the bank under the supervision of the state auditor.

Deposits at the time of closing yesterday were approximately $500,000. The bank was capitalized at $200,000 and had a surplus of $35,000.

STRAY ELECTRIC CURRENTS MAY STIR UP CANCER

Cleveland, O., April 1.—(AP)—Suggestion that cancer may be caused by stray currents of electricity in the affected tissue was made late today by Dr. George W. Crile of the Cleveland clinic at the annual meeting of the American Association for Cancer Research here. These stray currents, Dr. Crile said, might be created by injury of the tissue cells.

Before he can be positive, he added, the study of the "auto-synthetic" cells created at the Cleveland clinic laboratory five months ago, and kept alive since that time by being "fed" proteins, must proceed further.

The auto-synthetic cells, made by the breaking down of brain tissue and reuniting the tissue material, have a resemblance to living matter and cancer growths, he pointed out. The potential of electricity between the interior and the exterior portions of living tissue cells has been found at the clinic to be different, however, than the potential between the exterior and interior of the "auto-synthetic" cell and between the interior and exterior of cancer cell.

When this potential is diminished to zero all three types of cells degenerate into a mass of dead fat, Dr. Crile said. It was his hypothesis that the potential in the living cell may be changed to that found in a cancer cell by the stray "injury" currents of electricity, and that the potential change may create cancer.

Greater study of the relation of heredity to cancer was urged at the meeting by Dr. C. C. Little of Bar Harbor, Me., president of the association.

Polka Dots

Rightly are they called the "perennial" polka dots, for they come forth each spring with a new freshness. And especially are they appropriate for Eastertime, for in them is a vividness in coloring and a pertness which are characteristic of this season of festivity.

There are polka dot frocks of all kinds here—with the size of the dots reflecting the spirit of the occasion the frocks attend. Only three are sketched, but there are many others, exceptionally smart and youthful fashions.

RUSSIA DRAFTS ONE AND ALL FOR BIG LABOR ARMY

And Then Finds It Needs Even More Men.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MOSCOW, March 7.—[By mail.]—Millions of unemployed all over the world, but an actual shortage of labor in Russia! With the ambitious schemes of the soviets for tremendous exports of raw materials—the only exports the country can send abroad, there being no manufacturing yet—labor became more increasingly difficult to obtain. This shortage was felt in the north especially, the vast frozen region of tundra and forest whence Russia every winter gathered the millions of feet of timber for lumber and wood pulp shipments abroad and for building purposes in the vast treeless stretches in Siberia and the endless steppes and the rolling plains of Turkestan.

Sparsely populated, the north could not provide hands for the work envisaged. Men, even though they might be hungry, were reluctant to take jobs way off in the bitter cold of the arctic, isolated from friends and relatives throughout the long winter, undergoing severe privations and hardships and unable to obtain supplies and adequate food rations.

"Draft the rich peasants for the north," was the order that followed. "Send them to the arctic for timber as well as to Turkestan to populate the new line of the completed Turkestan-Siberian railway and the remote regions of eastern Siberia along the Amur river.

Pack Families in Box Cars.

So the kulaks were transported to the north. Packed in box cars with their families, fed and watered at convenient stations, which the long freight trains rumbled into hours late, they were moved about over the worn-out railway system to their various destinations.

Not only kulaks were thus sent north. Thousands of others were sent too—men who were lazy, who failed to keep employed, who lost jobs through inefficiency when places were found for them by the urban unions, and those who fell from grace through minor infractions of the law.

Nor were they all sent to the north. Some were sent to the gigantic state farms in the upper Caucasus or in the Ukraine, some to the mining basins of the Don and Kuznetz, some to the oil fields of Baku, others to the colossal industrial projects such as the Dnieperstroi dam electrical development plants, and the huge tractor factories.

None was forced to work, anywhere. No man was compelled to take an ax and fell trees, or take a pick and start mining, or use a shovel and start digging, or take a wheelbarrow and begin hauling.

But there was nothing else for them to do except take the jobs the region offered or starve. Even those who had saved money and secreted it about their ragged clothing, were unable to purchase food or other supplies from the coöperative and state shops because they were disfranchised.

No Food Ration Books.

They had no union cards, had no ration books for bread, and no coupons for clothing, meat, sugar or even tea. The necessary papers enabling them to buy what they needed were forthcoming only when they took a job and regained their standing.

Desperation, hunger, cold forced them to go to work.

Conflicting stories come from the north as to their lot and their condition. In some camps, properly managed by sympathetic, intelligent leaders, they do not face a worse existence than the timber jacks in the north woods of America and Canada. The climate is no more severe, and there is not the bitter wind of the western hemisphere.

Draft Rail and Mine Labor.

And draft labor is extending to other classes than kulaks and "ne'er-do-wells" and paltry offenders. All persons experienced in railway labor, all those who had held a job on any railroad in the last five years, were recently mobilized, ordered to abandon their present positions and report for work on the transportation system.

Mining labor is being drafted. All men who had experience underground are summoned to go back to the mines to provide labor in the ill constructed, inefficient coal pits of the Don basin. Production there had fallen so low that volunteer bodies of Komsomols, young communists ("shock divisions" as they are called in the military argot of the five year plan), have been sent to increase the supply and buck up the morale of the regular workers.

Other fields are being examined by the government with an eye to mobilizing all trained men obtainable for service in them. As the various titanic links in the five year plan are completed and go into operation, drives will be undertaken to insure the manning of these factories and industries with the most potentially efficient labor existing in Russia.

Labor Draft Permanent.

"European countries and finally America adopted that system during the war to obtain the greatest efficiency," say the soviets. "Why shouldn't we do likewise in our crisis, which is as vital to us as the issue of the war was to them?"

But the war was a temporary affair that engendered extraordinary measures, and there is no indication that certain of these projects for mobilization of labor in its different lines is temporary with the soviets. On the contrary, the collectivization of the farms, the "industrializing of the peasant," and the draft of all trained labor into its proper accustomed groove is permanent.

Eventually when the classes are cut even finer it will mean that bakers are summoned to their ovens, chauffeurs to their machines, road builders to the highways, dishwashers to the kitchen, elevator operators to the lifts, and that for perpetuity.

Where, then, one might ask, is the vaunted liberty and emancipation of the people proclaimed under the Red standards?

Vision Five Hour Day.

The answer to the communist is simple. Such standardization will mean such increased efficiency and such a reduction of labor through elimination of the waste and concentration on ability, that the 5 day week and the 5 hour day will be universal. Production and consumption will balance so nicely that there will be food and clothing supplies and all other human requirements for all. There will be no incentive to slaving early and late, as everything will be provided for, and old age will be insured against.

"That may be efficient and it may be economic, but it's not much fun, and it's certainly not liberty," I objected.

"Prohibition is efficient and it's economically sound, but it's not much fun and it's certainly not liberty," was the reply of my Red mentor.

Tribune Stories on Russia Bring Praise and Criticism

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 1.—Considerable interest has been stirred up in Paris among Americans, Frenchmen, and exiled Russians by Henry Wales' stories from Russia.

Numerous letters, approving and condemning the series of articles, are arriving daily at the offices of the Paris edition of THE TRIBUNE.

Among those keenly interested is Charlie Chaplin, who had decided to pass up his trip to Russia. But after reading Mr. Wales' stories, Charlie has changed his mind. He said today that he probably will visit the land of the bolsheviks after all.

Chef Wants Russian Recipe.

Among the letters to the Paris office of THE TRIBUNE is one from Chef Morgan of the Chicago inn, a favorite eating house for the American colony in Paris, who wants the recipe for Russian chicken hash mentioned in one of Mr. Wales' stories.

Russian émigré dailies are printing on their front pages excerpts from Mr. Wales' series. The Russian refugees in Paris, who are bitterly opposed to everything done by their communist despoilers in Russia, are unanimous in acknowledging Mr. Wales' objectivity in recounting what he sees. Paul Miliukov, minister of foreign affairs during the late Czar Nicholas' régime, said:

"Mr. Wales' stories represent no political propaganda whatsoever, but represent facts as he sees them. They are talented stories, written in a debonair tone, and possessing much American humor."

Kerensky Praises Articles.

Alexander Kerensky, premier of Russia following the first revolution, which overthrew the czar, said:

"Mr. Wales is a reporter with a keen, penetrating eye, who began with the exterior life of Russia, but whose articles are increasingly getting at the heart of the situation. He is impartial, writes without taking sides, and, considering that he is a stranger and unfamiliar with our language, he has achieved a big success."

Gen. E. Miller, successor to Gen. Alexander Koutiepoff, who mysteriously disappeared last year, as president of the federation of the Russian military, declared:

"It is new to us refugees to find a stranger daring to write objectively and concretely about family life in present day Russia."

He said he approves of the "clearness and simplicity" of the articles.

French Press Takes Notice.

The French press has been giving considerable attention to the series and excerpts from Mr. Wales' articles have appeared in the Paris Midi, La Liberte, L'Oeuvre and L'Avenir.

Mr. Wales' discovery that tooth picks are still sold in Moscow has been relayed to readers in African deserts and other faraway places through a string of provincial papers.

RUSSIA COMPLETES 5 YEAR PETROLEUM PLAN IN 2½ YEARS

MOSCOW, April 1.—(AP)—The nations which make up the soviet union today celebrated the completion of the five year plan in petroleum production in two and one-half years.

There was no recognition in the celebration and the newspaper articles and speeches which accompanied it of the tremendous problem of overproduction in other petroleum producing countries, which has all but demoralized the world's oil market.

The government now claims to be second to the United States in point of petroleum production. Government figures published today show a production of over 53,000 metric tons daily, compared with 57,000 metric tons scheduled for the last year of the five year plan.

The government announced that its production cost had decreased 39 per cent and the quality of the product greatly improved. There are more than 72,000 oil workers at present in the fields, with the expectation that there will be more than 81,000 before the end of the year. Wages average $53 monthly, which is an increase of 13½ per cent during two and one-half years.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD
Carries more passengers, hauls more freight than any other railroad in America

E. B. HUNTER, 30 NORTH MICHIGAN AVE., CHICAGO, ILL.—"As office manager for the Better English Institute of America it became my duty to secure three tenants for offices we wished to sublease. In spite of the fact that many office buildings have vacant offices we were able to rent all three of our offices within twenty-four hours after inserting an advertisement in the Sunday issue of the Chicago Tribune. The success of the office advertisement encouraged me to try to rent my own apartment, although every one discouraged me. But again the Tribune Want Ad 'worked.' A single insertion brought seven applicants for the apartment—every one of them desirable. Is it any wonder that I urge every one to use Tribune want ads?"

* * *

WAYNE TOLONEN, MONFIELD HOTEL, SHEFFIELD AND BELMONT AVES., CHICAGO, ILL.—"A month ago I was in Minnesota—unemployed, and with no prospects of getting even a job as a common laborer. On February 22, I bought a Chicago Sunday Tribune just to look at the "funnies"; but in glancing over its pages, a want ad struck my eye. I answered it by mail and as a result I now have a position which enables me to live in a nice hotel and loosen my belt one in a while instead of continually tightening it as before. A Tribune want ad certainly was an angel of mercy to me."

* * *

BERT BRISTOL, 111 W. WASHINGTON ST., CHICAGO, ILL.—"I am a stranger in Chicago, recently come from northern California, where I own several thousand acres of undeveloped farm lands. On February 23 I placed an ad in the Chicago Tribune. I received fifty-four replies. The first eighteen I called on were within the city and I sold eleven different parties from twenty to forty acres each, and will sell several more of them."

* * *

E. A. R., 512 S. WASHTENAW AVE., CHICAGO, ILL.—"Some years ago, while reading the want ad columns of the Tribune, I noticed in my favorite column headed 'Personals' an item which read something like this: 'Any one knowing the whereabouts of ——— kindly communicate with party below and have him communicate also if possible.' The notice was signed by a law firm of Canada, and the name of the party they were seeking was that of my grandfather living near Chicago. Very shortly after I communicated with this firm my grandfather was pleasantly surprised to learn that his brother, whom he hadn't seen nor heard from since they were children in England, was seeking him. In a month they were reunited, and it is with their permission I am relating this incident. I have used the Tribune Want Ad columns, too, but that incident was one we will never forget, and the Tribune has proved itself worthy of its name, 'The World's Greatest Newspaper.'"

MISS BETTY V. MORRELL, 6816 PARNELL AVE., CHICAGO, ILL.—"Two years ago our beloved collie disappeared on a Friday, four days before Christmas. Some people might not let that affect their holiday joy, but we felt miserable. We looked in the pound, searched the streets and finally telephoned in our ad to the Tribune. We were too late to get it in the Sunday paper, but they promised it for Monday. We had small hopes of having our dog back for Christmas. Promptly Monday morning a man called in response to our ad, and in two hours our collie was back. That small ad brought lots of joy, because the family that found the dog was in need, so we did what we could to brighten their Christmas and the return of the dog certainly brightened ours."

THURSDAY, APRIL 2, 1931.  21

A Pre-view by Fanny Butcher

Of all the popular books I have ever read about strange people, William B. Seabrook's about primitive Africa, "Jungle Ways" [Harcourt Brace], published today, is most startling, most vivid, most haunting.

WILLIAM B. SEABROOK.

Mr. Seabrook's "The Magic Island," the record of his journey through Haiti, was unlike any other book of travel. But the magic both black and white of its facts and its writing was as a faint whiff of mimosa in the nostrils as compared to the acrid and searing smoke of a great fire in which you know human flesh is being consumed with wood and mortar and inanimate objects, a fire to which you have ventured a little too close.

Probably no book just like "Jungle Ways" ever has been written before, picking a traveler of exactly William Seabrook's strangely fearless mental, physical, and spiritual curiosity. At least if there previously has been that traveler, he has not had the power to communicate his findings to the world.

"Jungle Ways" is spectacular, shocking, devastating beyond words. Yet, as you read it, you have a feeling that it is frank, unadorned truth, and that its power lies in the fact that it was not written to be spectacular, nor to shock. There are events, impressions, unexplained mystical happenings which can't have happened and yet which you feel actually did happen. The author himself at one time in the book says that his own feeling was exactly that—when he saw little girls impaled upon iron swords, carried about the village, watched every movement of the impaling, touched them a moment before the sword went through their bodies and touched them again when, an hour later, they walked again before him whole and unscarred.

Only by going completely "magic" himself did he have the opportunity to share in the strange magics of the natives. As you remember, in his adventures in Haiti, he had dipped into the native magic before and he knew that among all primitive peoples there are secret places of the spirits to which no white man ever can penetrate, but that only by ceasing to be—spiritually—a white man and becoming one of them is there a faint hope of exploring even the outer courts of their "jungle ways."

The natives in Africa had no difficulty in accepting him as one of them. Their beliefs not only did not make the natives reject him, because he was white, but those beliefs made it possible for them to accept him as a black man like themselves. His spirit merely was contained in a white casing.

He was meticulous to perform that custom demanded to make fetishes effective. He had for a period a native sorceress as a medium between himself and all of his life with her people. She was a veritable sorceress and recognized as such by all of the people.

She admitted him into the most esoteric of the ceremonies, frankly explained, as far as she could explain things, everything which he asked to have explained. There were mysteries which she herself only accepted without questioning.

He records his life with the Yafouba tribes and their strange and incredible customs, his visits to the cannibal chiefs, a few weeks with the Mossi and in Timbuctoo, an interlude of strange "civilized" human contacts, and finally his life among the Habbe cliff dwelling mountain people with an almost topsy-turvy code of ethics to a westerner. With the forest people the strangest magic was shared.

With the cannibals, Mr. Seabrook had an experience which he alone, probably of any living white man, ever has had and written about without reserve. He was determined to get at the bottom of all of the stories about "long pig." The recorded tales of human flesh eating were all, as far as he could find, tales at second hand. Some one had told some one else. It is an incontrovertible fact, government statistics prove it, he says, that among the Guere of the Ivory coast of Africa cannibalism still is being practiced. The Guere are what he calls natural cannibals. "By this I mean the tribe or group which eat human flesh habitually, not from ritual, religious, or magic motives, not because they cannot find other food, and not as a degenerate by-product of crime, but simply because they consider it good meat."

To the Guere, humans have no more "soul" than anything else. "They believe with equal conviction that everything has a soul," says Mr. Seabrook, "so that if they considered that the anterior possession of a soul made a material body subsequently inedible, they would immediately starve to death."

Mr. Seabrook questioned them about what human flesh tastes like. He could get nothing definite out of them, not because they were not willing to discuss it but because they actually did not know. He talked with the tribal chef and obtained from him the method of cooking "meat"—recipes which he sets down and which are incredibly grisly because of the reader's knowledge of their principal ingredient. Finally Mr. Seabrook himself ate human flesh! Instead of the stew, which was offered him, highly flavored and which he knew would disguise its taste, he roasted what the cannibals brought him exactly as a piece of meat would be roasted. He made meticulous notes about it at every stage of its cooking. He made himself eat it exactly as he would eat any other meat.

"As I ate," he writes, "I knew with increasing conviction and certainty exactly what it was like. It was like good, fully developed veal, not young, but not yet beef. It was very definitely like that, and it was not like any other meat I had ever tasted. . . . As for any taste or odor of a sort which would be surprising and make a person who tasted it, not knowing, exclaim, 'What is this?' it had absolutely none. And as for the 'long pig legend,' repeated in a thousand stories and recopied in a hundred books, it was totally completely false. It give me great comfort here to be able to write thus categorically."

"Jungle Ways" is not for the squeamish in any sense of the word. There are many other chapters which no reader will forget. There is nothing of the usual record of casual travel in "Jungle Ways." The author, as far as any one could who was not native to them, penetrated into the secret inner lives and customs of the black people whom he set out to understand. There is no surface tourist's picture of aboriginal Africa in Mr. Seabrook's book. It contains in manner as well as in material "Jungle Ways."

In a letter to Sally Joy Brown commending THE TRIBUNE and the "Friend in Need" department for their efforts to locate jobs for the unemployed of the city, John Keane, superintendent of the Illinois Free Employment bureau, writes:

"Dear Sally Joy Brown: It is impossible for me adequately to express my appreciation of the wonderful help the Sally Joy Brown department of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE has been to the Illinois Free Employment office.

Good Morning!

A Canadian bad man, a Texas horse thief and a Mississippi gambler are the three musketeers of this movie.

They are a dauntless trio, and right lucky was the fair heroine to have inspired their allegiance. I shudder to think what MIGHT have happened to her without them!

Again the screen hurtles you back to covered wagon days. This time the Dakota land rush furnishes incentive and background of the plot.

Miss Lee Carleton, a southern girl, is on her way with her dad and a string of race horses, to claim a Black Hills gold mine that belongs in the family and of which she has the map of location. En route Mr. Carleton is killed by blackguards who desire the horses for the rush. These raiders are driven off by three huskies who also covet the steeds. The discovery of a lone, weeping and beautiful girl in the wagon works havoc with their plans. The three aren't exactly gentlemen, but, you gee, they aren't exactly hard-hearted, either.

The sinners become saviors and though a dark, desperate and daring gambler fellow named Hunter does his best to wrong the gal, that best isn't good enough to keep the chaps who aren't exactly gentlemen from doing a swell job of protecting.

The three heroes are likable chaps with whose work and personalities you are pleasantly familiar. They give a lively account of themselves, receiving laudable assistance from all other hands employed in the picture's production.

If you aren't a hound for originality, "Not Exactly Gentlemen" should entertain you.

Chaplin at Tennis Club Draws Crowd, Adds 17

NICE, France, April 1.—(AP)—Charlie Chaplin's announced intention to rest here received a rude setback today. The mere announcement that he intended to play tennis at the Nice Tennis club, where Suzanne Lenglen learned the game, brought a crowd of a thousand people storming around the gates of the club. Seventeen persons were so eager to see the comedian that they paid cash for a year's membership in the institution.

GENOA, Italy, April 1.—(AP)—A considerable crowd and squads of police met the Riviera train today to meet Charlie Chaplin, only to learn that it was all an April Fool joke arranged by a movie manager to attract attention to one of Chaplin's films.

MADRID, April 1.—The Greatest Spanish matadors have been beseiging the Duke of Alba with a demand to be introduced to Charlie Chaplin when he comes to Spain, to teach him the ancient art of bull sticking. The film comedian has accepted the invitation of the duke and will spend a couple of weeks with him at his palaces in Madrid and Seville, where he will arrive on April 20.

Horseman Starts World's Fair Message to New York

FORMER OPERA STAR HERE TELLS LONDON, "CHICAGO IS WORSE"

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 1.—"Chicago is definitely worse than it has been painted. Teeming with armed gangsters and even with young girls—wives, sweethearts, and relatives of bootleggers and racketeers—who carry tiny but deadly guns. Business men all have to pay tributes to gangs for so-called protection and shootings are an every day occurrence."

It is Marguerite Namara, who drew a salary for five years for singing to Chicago audiences while a member of the Civic Opera company, speaking. These words were spoken at great length to London reporters who were aghast. An appalling picture of Chicago was supplied by her.

"To understand Al Capone's position one must understand American psychology," she continued. "Over there any one who is a success is revered. Al Capone is the biggest success and he is the worst criminal in the country."

Madame Namara adds sweetly that she is single and her ambition in life is to settle her heart in the English countryside. She concluded sorrowfully. "Now I am here, I do not like to think of leaving, but I suppose some time I must return to my American home."

Scientific Flyers Will Explore Wilds of South Venezuela

New York, April 1.—(AP)—The frontiers of "the lost world" of southern Venezuela, where gold and perhaps even diamonds may be found, will be pushed back by an expedition being organized here.

Equipped with three planes, the party hopes to spread out "like a covey of quail" over 40,000 square miles of the unexplored uplands between Mount Roraima and Mount Duida on the headwaters of the Rio Caroni.

The expedition is a purely scientific one, organized under the auspices of the American Geographical society, the American Museum of Natural History and the New York Botanical gardens.

No commercial development of any mineral resources discovered is contemplated.

Yankee Buys Manuscript by Sam Pepys

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, April 1.—[Special.]—Another piece of English history will go to America in the shape of private correspondence papers of Samuel Peppys which were bought today at Stherby's by Gabriel Wells of New York for $8,000. The four volumes, including 100 autograph pages, ranks next to the famous diary as authority on the facts of Pepys' life over twenty-four years. The sale of a collection of Pepys relics realized about $47,500. Included was a portrait of Pepys by Kneeler, which after spirited bidding sold for $8,750, also a portrait of King James II. painted expressly for Pepys. The king received the news of the invasion of England by William of Orange while sitting for his portrait but he refused to be disturbed, saying: "Ye promised Pepys this picture, I'll finish sitting." Pepys' Porringer and Salver was bought by Crichton Brothers of London and New York.

The bidding for the famous "Paston Letters" started with $17,500. They were purchased by a private individual named Haddington. This consists of correspondence of a typical 15th century family of "nouveaux riches" of Norfolk, giving a unique picture of the turbulent times of mediaeval England during the civil "wars of the roses." William Paston was a friend of Sir John Falstoff [the original of Shakespeare's Falstaff]. The letters abound in illustrations of public, life, manners, and morals under Henry VI., Edward IV., and Richard III. These 155 letters are the only part ever likely to come into the market, as all the rest are permanently located in institutions.

Falstaff, Clown or Warrior? Views About Him Conflict.

Shakespeare, a countryman of Sir John Falstaff, has set him down a braggart, wastrel, tavern haunting, wine-guzzling knave, but charming, rollicking rascal. This idea has been followed in the very recent "The Good Sir John," by an English novelist, Phoebe Fenwick Gaye. She gets him a knighthood through fraud, makes him a witty glutton, a sort of jovial wine cask, waddling into a shouting old age.

While it was the custom of Falstaff's French contemporaries, except the Burgundians and their adherents, to preach that the English were devils, wearing long tails and justly doomed by le bon dieu, famous French writers have been kinder to Falstaff than have the English. Honoré de Balzac wrote that Shakespeare had grossly mispictured a brave soldier, distorting history out of all shape of truth in regard to him. The late Anatole France, in his story about Jeanne d'Arc, makes Sir John a good fighter, with special reference to "The Battle of the Herring Casks," when some army provisions, including those items were at stake.

NEW YORK STAGE SOON WILL IMPORT THE "FOLIES BERGERE"

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, April 1.—[Special.]—With the opening of the 1931 "Folies Bergère" here tonight, it was announced by E. Ray Goetz, American theatrical producer, that the same review would be produced on Broadway in June. Thus Americans who cannot come to Paris will be able to see the "Folies Bergère" in New York, and in that way save costly steamship fare.

Because French officials, including Gaston Gerard, undersecretary for touring, and the "Folies" management itself had realized that many Americans come to Paris principally to see the "Folies," Mr. Goetz encounters difficulties in obtaining the rights for both the 1930 and 1931 shows, which will be amalgamated in his version.

Science Learns More on Old Habit of Eating

U. of I. Seeks New Element Among Foods.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 1.—(AP)—A new element in diet is on the verge of discovery at the University of Illinois.

It is something hitherto unrecognized in proteins and was disclosed briefly tonight in an address to the American Chemical society by Dr. William C. Rose of the University of Illinois.

This work has been under way for about a year, he said, and added:

"Already evidence has been obtained pointing to the presence in proteins of a compound which has not been recognized before.

"This material, the nature of which is not yet known, is certainly an indispensable constituent of the diet. If we succeed in its isolation, as we anticipate, we shall then be able to determine which of the remaining amino acids are required for normal nutrition.

"The nutritive importance of the amino acids is in itself a vast field which must be thoroughly explored. Of the 20 known components of proteins the indispensable nature of only four have been absolutely established.

"This paucity of positive information is due to the lack of available methods. The ideal method would be to feed diets in which the protein portion is replaced by mixtures of highly purified amino acids."

Prof. Rose issued a warning against food fakers. An unfortunate by-product of present day "food consciousness," he said, has been a marked increase in the number of dietary quacks and self-styled nutrition experts who exploit the public through sale of inaccurate advice, harmful books, and worthless food products.

"One favorite precept of the quack is the statement that two kinds of foods must not be eaten at the same meal," Dr. Rose continued. "Thus we are told that proteins and starches never must be consumed together, and that fruits and starchy foods are incompatible, that combinations of two or more kinds of starches, or two or more kinds of proteins are extremely bad.

"One informs us that citrus fruits must not be consumed in northern countries except perhaps in very warm weather.

"Common table salt is accused of many things—cancer, high and low blood pressure, tuberculosis, Bright's disease, gray hair, and bald heads. One 'expert' has prepared a substitute consisting of ground vitamin vegetables carefully combined with sodium chloride. [Sodium chloride is common table salt.] He supplies this for $1 per package. Evidently he trusts to the ignorance of the public regarding the identity of table salt and sodium chloride and apparently succeeds."

State Senate Gets Four Child Welfare Bills

May Raise School Age to 18 Years.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Springfield, Ill., April 1.—[Special.]—Four bills raising the compulsory school attendance age from 16 to 18 years and dealing with child labor were sent to a senate subcommittee today after a hearing upon the thirty bills presented by the Illinois committee on child welfare legislation.

The four measures which have roused controversy provide in the main as follows:

Senate bill 238—Compulsory school attendance age raised from 16 to 18, with certification for purposes of employment for children between 16 and 18 years instead of between 14 and 16 years. It is made the duty of every city, township, or district to furnish education to all children between 7 and 18, except children exempt under the act.

S. B. 240—Raises age of minors prohibited from working from 14 years to 16 years, and provides for certification for minors between 16 and 18. Provides for supervisor of child labor in the department of labor, which is empowered to declare what occupations are hazardous and to adopt regulations prohibiting employment of minors under 18 in such occupations. Provides that minors under 18 shall not be employed between the hours of 10 p. m. and 5 a. m.

S. B. 241—Amends workmen's compensation act by raising the age below which the employment of minors in hazardous occupations is illegal from 16 to 18.

S. B. 242—Regulates the employment of children in street trades in cities over 50,000. Provides that no girl under 18 and no boy under 12 shall be employed in any street trade. Boys under 16 cannot be employed in any street trade before 6 a. m. or after 8 p. m., nor for more than four hours a day or more than 24 hours a week if attending school, nor more than 8 hours a day or 48 hours a week if not attending school. Any boy engaging in street trades must obtain a permit or badge showing that he is within the age limits set by law; that he is physically able to carry on the trade.

The subcommittee expects to hold public hearings on these four bills, which have roused controversy, and senate leaders look for action adverse to the measures.

Henry P. Chandler, chairman of the committee on child welfare legislation, made the principal talk at the hearing, which was presided over by Senator Florence Fifer Bohrer [Rep., Bloomington], who introduced the thirty bills.

Among the specific things sought by the committee's schedule of bills are:

Enlarge the funds for mothers' aid, require investigation of applications for adoption before the court acts, prohibition officers for every county, provide for juvenile parole.

In the case of delinquent children, provide for committment to the public welfare department as guardian in lieu of committment to correctional institutions, with authority to provide for treatment in institutions or foster homes as each case may require.

Lent Day by Day

THE PIONEER.

Dr. Stephen E. Keeler,
[Rector of St. Chrysostom's Episcopal church.]

"You have killed the pioneer——" Acts iii., 15. [Moffatt.]

The cross is the chief object in all pioneering. Every pioneer in whatever field carries one, and the greater the field the heavier the cross. A pioneer must live dangerously. His life is the ultimate forfeit either to his venture; to the intolerance of people who resent what his ventures reveal, or both.

Jesus was the greatest pioneer . . . and His cross was the heaviest ever borne, because His explorations sought meaning and implication of the cross itself. The frontiers of the life of the cross are illimitable and therein is the surety of Easter radiance which shone on an empty tomb. Human life finds its only significance in the way of the cross—the forgiving, neighborly way of sacrificial service, proved by pain.

Pioneers are the only men that live. They choose their crosses and no one ever carried a cross who did not choose it. The indifferent, stay-at-home stand-patter who lives an unadventurous life carries no cross though he talks more about his cross than a true pioneer. He thinks his headache is his cross—or the unfavorable market is one—and proclaims that endlessly.

Such cannot be a cross because he did not choose it. There is nothing left to accident in Jesus' words, "Take up your cross——." The cross is neither flight from reality nor the explanation of suffering or calamity but the resolute and voluntary acceptance of service to God and man that costs—and costs, ultimately, all we have. Christianity is the community and communion of pioneers of crucial service.

DAMNED LITTLE FOOL

THE SIXTH JOURNEY

BY ALICE GRANT ROSMAN

SYNOPSIS.

John Falconer, a successful architect, returning home to England from Cape Town, meets Hilary Revel, author of travel books, on shipboard. During the journey home their acquaintance grows into a friendship neither wishes to end.

John tells Hilary of his daughter, Judith, born of a café singer while he was a soldier. His wife, John says, had magnanimously adopted the child. Hilary suspects such magnanimity. John's sister, Gertrude, became Judith's legal guardian when his wife died.

Hilary had taken her war invalided brother, Hugh, away from home ten years ago to give her younger sister, Christine, and brother, Stephen, a better chance. Now that Hugh was dead, Hilary was returning home. Her stepfather is the only sympathetic member of her family.

Judith leads a lonely life in her aunt's home. Her cousin, Prue, is her only friend. She has a private teacher, Miss Mead, while her cousins are away at school. Her father she knows as Uncle John. She senses she is different in some way from other children. When Aunt Gertrude hears of her brother's engagement she sends Judith to the country. John is uneasy about Judith not being in school. He thinks it unfair to drag Hilary continually into the question of the child and Hilary feels that he has had enough management in caring for Judith. John writes Gertrude for the truth. She replies that she cannot, as a decent citizen, send a waif of dubious parentage among other children.

Judith, at the farm of her former nurse Tracy's brother, is badly treated by the old servant. She meets Clive Harpenden, the little master of the home where she delivers cream for Tracy. Judith, receiving no mail, writes secretly to Prue.

Prue meets Hilary for tea and tries to enlist her aid for Judith. Hilary's vow not to interfere makes her rebuff Prue. They run into Tim De Morreville, whom Hilary and John met on the boat home. Tim drives Prue home and makes an engagement to drive her next day to visit Judith.

Falconer leaves town on a business trip.

AN IMPORTANT LETTER.

His majesty's mails carried various letters about Judith-come-by-chance during the next few days, but Prue's to her mother was not among them, which seemed a pity, for it was masterly in its way, or so thought the author before she tore it up and burned it in a candle.

"Dear Mother: I don't know what it may be costing to keep Judy at the farm. Not much, I hope, as Tracy seems under the impression heaven has sent her a general servant to scrub and clean, disguised as a paying guest. I hate to think what poor dear Aunt Sylvia would have said if she could see her darling niece's blistered hands and broken nails, so I thought you had better know. I can't believe either it is with your permission that Tracy addresses Judith as 'BASTARD!' Your affectionate daughter,

"PRUDENCE LIVINGSTONE."

Yes, it was a neat and telling little note. Prue sighed, for she had put in several artistic touches which it was very distressing to have to waste on the desert air yia the candle. Reflection, however, convinced her that self-denial must be exercised for Judy's sake. To her mother Tracy would deny everything and impute to her charge evils of which the child had never even guessed. Judy was reserved and shy and as innocent as you make them; she would never be able to defend herself in this world against the subtle insinuations of a hardened old reptile like Tracy or the shocked moral axioms of her aunt Gertrude.

"That ought to do it," thought Prue with pride, "and I flatter myself that I have slipped in the address most cunningly."

It would never do, only make matters worse, and almost certainly provide poor Judy with so strict a guard that even the small comfort of Prue's secret visits would be denied her.

So the masterpiece was consigned to the flames, and Judy's champion sat down belligerently with her hands clasped round her head to think of some other aid for her.

Hilary Revel? Useless. She was such an expert on the question of good taste that Prue had a moment's vicious desire to ring her up and say sweetly: "That little girl I told you of is being called a bastard by her dear old nurse. Nice, isn't it?"

Uncle John? Here at last was an inspiration surely? He had silenced her mother that night at Wandsworth in a way which seemed to suggest he could put his foot down even if Aunt Sylvia had once run him at her chariot wheels. And he was a busy man. He would waste no time in consulting his sister Gertrude, but, if he did anything at all, would dash off and demolish Tracy.

She reached for a sheet of note paper and after careful thought decided that here brevity was the best spice for her tale.

"Dear Uncle John: I happened to be passing Beech farm, Haydon, Bedfordshire, and saw Judy. You may like to know that Tracy is calling her a bastard to her face. Yours truly,

"PRUDENCE LIVINGSTONE."

"That ought to do it," thought Prue with pride, "and I flatter myself I have slipped in the address most cunningly."

She directed the letter to Falconer's office, marked it Personal, and put on a stamp with a bang that shook all the furniture in the room. Then another idea occurred to her. If she wanted that advance from her mother she had better ask for it at once before the fur began to fly, because you never knew. . . .

"Dear Mother," wrote Prue, "could you possibly let me have a pound against next month's allowance, by return of post, as I have had a good deal of expense and don't like to run into debt?

"Your affectionate daughter,

"PRUDENCE."

Greatly cheered, she ran out and consigned both letters to the pillar box at the corner. Falconer's lay on his office desk with a pile of others, waiting his return from the north.

Gertrude, that excellent woman, sent a treasury note to her daughter at once, together with a pithy address in her best manner on economy, which Prudence, alas, was too much occupied with her studies to read.

On the same evening that Prudence launched her thunderbolt Hilary Revel made up her mind that she would speak of Judy in her letter to John and let the consequences take care of themselves. Prue's eager plea for the little girl had not, of course, fallen on such barren ground as she had contemptuously supposed. Hilary, already sympathetic to Judy for her father's sake, and slightly suspicious of the various people who had, as Prue would inelegantly have expressed it, chucked her from one to the other for reasons of their own, could not now get the child out of her mind.

Lying awake after Falconer had gone, she recalled the whole story as he had told it to her that afternoon at sea, and she knew that her own reactions to it had not changed.

Little by little, as she lay thinking it over, the gist of the little girl's letter came back to her, and in spite of all she had said to Prue, and of all her careful resolutions, she was greatly tempted to take Tim De Morreville at his word and ask him to drive her down to Bedfordshire next day. She did not quite know what she meant to do when she got there . . . whether to call at the farm on some pretext in the hope of catching a glimpse of Judy, or to ask for her openly in the name of her Uncle John. She was still debating the questions when she fell asleep.

Next morning different counsels prevailed. Reflection showed Hilary that by going openly to see Judith she would probably incense Mrs. Livingstone and do the little girl no good; and the other alternative seemed too much like spying for her taste. She put the expedition, therefore, out of her mind, but Judy herself she could not dismiss. She was moved by pity for her, distressed for John, and at the same time tied helpless by her conviction that she must not interfere.

Each day, true to her promise, she was going out to Greenwood to see the progress of the work and cheer his absence by an account of how much was being done.

Hilary searched her own heart and believed that if the shadow became a substance she would be almost relieved. She was convinced she could never feel jealous of Judy, whatever else she might feel, and her deep affection for her own stepfather removed any doubts of that much maligned relationship between herself and the little girl. And John? She was sure it would be a relief to him to be done with subterfuges and come out into the light. They were not young lovers, he and she; they had both seen enough of the world to have a healthy contempt for its opinions; they were not so selfish that they could snatch their own happiness at the expense of a child.

Wandering about the garden while Rogers picked her a great armful of flowers from the herbaceous border and told her about a hundred and one things he would like to do if permitted, she tried to picture John's daughter growing up and happy here, with no one to take her letters and send her to farms in the country when she did not know why. Going through the house she looked into the bedroom which was to have white walls and a pink carpet and knew it would be a perfect room for a little girl.

Bright Sayings of the Children

The husband of a friend of mine is employed by a detective agency, and wonderful tales are told of his remarkable intuition and marvelous discoveries when other sleuths have failed.

I was complimenting her son upon his remarkable daddy when the little fellow said: "I guess I'm a better detective than he is. He never remembers where he puts his pipe or his hat, and I'm the guy that has to find 'em." G. J. W.

When John was 3 years old he was simply wild over telephones and wore out two good toy ones in a few months. He telephoned to imaginary shops and to friends and relatives daily. We heard many astonishing things in these one sided conversations and one day there was a great rattling with the hook and the indignant protest, "Oppawaits, you hunged me up!" E. J. K.

Crossbarred Flannel Makes Stunning Coat

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Paris chic is going to be seen behind bars this spring. Never in all my years of style sleuthing have I seen so many costumes made of crossbarred and stripe-barred materials as this spring. There are crossbarred silks, woolens, cottons, linens and chiffons, made up into every conceivable type of ensemble and garment.

One of the most distinguished crossbarred fabrics is the new gray flannel for coats and suits, crossbarred with tiny white lines. It is an ideal material for travel and general wear top coats, for it neither collects dust, nor is susceptible to wrinkles, and it is chic as chic.

The coat shown in the sketch herewith is made of this flannel and in addition to this it sports a second fashion feature—dark velveteen to replace fur. The deep cuffs on the flaring sleeves and the huge collar, in one piece with the V-inset to the waistline at the back, are made of darkest gray velveteen. Notched bands of the crossbarred flannel edge both the collar and the sleeves.

This coat has a streamline silhouette, held in ever so slightly at the waistline by the snug, four button double breasted closing and by the bias band belt across the back. This belt is sewed to the coat body, and is the meeting center for two bias bands Vs from the neck to the waist of the coat and from the hem on the skirt.

Girl Disgusted by Chap Who Takes Too Many Drinks

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Understand I am no prude about drink. I'll vote wet when the time comes around. But, honestly, if you like a man, isn't it pretty sickening to see him make a stupid idiot of himself, either because he can't hold his liquor or takes too much to be able to carry it like a gentleman? It's something pretty serious girls are up against today.

"Take my case and, no doubt, that of many other girls. I met 'my man' some time ago and recently we've been going around together a good deal. He is well educated, a brilliant conversationalist, has charming manners, dresses well, and is a real go-getter. Could a girl ask more? She could. And it is that he'd lay off the highballs.

"In the course of an evening this fellow will change in appearance from everything nice and proudly presentable to a bleary-eyed, blotchy-looking, hair-rumpled object that you hate to have any one see as your escort home. There have been times of late when I couldn't bring myself to introduce him as my escort.

"Are girls supposed to be custodians of their escorts' behavior? I don't want to be one of those nagging, bossing girls, for we're not yet to the stage where I may act proprietarily. Now, if the fellow were worthless, if he was a rounder or a bounder, I'd be off with him. But he's not. He's simply grand when he's sober, which is much, much more of the time than when he is not. But in his drinking condition he creates a picture that stays in my mind for days afterward.

"And when you belong to a type that intends to take its marriage seriously—well, you just get sick at heart visualizing this as a future mate. As a married friend of mine says: 'The other woman's husband may be funny when he's drunk. Your own is never funny to you.'

"I know that it's just a 'style' these young fellows are following. The other fellow does it, so they must do it, too, just to show what great big men of the world they are. I certainly have enough faith in the good qualities of my beau to appreciate him and them—but why do they go in for those horrible, distorted impressions they create of themselves? Am I right or wrong?—E. C."

You'll have to answer her, boys. Maybe you never thought of those snapshots that are being taken of you in your convivial moments!

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Let Him Call.

"Dear Miss Blake: My new boy friend called me and I wasn't home. Should I call him?

"WONDERING."

Unless he asked that you call him it would be in better taste to wait until he calls you again.

Poetry Contest Opens Today with Nine States Represented

The first national poetry speaking contest to be held at Northwestern university will be opened today and continue tomorrow. The contest, in which 64 representatives of nine states will participate, is sponsored by the school of speech of the university.

Three types of literature will be employed by the speakers. They are the sonnet, ballad, and dramatic poetry. The winner of the finals will be awarded the Sidney Lanier medal. According to Dean Ralph B. Dennis of the school of speech the object of the contest is to encourage love of good poetry, and to cultivate an understanding of the power of spoken verse.

Judges of the finals will be Louise Ayres Garnett, Lew Sarett, Harriet Monroe, Harold A. Ehrensperger, Bertrand G. Nelson, David Edwards, and Marion Strobbel.

SUGAR IMPROVES FLAVOR OF MEAT AND VEGETABLES

Try a Dash of Sugar to a Pinch of Salt

Cooks who are successful in the art of making vegetables appetizing depend upon two rules: First, cook raw vegetables in as little water as possible. Canned vegetables should not be recooked—merely heated thoroughly. Second, season with sugar as well as salt.

Salt, by itself, merely overcomes flatness. Sugar, however, brings out the flavor of the vegetable. And when the two are combined an unusually appetizing goodness is developed. A dash of sugar to a pinch of salt is a good rule to follow.

The more one experiments with sugar and salt in seasoning string beans, cabbage, spinach, peas, carrots and other vegetables, the more apparent is the flavor value of this combination. Doctors and dietitians approve this use of sugar as a flavor. Most foods are more delicious with sugar. The Sugar Institute.

Teas Reveal Spring Styles Now Adopted

BY THALIA

THE spring mode, as interpreted by Chicago's fashionable women, won't be fully apparent until fur coats are discarded and new suits put in their appearance, but floral hats and frocks are to be seen in abundance these days wherever smart women go to luncheon and tea.

Some More Details About the Fashions as Displayed.

Brown seems to be very popular, and one of the best looking outfits I've seen is one worn by Mrs. Albert H. Brenker. The dress is of wool crêpe, and has wide sleeve bands of white crepe set on diagonally above the elbow. A vestee coming to a long point in front and cuffs with brown buttons are also features of the dress, and the accompanying chapeau is a modified beret of the same shade of deep chocolate brown.

Mrs. John Lewis Cochran has a smart brown frock and hat, too. The dress gives the two piece effect and has a wide green patent leather belt, and the hat is one of the new straws with two little flat quill-shaped ornaments of rust and green patent leather at the back, matching a shoulder flower of cloth of the same colors.

Louis Betts Back in City; Notes on Art

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

AN announcement from the O'Brien galleries as to the comings and goings of Louis Betts, one of the foremost American portrait painters, is always in order. Mr. Betts has just arrived from New York to execute several portrait commissions, the first of which takes him to the University of Chicago. While in town Mr. Betts is staying at the Union League club.

The O'Brien gallery has more of importance, however, this week than the bare announcement. It is showing a group of superb monotypes by Seth Hoffman, forceful, vigorous work that embraces keen delineation of character and understanding of nature. One of the best of the portrait studies is "Dark with Doubt," in which a dusky Negress raises eyes heavy with the blackest and direst suspicions. She is truly "dark with doubt."

In the larger gallery there are several fine English hunting scenes, oil paintings, and one hunting scene by a Chicago painter, Edgar S. Cameron, who has made a success of this subject so far from his usual beaten track. He has painted a fall day with a tremble of mist in the air, dogs have broken from the field and are running down the road; behind them come the red-coated riders galloping easily over the dewed turf. It is, if one can apply charming to a hunting scene, a charming interpretation of a passage in the hunt.

Kathleen Wheeler completes the show with her new compositions for book-ends or ornaments. Her hunting scenes are spirited, though a trifle heavy for a table. One can imagine them set in as relief at the upper corners of a substantial book shelf in a man's den. Her tigers, on the contrary, with their lazy, good natured yellow and black bodies are ideal safeguards to a row of books.

The Chicago Camera club had the formal opening of its new quarters at 137 North Wabash avenue last night. The Chicago Woman's club is showing this week drawings by Boris Artzybasheff, illustrations for the book "Behind Moroccan Walls," that is the work of Mrs. Ira Nelson Morris. At the Arts club is a fascinating exhibit of Georgian silver and old Sheffield plate and period furniture from the Brainard Lemon collection of Louisville. This, with the reassurance that the Chicago Art institute owns two authentic Rembrandts, according to the appraisal of Dr. William R. Valentiner is this weeks' budget of art news.

Opens Saturday Garfield Park Flower Show

Displays of 25,000 plants, a large proportion of them Easter lilies, feature the annual Easter and spring flower show to open Saturday at the Garfield park conservatory.

W. R. James is president of the West Chicago park commission, which sponsors this show. An invitation has been extended to the public. The show, which will remain intact through April 19th, with no admission charge. Doors will be open each day from 8 a. m. to 10 p. m., including Sundays and weekdays.

Space in the horticultural hall and the show house, totaling 20,000 square feet, has been set aside for the specially prepared flowers that will include, beside the Easter lilies, some potted roses, large tulips, golden-yellow genistas, hyacinths, narcissi, long stemmed begonias, and hundreds of primroses.

The location of the conservatory is at Lake street and Central Park avenue. The Easter display is one of three major shows held during the year. Commissioners report that the conservatory is the largest municipally owned institution of its kind in the world, containing 3,500 species and varieties of plants valued at $1,250,000, and that it entertained more than 642,000 persons during 1930.

ARGENTINA FACING FAMINE OF FILMS UNDER NEW TARIFF

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, April 1.—(AP)—Argentina is threatened with a film famine owing to the decision of representatives of motion picture producers to suspend releases on account of the recent increase in the duty on films.

The tax increase, which was decreed on Feb. 26, was followed by a protest from the motion picture interests to the government asking reconsideration.

Thus far no reply has been received from the government and in the meantime new films have been accumulating at the customs house with distributors refusing to pay the duty.

Washington Receives Advance Guard of Yearly Easter Parade

Washington, D. C., April 1.—(AP)—The annual Easter parade into Washington has begun.

More than 1,000 persons were shown today through the reception and public rooms of the White House, a good barometer of the annual Easter influx.

Long lines of visitors, most of them of high school age, waited to be taken to the top of the Washington monument and the various government departments were overrun with callers.

Officially Washington gave a warm welcome, but atmospherically it was a bit chilly with cold showers falling intermittently.

The world famous cherry trees around the basin in Potomac park were awaiting only a touch of warm sunshine before bursting into white and pink bloom, and the hundreds of magnolias in the various parks were showing multicolored buds.

Every year at Easter thousands come to Washington especially when that fête happens to fall at cherry blossom time.

Wan, Dieted Look Wipes Beauty from a Femme's Face

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Whatever else you do to your face, don't give it a "dieted" look. Better an extra inch on the hips, any day, than that drawn, dieted face of which you see more than is well for the beauty reputation of our women.

You can't be told, either, in pounds, just where to stop the dieting you're doing to avoid that look. It might appear before you feel that you are nearly through dieting. But when the lines begin to show up, or shadows darken the cheek, or eyes—lay off the dieting for a week or ten days, anyway. And begin it again, but proceed more slowly. You'll know by the first experience that you are not one of the women who can take off weight quickly without showing what she is up to.

The younger the woman reducing, the more quickly she may reduce, of course, although I do not advocate quick reducing under any age circumstances. The less speed with which the fat is removed, the more perfect the operation. I've just seen a lovely bit of reducing work on a young matron who let a whole year remove her fifteen pounds. She looks exceptionally young, as a result. Her face has lost just the right amount of fullness to leave the curves of youth untouched.

Older women have to be careful about this facial effect of strenuous dieting. I can't see where they gain a thing with a svelte figure if the face belies the youth of the silhouette. I don't know but it would be a good idea for older ones to let the face act as the barometer. Anyway, it is better than setting a stated number of pounds as the target, regardless of what happens to the facial appearance.

In a couple of years more I doubt if we will see this dieted face much, because it is being talked about a good deal and not in flattering terms. On one such drawn and dark shadowed face and eye the judgment was passed that the woman was "either a cocktail fiend or a fiend for dieting." The dieted look does resemble in cheerlessness the face of the one who goes in heavily for cocktail hours. Without, however, going moralist on the subject, just let beauty be your guide, and remember that the face is terribly influential in compliment earning.

Food Talk.

Mrs. F. C. P. writes: "Will you please give me a recipe for cakes that are feathery?"

Numerous feather cake recipes are to be found in cook books. Some are made of egg whites, others of the yolks. These recipes generally call for considerable butter and those made with the egg whites call for more than those made of the yolks. This is a logical use of fat, however, because the egg yolks contain fat and whites do not.

If one wishes to prepare a less expensive cake than our recipes indicate, half butter and half hydrogenated fat may be used. Or all hydrogenated fat may be used and the butter flavor will be sensed if the gem pans are oiled with melted butter. The flavor of butter on the crust of cup cakes gives one the first and most impressive flavor. The flavor of hydrogenated fat is rather neutral. Chicken fat is especially good for the preparation of cake.

Any cake batter will produce a more feathery cake baked in gem pans than in a layer or loaf. The quick baking has this influence. The usual cake method of mixing batter results in a more feathery texture than when the batter is mixed by the muffin method. The latter method produces a spongy rather than a feathery texture. The two recipes which we are giving may oe used at the same time to utilize both yolks and whites of eggs.

FEATHER CAKE (EGG WHITES).

½ cup butter
¾ cup sugar
6 tbsps. milk
1¼ cups cake flour
2 tsps. baking powder
¼ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. flavoring
4 egg whites

Cream the shortening until soft and plastic. Add the sugar in three portions, creaming thoroughly after each addition. Add the milk alternately with the flour that has been sifted with the baking powder and salt, and the flavoring at the last. Whip the egg whites until stiff and fold them carefully into the cake batter. When they are folded in, beat about one minute. Turn into buttered gem pans and bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.] to the preferred color.

Yield, ten cup cakes.

GOLD FEATHER CAKE.

1¼ cups cake flour
2 tsps. baking powder
⅔ cup butter [6 tbsp.]
⅞ cup granulated sugar
4 egg yolks
¼ tsp. lemon or orange extract
⅔ cup milk [6 tbsp.]

Sift flour. Then measure. Add baking powder and sift three times. Cream the butter and sugar and beat; add egg yolks and flavoring. Add the milk, then the flour, and beat hard. Put into gem pans and bake in a medium [350 degrees F.] oven 10 to 15 minutes.

Yield, ten cup cakes.

RIPE OLIVE CROQUETTES.

1 cup ripe olives
½ cup nut meats
1 slice onion
1½ cups soft bread crumbs
1 tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. pepper
2 eggs, beaten
Egg and crumbs

Remove olive pits before measuring. Chop olives, nuts, and onion together until rather fine. Combine with the next four ingredients and shape into croquettes of any desired shape. Roll in fine bread crumbs, then in beaten egg, and again in crumbs. Fry in hot fat [390 degrees F.] to a golden brown. Drain well and serve while hot. Tomato sauce is good with these croquettes.

Yield, six servings.

A mimeographed sheet of ten liver recipes will gladly be sent on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

MISS G.: EXERCISE IS IMPORtant in stimulating the functions of the various organs of the body, particularly the organs of digestion. For the average person of sedentary occupation one hour a day should be given over to exercise—walking, tennis, golf, swimming, and horseback riding. My youth preservers may be had for a stamped addressed envelope.

Help Youngsters to Find Nature in a Metropolis

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"Sidelights on Stubbornness," one of a new series of booklets for parents, will be sent by Mrs. Bevans on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope. This series deals with the various aspects of child behavior directly—not through suggestions for reading.

If you live in a city and want to arouse in your children an interest in the natural world or help them to satisfy an interest they already have in it, there are more ways of doing it than by taking trips to the country or parks. These other ways are by visits to the zoos and museums of natural history.

Children love the zoo from the time they can walk. I don't need to go into the fascination zoos have for them. But trips to the museums of natural history should not be begun too early. You see, the stillness of the animals shown in a museum, even if they are in the new, marvelously naturalistic group settings, bother some children.

The stillness mystifies them, and particularly if there are few people around, even frightens them a little. But when they are old enough the museum of natural history is fascinating, and with the short descriptions given of the groups enrich their understanding of the world of field and wood and stream. This holds true of children who go to the country often and those who do not.

If, with seeing eyes and hearing ears, you take the children to the country, to the seashore, to zoos and to the museums in their early years you will be satisfying a natural and primitive craving that is in them all. The other fruits of these experiences will be talked of in a later article.

Books, then, are the one thing we have omitted to mention. There are two kinds of books you can make use of to help your children and yourself to know the outdoor world. One is what we call a handbook or guide book to carry with you on trips. The other is the longer book that is used at home as a book of reference.

A new booklet containing an enlarged list of nature books of both kinds will be sent by this department in the usual way. It will be well to be supplied with your reading matter on the natural world as early in the season as possible.

Nature is so inconsiderate!

POOR Alice! As old-fashioned as her mother. In mother's day there was no help for the girl who suffered every month. But this is 1931!

A million modern women have ended their monthly martyrdom to pain. They make engagements — and keep them — without a thought to the time of month.

And so can you.

If you want your periods to be painless, take Midol—a medicine made for the purpose. Take it in time, and the pain won't even start. If the pains have started, they will subside in from five to seven minutes. No matter how hard a time you've always experienced, Midol never fails.

How can anything so harmless—for Midol is not a narcotic—be so effective, and act so quickly?

Only the specialists who found this wonderful antidote for pain can answer that. But any woman who has tried it can tell you that Midol will remove your last excuse for ever giving-in to periodic pains, headaches, etc.

WOMAN'S OR MISS' DRESS.

Every smart dress, particularly of mid-sports character, has its own little jacket. This is one of the season's prettiest types. When the jacket is removed you will be instantly won over by the charm of the dress. The skirt is plaited to form a box-plaited effect, and the simple bodice has a slight cowl drape at the front. Blue plaided crêpe silk with plain blue wool for the jacket made the original model.

The pattern, 3025, comes in sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years and 36 and 38 inches bust measure. Size 16 requires 3½ yards of 39 inch material and 1⅞ yards of 39 inch material for the jacket.

PEORIA BARGES TO NEW ORLEANS SOON TO START

Service Expected to Begin Within Six Weeks.

Peoria, Ill., April 1.—[Special.]—River navigation between Peoria and New Orleans, set to open July 1, may be inaugurated within the next five or six weeks, according to Jacob A. Harmon of Peoria.

With the completion of Peoria's new $400,000 waterway terminal by May 1, local engineers are of the opinion that the barge lines between the two points can start earlier than had been planned.

Maj. Gen. T. Q. Ashburn, president of the Inland Waterways corporation, had set the opening for July 1 because the United States engineers had informed him that some work was to be done on the locks at La Grange and Campsville, but the government has decided to abandon its present plan of repairs until after the present navigation season. Peoria's new terminal is equipped to handle 2,000 tons of merchandise daily. It has been constructed on an expansion plan providing ample room to treble the tonnage within a short time.

Lower Rates Are Predicted.

Mr. Harmon, head of the engineering company constructing the Peoria plant, estimates that private and contract carriers can handle the bulk of freight out of Illinois valley at the rate of two to three mills per ton mile, compared to the railroad rates of 10 to 12 mills.

Peoria has already entered into a contract with the 12 railroads entering the city, giving them access to the terminal by the payment of one switching charge.

The interstate commerce commission has ordered all rail lines operating in Peoria to file joint rail and water rates with the inland waterways corporation before July 1.

The waterway rate, according to Mr. Harmon, shows a saving of nearly 30 per cent in freight rates compared with the present rail figures.

The Marquette Cement company has already shipped four barge fleets loaded with 2,500 to 3,000 tons of cement to St. Louis. Their saving, according to Mr. Harmon, has been from $2,500 to $3,000 on each trip in freight rates. Loading their cargo at their Oglesby plant, the consignment goes direct by water to St. Louis.

Plan Cement Shipments.

The cement company also plans to ship several large cargoes to Louisiana by water. The state has awarded a large contract to that concern for cement to be used in the construction of hard roads there.

Peoria's plant has been equipped to handle sulphur, in bulk, by barge load lots. Here it will be transferred to freight cars and shipped elsewhere. Arrangements have already been made with a Louisiana sulphur concern for such a transfer.

The life of inland industry depends largely upon the development of waterway systems throughout the valley, Mr. Harmon declared.

Railroads, which for many years have fought the waterway projects, are one by one falling in line, realizing that waterway transportation in the valley regions will stimulate their business and also provide work and prosperity to the unemployed.

The C. & E. I. railroad, which has access to three river terminals at St. Louis, Commerce, and Joppa, has already opened negotiations with the barge lines there on the interchange of freight. They have agreed to meet all common and water carriers in rates.

ARBUCKLE, STAGE, SCREEN STAR, IS DEAD, AGED 64

Waddington, N. Y., April 1.—[Special.]—Maclyn Arbuckle, stage and screen star, widely known for his line "nobody loves a fat man," died at his home here today after an illness of more than four years. He was 64 years old.

Of the many stage successes in which he appeared in the course of his long stage career Arbuckle is perhaps best known for his rôle of Sheriff "Slim" Hoover in "The Roundup" and his later part of Jim Hackler in George Ade's great play "The County Chairman." It was in "The Roundup" that the "fat man" line appeared.

The actor started out to be a lawyer, but kept his shingle out only about a year—in Boston—before deciding that the legal profession was not suited to his talents.

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

ADMIRAL ROBISON RETIRES AS HEAD OF ANNAPOLIS

Annapolis, Md., April 1.—(AP)—Cheered by the midshipmen and praised by Annapolis city officials, Rear Admiral S. S. Robison retired today as superintendent of the Naval academy and closed a career of 43 years in the navy.

The regiment of midshipmen gave Rear Admiral Robison a round of cheers in front of his home last night and regret at his passing was expressed by Maurice Hibschmann, regimental commander.

A delegation representing the Annapolis city administration and various civic organizations planned to present a resolution this afternoon praising him for coming to the relief of the city during the severe drought of last summer.

The superintendent was to leave following an unofficial ceremony staged by his naval colleagues.

Rear Admiral Thomas C. Hart, who succeeds Robison, is to arrive May 1. In the meantime Capt. Charles P. Snyder, commandant of midshipmen, will be acting superintendent.

FOUND SLAIN IN SO. SIDE ROOM ON SERVANT HUNT

J. T. Stevens, 73 years old, 6515 Woodlawn avenue, a retired painting contractor, was found slain yesterday afternoon in a room on the third floor at 4232 South Park way. He had been shot through the head and stabbed.

The building is occupied by Negroes, and the police were told that a man known as Shoestring and a woman, Dorothy Thompson, had been seen leaving the place together a few minutes after shots were heard at 2:55 p. m. The room had been rented to the woman.

Relatives of Stevens said that he had gone to the section where he was killed to hire a maid. Robbery, they added, may have been the motive for the slaying, as he had a considerable sum in his pockets when he left home in the morning. Only 35 cents were found on the body.

She will be re-arrested and held for the corner's inquest today.

MOTHER LOSES FIGHT ON SON'S UNUSUAL WILL

St. Paul, Minn., April 1.—(AP)—The will of the late Edward P. Earhart of St. Paul, which left nearly $100,000 to Minneapolis and St. Paul institutions and 73 persons, was held valid today by Judge Albin S. Pearson in Probate court here.

The ruling followed a hearing on objections to the document on the grounds that Earhart was incompetent when it was drawn Jan. 29, 1930. The objections were filed by his mother, Mrs. E. L. Earhart of Evanston, Ill., who was bequeathed only the income from a $25,000 trust fund.

Introduced in evidence was a certified copy of a record of a Cook County, Ill., court showing Earhart was adjudged insane there April 14, 1927, and committed to an institution. Judge Pearson ruled this was not proof that Earhart was incompetent in 1930, when he lived here. He died last January.

New Program of Spirituals on WLS Tonight

Songs which generations of tobacco workers have sung as they worked in Virginia tobacco factories will be broadcast all over the country tonight at 7 o'clock by the Dixie Spiritual Singers over the network of the National Broadcasting Co.

This is the first time that the Dixie Spirituals have been heard over a network of radio stations. Tonight you can hear spirituals as they are sung by the natural voices of the workers themselves in the manner handed down for generations.

At 7 o'clock, the radio audience will be hooked up directly with the Edgeworth tobacco factory in Richmond to listen to this unusual group of singers. They do not pretend to be concert artists. Most of them work in the factory during the day. But critics who have heard them marvel at the stirring, primitive quality of this unique performance.

No records of these songs have been kept, except in the traditions and memories of the race which created them, and they will be sung by the Dixie Spiritual Singers in the old-time Southern way, without accompaniment.

This novel feature will be heard at 7 o'clock tonight over Station WLS and every Thursday evening at the same hour.

Grand Rapids, Mich., April 1.—[Special.]—Judge Clarence William Sessions of United States District court died at his home here this morning after a long illness. He was 72 years old.

Many famous cases over which he presided in his career of 13 years on the federal bench brought the name of Judge Sessions into the limelight. He became a national figure in 1919 when he presided over the trial of Senator Truman H. Newberry and 16 others charged with illegal practices in bringing about Newberry's election to the United States senate. He ordered those involved in this scandal to prison, but was overridden by the Supreme court. He also conducted the trial of Lamar, "The Wolf of Wall Street."

BRUINS' PLUCK TIES SCORE IN THIRD PERIOD

La Rochelle Drives In Winning Goal.

Play Final Here

LES CANADIENS and the Chicago Blackhawks will open the final five game series for the Stanley cup and the title of world's hockey champions at the Stadium tomorrow night. The second games will be played Sunday night at the Stadium and the remaining three games of the series at Montreal.

MONTREAL, Que., April 1.—(AP)—Les Canadiens of Montreal beat the rugged Boston Bruins, 3 to 2, with an overtime goal here tonight, ending their five-game National Hockey league series. The Canadiens won the series, three games to two. A crossshot by Wilder LaRochelle, substitute Montreal wingman, ended the deciding battle tonight after nineteen minutes of overtime and gave the Flying Frenchmen the right to meet the Chicago Blackhawks in the Stanley cup finals.

The Bruins were great in defeat. They were smothered hopelessly in the first period under a shifty, bewildering attack. They got their stride in the second period and, with increasing momentum, drove furiously in a terrific offensive in the third to shove over two goals and tie the score.

13,000 See Game.

It was not great hockey tonight, but 13,000 fans were tense with excitement because of the stake. Canadiens, as Canada's solo surviving bid for the Stanley cup, fought desperately to stay in the running to defend the old silver mug they won last season.

Both teams were leg weary and battered by the four hard games they had played. Boston won the first encounter at home, coming from behind to win, 5 to 4. The Canadiens next beat the Bruins at Boston, 1 to 0. The Canadiens took their first home game, 4 to 3, and then lost to Boston Monday night by 3 to 1.

The crippled Canadiens tore into Boston with a vicious offensive in the first period tonight. Boston did not get a shot on Hainesworth till 18 minutes passed. The first period gave the Canucks a comfortable 2-0 lead. Johnny Gagnon scored first on a pass from Marty Burke inside the Boston defense. Lepine took a short pass from Joliat as they rounded the Bruins' defense from opposite sides and drilled the puck into the corner of the net.

The Canadiens tired after their first period drive and Boston started a dogged attack in the second period. No score came until the third session, when Cooney Weiland rattled two goals behind Hainesworth. Weiland bored through left wing around the defense and beat the Canuck goalie with a cross shot for his first goal. The second score came from a scramble in the Canadiens' defense area. Weiland took a pass from Barry and Clapper and lifted the puck into the cage.

Canadiens' Goal Recalled.

A welter of Canadiens on top of Tiny Thompson shoved the puck over the line with two minutes to go, but the play was called back. Both teams were playing at high tension by then and bumping was wholesale. Chapman slashed Howie Morenz in the face with his stick and drew a major penalty for it. Boston stalled effectively till he came back.

The Canadiens mustered energy for a plucky last minute try in overtime. They blazed in at the Boston goal again and again, the sturdy Shore-Blackman defense stubbornly resisting. Boston seemed tired, and waited for a break. Marty Burke rushed into Boston defensive area through center and swung a quick pass to La Rochelle on right wing. The little wingman sent a whistling drive at Thompson true to the corner of the net and the game was over.

Manager Art Ross of the Bruins jumped over the boards and ran across the ice to congratulate the Canadiens, who go to Chicago tomorrow to meet the Hawks Friday and Sunday, after which they return to Montreal to complete the five game series.

KNUTE ROCKNE
As I Knew Him
BY ARCH WARD, SPORTS EDITOR

This is the first of a series of articles on the career of Knute Rockne, Notre Dame football coach, who died in an air crash Tuesday. Arch Ward, Tribune sports writer, was an intimate friend of Rockne for thirteen years. Mr. Ward, as a student at Notre Dame, worked with Rockne, traveled with him, and became one of Rockne's confidants.

From the ancient days of Frank Hinkey, Pudge Heffelfinger, Walter Eckersall, Ted Coy, Willie Heston, Jim Thorpe, and Wallie Steffen intercollegiate football has boasted its ideals and its idols, its record breakers and its dramatic heroes in picturesque profusion.

Football has sent its Grange, its Haughton, its Zuppke, its Stagg, its Yost marching down the colorful corridors of time to their definite and deserved places in the hall of fame. No sport, not even baseball, with its world series glamour, matches football in its romantic background and its ability to fire a nation's imagination.

No sport produces characters more widely known than football. We cite Eckersall, Grange, and the Four Horsemen for evidence. For that reason in no sport is it so difficult to reach the peak and hold it as in present day football, with its mounting standards and widespread competition.

You're a Hero One Day and a Dub the Next.

A great gridiron team today may be leveled to mediocrity tomorrow. A player who dashes up and down the field one Saturday may find himself stopped at every turn against the same caliber opponent the next. A coach may be a hero in 1930 and a dub in 1931.

That is why it is a distinction, if not a remarkable accomplishment, to have attained the highest place in the sport and hold it over a period of years. Briefly, it must be something to talk about when you achieve the success of Knute Rockne.

I knew Rockne about as well as one man can know another after thirteen years of friendship. I was with him when he started his career as head coach at Notre Dame. For the first two years we were constant companions. I used his office as a study room. I was with him at every game the team played in that undefeated span of 1919 and 1920. We were together at the hospital the night George Gipp, the greatest player Rockne developed, died.

I have felt the sting of his sharp criticisms. I have known what it means to get a word of praise.

He Was Builder of Notre Dame's Greatness.

The football wizard of Notre Dame was admittedly the leader of his profession. Maybe it was because of superior material. Perhaps it was the environment for the development of the game. But whatever the reason, the teams which have painted the sky with the name of Notre Dame were built by Rockne. No man can take that away from him.

Rockne took college football out of the ramshackle stands of 15 years ago into million dollar fields and made it the greatest attraction in sport. He opened up the game so spectators knew what was going on. In short, he made football a national mania.

Rockne's relation to the public was unlike that of most sport heroes. He was held in warmer regard than almost any other player or leader. He and his teams had caught the fancy of the man in the street, the fan without collegiate affiliation. He built for Notre Dame the largest synthetic alumni the collegiate world has known.

When Notre Dame was the drawing card the largest stadia in the country were unable to handle the crowds. Maybe it was because it was Notre Dame. More likely it was because

Hornsby's 4 Hits Fail to Prove Inspirational.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., April 1.—Bud Teachout this afternoon tried to pitch for the Cubs in the final of the spring series with the Pittsburgh Pirates, but was unable to display any skill whatsoever, and for the second time in two days our drowsy heroes blew a four run lead and then marched on to a fine blistering at the hands of the Pirates. The score today was Pittsburgh 11, Chicago 7.

To those interested in Bud's health, however, it will be comforting news that the young man was not injured in a fourth inning riot in which Pittsburgh made seven runs and seven hits, including two of three homers knocked off Bud's throws.

Pirates Get 17 Hits.

The Pirates were even more severe today than yesterday. Yesterday they made 12 hits for 29 bases, including three homers. Today, with their three homers, two triples, and some doubles, they had 17 hits for 36 bases.

The Cubs got two homers themselves, one by Hornsby and one by Zack Taylor, l-th in the seventh. Hornsby, who is trying to snap his hirelings out of the sluggishness that has been upon them for the last week, made the homer, a double, two singles, and a walk in five trips to the plate, but after the thrashing Teachout took in the fourth Rogers' inspiration didn't seem to take hold to any great extent.

Today's flop put the Cubs below the .500 mark in their spring exhibition endeavors. They now have lost 12 games while winning 11, a rather sad blow to Mr. Hornsby, who said in mid February that he thought his boys ought to sweep their exhibition schedule. The final tabulation on the Pirate series was good enough, the Cubs winning five in a row before folding up for the last two games. Otherwise the showing hasn't been so hot, as witness the following table:

Cubs vs. Seals—Won 6, lost 3.
Cubs vs. Oakland—Won 1, lost 2.
Cubs vs. Los Angeles—Won 5, lost 3.
Cubs vs. Missions—Won 2, lost 0.
Cubs vs. Hollywood—Won 0, lost 2.

The team will play Los Angeles tomorrow and Friday and will wind up their stay on the coast Saturday and Sunday against the Hollywood stars.

At the end of the first third of the contest the Cubs were in possession of a 4 to 1 lead, a 1 to 1 tie effected in the first inning having been broken in the second when the Cubs accrued a flock of three runs after two were out.

The Cubs' run in the first was made on a walk and Hornsby's double and the Pirates got theirs when Grantham smacked his homer over the right field screen.

English's Triple Scores Two.

Bell opened the second inning with a single and stayed on first while Grimm flied to Comorsky and Teachout fanned. Cuyler then got the second of his three successive passes, after which English tripled, scoring Bell and Cuyler. Hornsby singled to center, scoring English. Rogers got credit for stealing second when the hit and run went awry, but the session ended when Wilson was called out on strikes for the second time in successive innings.

The score became 5 to 1 in the first of the fourth. Cuyler got his third successive walk, went to second while Grantham was throwing out English and to third when Hornsby made his third successive hit. Wilson singled to center, scoring Cuyler and putting Hornsby on third. Stephenson hit into a double play.

Bucs Reach Teachout.

Which brings us up to Teachout's pitiable fourth inning collapse. It started with Traynor slapping the first pitch for a homer. English was charged with an error when he missed a difficult chance to field Comorsky's grounder. Suhr walked and Thevenow

IT'S NEW YORK VS. CHICAGO IN STADIUM RING

Facts About Fights

Place—Chicago Stadium.
Teams—Chicago vs. New York.
Sponsors—Chicago Tribune and New York Daily News.
Time—First bout starts at 8 o'clock.
Attendance—About 24,000.
Tickets—3,500 general admission tickets go on sale at 7:45 o'clock at Stadium box offices. All other tickets sold.

BY FRENCH LANE.

A crowd of more than 23,000—it will be a new world's indoor boxing attendance record—will see the most thrilling flatic display ever offered any place in the world.

For Chicago's champions will be fighting New York's champions for a place on the All American team, which will meet the champions of France in an international combat in Chicago on May 12.

The show tonight at Chicago's huge indoor arena, for which all reserved tickets were sold in six hours, is, from the point of view of an "attraction," the most remarkable ever to be staged in America.

Switched from New York.

It was originally scheduled for New York last Monday night. Every seat in Madison Square Garden had been sold. Then suddenly the metropolitan group of the Amateur Athletic union decided it would not permit officials from outside of New York to judge and referee the bouts.

The New York Daily News and THE TRIBUNE had been demanding neutral officials, and when the Metropolitan A. A. U. stood pat on its ruling the intercity battles were suddenly switched from Madison Square Garden to the Chicago Stadium. In Chicago the central division of the A. A. U. sanctioned neutral out of town officials.

Then came the mad scramble for tickets. Never were so many sold in such short time. More than 20,000 were grabbed up by Chicagoans eager to see the inter-city clash, before a crowd equally large had a chance to reach the ticket windows.

But for those who were disappointed when the ticket sale became so enormous there is one ray of hope that they may see the fights. For at 7:45 o'clock tonight 3,500 general admission tickets will be placed on sale at the Stadium. They will be sold at the southwest and southeast box offices on the Madison street side.

Sixteen Fights on Card.

There will be 16 combats on the program, which opens at 8 o'clock. There will be opening ceremonies for the great crowd starting shortly before 8 o'clock. Jack Bold, bugler from the First division, will sound "to the colors." Hugh Banks of the First division, Robert Baird of the 89th division, Herbert Farnsworth of the navy, Frank Waitkus from the 77th division, and Edward Kouswick from the 5th marine corps will raise the American flag. And after the flag is unfurled Cyrena Van Gordon, grand opera star, will sing "The Star Spangled Banner," with Ralph Waldo Emerson accompanying her at the Stadium organ.

Chicago's runners-up will punch away at New York's runners-up in the first eight battles. Then will be paraded before the record breaking throng the eight champions from Chicago and New York fighting for a place on America's team which meets France next May.

The first eight bouts may be just as exciting as the eight championship struggles. For each bout counts a point for the team whose boxer wins it whether it is among the runners-up or in the title division. The team that wins nine bouts will capture the intercity championship.

There was little work but much activity in the rival boxing camps yesterday. There was much secretiveness on the part of the coaches of the two teams.

There are 32 boxers on each squad. Only sixteen from each team will don the gloves. The sixteen members of each army had been picked by the coaches, but from both camps came the announcement that final selections will not be made until the boys weigh in early this afternoon.

Uniforms Are Distributed.

The members of the Chicago team were in the limelight yesterday. The uniforms they will wear were passed out early in the afternoon and they created considerable attention as they posed for photographs. Later in the afternoon, after some light drilling in the Illinois Athletic club gymnasium, they attracted no end of notice as they moved north on Michigan boulevard to the Drake hotel, where they assembled at the W-G-N studio for a broadcast which came at 6 o'clock.

The New York boys took a long walk yesterday morning and engaged in light exercise during the afternoon. There was great rivalry among the

Schwartz and Crabbe Take Titles in N.A.A.U. Swim Meet

BY BETTY ECKERSALL.

Buster Crabbe of the Los Angeles A. C., California, won the 300 yard individual medley, in which he was defending champion, by breaking Walter Spence's national record of 3 minutes and 40 seconds by 1.5 seconds in the most spectacular race of the first night of the senior National A. A. U. swimming championships last night at the Lake Shore Athletic club.

Crabbe led the field for the first three lengths, but lost yardage on the fourth lap to J. Schmieler of the University of Michigan. Crabbe and Schmieler back stroked arm and arm for two lengths when Walter Laufer of the Lake Shore Athletic club swung into his powerful crawl. Laufer started to gain on Schmieler.

Laufer Takes Second.

Laufer crawled up from fourth place, to which he had dropped at the beginning of the race, to take second place. Schmieler was third. Crabbe won by two yards, and although the race was close he seemed at no time to be hard pressed.

Al Schwartz of the Illinois Athletic club splashed to the championship in the 100 yard free style swim. His time was 53.7 seconds.

Highland Sets Pace.

Art Highland, Northwestern university freshman, who competed unattached, led the field for 75 yards. Schwartz, recovering on his turn, plunged into the lead on the final lap and swung down the pool winning by two yards. Two Hawaiian boys, Manuella Kalili and Maiola Kalili, both of the Hollywood A. C., finished second and third places respectively. Highland tired after his first spurt and placed fourth. Summaries:

CLEVELAND RING SEEMS FAVORED FOR TITLE BOUT

Cleveland, O., April 1.—(AP)—Cleveland tonight appeared to have the inside track in the bidding between Chicago, Detroit and this city for the heavyweight championship battle to be held between Champion Max Schmeling and W. L. [Young] Stribling, probably on July 3.

William E. Carey, president of Madison Square Garden corporation, and Joe Jacobs, manager of the German titleholder, tonight took under advisement the matter of selecting from Cleveland's downtown stadium, Chicago's Soldiers' field, and Detroit's Arena, after conferences with Cleveland officials.

It was said unofficially that differences over rental of Cleveland's stadium were the sole factor holding up a decision favoring it as the site. The conferees indicated they probably would be ready to announce a decision by tomorrow night.

After the conferences broke up tonight, Jacobs said without hesitation he considered that Cleveland "has the inside track."

Ruth Faces Girl Pitcher Today; He Seems Worried

Chattanooga, Tenn., April 1.—(AP)—Babe Ruth, the home run go-getter, is greatly perturbed at even the thought of women entering professional baseball.

His perturbation was given emphasis today as he faced the prospect of having Jack Mitchell, Chattanooga's girl southpaw, pitch to him in an exhibition game here tomorrow between the New York Yankees and the Chattanooga Lookouts of the Southern association.

"I don't know what's going to happen if they begin to let women in baseball," the Babe lamented.

ROCKNE'S MATE AT END BURIED AS COACH IS KILLED

Elmira, N. Y., April 1.—(AP)—James Watkins, who played the other end with Knute Rockne on the Notre Dame football team in 1911, was being buried here when the Notre Dame football coach was killed in Kansas.

Watkins, a 43 year old engineer for a gas drilling company, died Saturday and was buried yesterday. He was a native of Indiana and engineered gas well development in Mexico and South America before coming here last September from Wellsville, N. Y.

Friends said Watkins was proud of having played with the more noted of the 1911 Notre Dame ends.

W-G-N and N. B. C. Broadcast Golden Gloves Battles

A record crowd not only will attend the Intercity Golden Gloves bouts tonight in the Chicago Stadium but a large radio audience will be listening in as Quin Ryan broadcasts the fights from 8:30 until the close from W-G-N, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE station.

At 10:15 the National Broadcasting company will join with W-G-N and take the fight to three stations of its nation-wide network, KOA, Denver; WBEN, Lawrence, Kas., and WJZ, New York.

Yesterday the Chicago fighters were introduced from W-G-N by Arch Ward and Wilfrid Smith.

the crowd swept around and behind, forming a river of humanity which filled the street from wall to wall, eddying around parked cars down Dearborn street to Van Buren and then west to the La Salle street station. The journey required 20 minutes.

In the murky baggage room of the La Salle street station there was more confusion and delay. Forty persons crowded on an elevator with the truck bearing the casket and, as the power was applied to lift the load to the train level above the motor stalled at half the distance. The elevator was relowered and the load lightened.

Crowd Lingers at Train.

The train left at 9:15 p. m., with about 100 alumni and students aboard, including the honorary guard. These were ,in addition to Mr. Brennan, Appellate Judge Kickham Scanlan, Hugh O'Neill, Joseph J. Sullivan, Francis H. McKeever, Byron V. Kanaley, Daniel J. O'Connor, Michael Girten, Harold P. Fischer, Fred L. Steers, Frank H. Hayes, Thomas J. Shaughnessy, James E. Sanford, Daniel E. Hilgartner Jr., George M. Maypole, Norman C. Barry, John W. Costello, and Frank T. Fitzsimmons.

A throng estimated at 25,000 met the train on its arrival at South Bend at 11:10 p. m. The casket was taken over the flag draped streets to the McGann mortuary in North Michigan street, there to remain until the arrival this afternoon of the widow, Mrs. Bonnie Rockne, from Coral Gables, Fla., with the other two children.

Funeral arrangements were held in abeyance pending Mrs. Rockne's return, but indications last night were that a solemn requiem mass would be sung over the casket next Monday by the Rev. Charles H. O'Donnell, president of Notre Dame. The service will be held in the Sacred Heart church on the Notre Dame campus and Father O'Donnell granted the two national broadcasting chains permission to carry the service to the nation over a national hookup.

Tributes from High and Low.

Tributes from the great, near great and humble were delivered in hundreds at Notre Dame and the Rockne home during the day. Heading the list of sympathizers was President Hoover, seconded by members of his cabinet, with army officers, coaches, professional and amateur athletes and officials and admirers of Rockne pouring forth expressions of regret and admiration.

President Hoover's message, addressed to Mrs. Rockne, was as follows:

"I know that every American grieves with you. Mr. Rockne so contributed to the cleanness and high purpose of sportsmanship in athletics that his passing is a national loss."

Inspiration Is Not Lost.

Secretary of War Patrick H. Hurley and Gen. Douglas MacArthur, chief of the army staff, communicated with both Mrs. Rockne and the Notre Dame faculty. Mr. Hurley said that "Notre Dame loses Rockne's aggressive leadership but not the inspiration of his nobility of character." Gen. MacArthur said the army would "cherish his memory."

The Wisconsin general assembly and the Cook county board adopted formal resolutions of sympathy. Among the coaches telegraphing their sorrow were A. A. Stagg, University of Chicago; Robert C. Zuppke, University of Illinois; Richard Hanley, Northwestern university; Eddie Anderson, De Paul university; Sam Willman, Ohio State university, and others in the Big Ten and schools on the east and west coasts.

Can't Fix Cause of Crash.

While the nation mourned the great coach's death a county coroner in Cottonwood Falls, Kas., spent a day hearing witnesses and studying the wreckage of a fallen Fokker transport plane in a vain effort to determine the cause of the crash that plunged Rockne and seven others to death. Late in the evening a jury of six herdsmen and wheat growers returned a verdict saying that "the deceased came to their deaths in an airplane fall, cause undetermined."

What happened above the dense curtain of clouds to send the tri-motored craft rocketing earthward with one wing torn off could not be explained by the stockmen of the Flint hills. They heard the faltering drone of its motors and saw the crazily rocking ship emerge from the cloud bank, plunging to its doom, but could tell no more.

Guard Plane Wreckage.

Aviation experts and officials of the Transcontinental-Western Air Express supplemented the eye witness testimony with conjectures, but contributed nothing towards solution of the mystery. Souvenir seekers having torn away the debris of the wings and even lugged off an engine cylinder during the day, an armed guard was stationed beside the wreckage last night.

Then, too, there was the report, both in Chicago and Cottonwood Falls, that H. J. Christen, the Chicago interior decorator aboard the plane, had been carrying a satchel with $55,000 in cash when killed. Diligent search of the wreckage yielded no trace of the satchel, and Christen's attorney, Murray Miller of Chicago, expressed the opinion that Christen, known to have cashed a $55,000 check before his departure, had probably banked it or transferred it to Los Angeles by draft before leaving Chicago.

IN the WAKE of the NEWS

GOLDEN GLOVES BOUTS.

CHICAGOLAND'S Golden Glove champions, chosen in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE tourneys, tonight will meet New York's amateur mitt slingers, winners in the New York News tourneys. Sixteen bouts will be held at the Stadium, whose reserved seats have been sold out for days, insuring a capacity crowd of about 23,000.

This intercity tourney is the fourth of the series, with honors even up to date. In the first event held in Chicago the bouts were divided at 8 to 8. In the second tourney the Gothamites at home won, 11 to 5, and last year we reversed the result here, 10 to 6.

So far as one may determine in advance, the chances tonight are about a tossup. Sponsors of the New York team and sponsors of our champions both look for exceptionally good boxing. Both can see victory for their favorites, both recapitulating eight bouts they can win, with several more doubtful. The issue probably will hinge on about five contests where the decisions might go either way. How they do go will be determined in the ring and not in advance.

These fourth intercity bouts offer two unusual features. In the first place, New York, whose turn it was to entertain, chose to sacrifice the advantage of home environment that "neutral officials" might officiate, a privilege arbitrarily refused by the Metropolitan A. A. U., which insisted on New York arbiters and thus lost the attraction.

Secondly, eight referees and judges from cities other than Chicago and New York will award the verdicts. They have been recruited from all over the country from the men best known for their interest in and knowledge of amateur boxing. Only in the first bouts held here have "neutral officials" previously officiated, and then the choice was not as extended as now.

So we urge from a crowd which we expect to be partisan but fair an extension of the best sportsmanship toward our visitors, both boxers and officials. Please remember, friends, these boys, both from Chicagoland and New York, are amateurs with no reward except their insignia of victory and the satisfaction of registering that victory for their home community. They will be doing the very best they know how. Of that you may be assured. Of course, we must hope Chicago boys may win. We likewise may extend courteous apreciation to the New Yorkers. Gotham crowds, in the past, have extended courtesy to us.

Now about the officials. These men, at sacrifice to other interests, have come from varying distances to give their best judgment on the merits of the contenders. They receive no remuneration for their time and their services. Possibly you may not always agree with them—margins in three and four round affairs often are most difficult to decide and rules require a decision—but we ask that their decisions be accepted in a spirit of sportsmanship. We feel that "booing," to which local crowds are becoming addicted, would be a reflection upon Chicago.

The Wake wishes Chicago to win a majority of these fourth intercity bouts, with the winners meeting a French team here on May 12. But besides that we want New York to feel it made no mistake in transferring the tourney here and we want these officials to feel their presence was an honor which they will wish to repeat. So we express the bromidic "May the best team win"—but we hope it will prove to be Chicago.

boxers from each city last night. From the heavyweights down to the flyweights there wasn't a New Yorker who thought it possible to lose and there wasn't a Chicago boy who would talk of anything but knocking his New York foe into the rosin.

Chicagoans who followed the building of the Chicago team from the time the sectional tournaments opened had their favorites. So did the New Yorkers here for the leather pushing festival. Great interest has been stirred up in the flyweight match between Leo Rodak of Chicago and Jimmy Martin of New York. The bantamweight skirmishes between Nick Scilaba of Chicago and Al Roth of New York and between George Goodman of Chicago and Johnny De Foe of New York were coming in for no end of discussion. The fight between the two team captains, Fred Caserio of Chicago and Andy Melia of New York should be a thriller if all you heard about the boys in Chicago yesterday is true. And you could always hear the question, "How's John Long, the rather short lefthanded Chicago heavyweight, going to fare against Yustin Sirutus, the New York giant, and what's Adam Smith, the baker boy of Chicago's team, going to do to Joe Shelby, the other New York heavyweight?"

If the boys are paired according to their ranking in their respective tournaments the lineup will be as follows:

112 POUNDS.
Leo Rodak, Chicago, vs. Jimmy Martin, New York.
James Eliopoulos, Chicago, vs. Charley Villarmia, New York.

118 POUNDS.
George Goodman, Chicago, vs. Johnny De foe, New York.

126 POUNDS.
Don Gonzales, Chicago, vs. Tony Scarpati, New York.
Tony Muscarello, Chicago, vs. Johnny Bonito, New York.

135 POUNDS.
George Holden, Chicago, vs. Joe Petlachow, New York.

147 POUNDS.
George Keenan, Chicago, vs. Phil Dardell, New York.
Johnny Phagan, Chicago, vs. Charley Nagle, New York.

160 POUNDS.
Ralph Philps, Chicago, vs. Antonio Roman, New York.

175 POUNDS.
Jack Kraus, Chicago, vs. Phil Gavrilak, New York.
Tony Sutton, Chicago, vs. Sam Portner, New York.

HEAVYWEIGHTS.
Adam Smith, Chicago, vs. Joe Shelby, New York.

Tonight's fights will tell the story. It should be a hairlifter in every chapter.

And you should start early if you want to be there for the whole show.

Gold Belt Watch for Each Intercity Champion Tonight

Winners in the 16 intercity bouts tonight will receive gold belt watches. This novelty has just been created and these are the first manufactured. The watch, in a square gold case set with a diamond, has a 19 jewel movement. A clasp at the top of the belt permits the wearer to tell the time merely by looking down.

Sixteen silver belt watches, identical in design with those awarded to tonight's winners, are the prizes for the losers. In addition each contestant will receive a gold or silver lapel button.

These prizes were ordered by the New York News for the intercity bouts before the matches were transferred to Chicago. The officials' badges also were designed in New York.

WHITE SOX SEND RADCLIFF BACK TO DALLAS CLUB

Thomas Shows Old Time Fast Ball in Drill.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Fort Worth, Tex., April 1.—Rip Radcliff and the White Sox have parted company. During the winter he was pictured as the lad whose first base work and hitting could assist in leading the Pale Hose from the wilderness. Probably you read that somebody had spoken of him as a second Bill Terry. From the first day of training it was obvious that he was anything but that. He was just a ball player, so now he's back in the minors, sadder and wiser, but nevertheless a busted phenomenon.

Manager Bush handed the young man the bad news after a phone call which came to the park from Chicago while the squad was working out today. The Dallas club, from which he was purchased by way of Selma, Ala., gets him back again.

Rip wasn't surprised. He knew it was coming, and the blow was a sort of relief. He didn't tell anybody he was a sure fire big leaguer. Advance advertising, based on false enthusiasm, created the rôle for him. He tried hard to fill it but couldn't, and he would have been sent away before this if Bush hadn't wanted to show consideration for the fellow's feelings. Baseball is full of these little tragedies.

Bush on Trail of Star.

The passing of Radcliff back to the same minor league club, with which he couldn't even make good early last year, leaves Johnny Watwood the only first baseman on the job. But it may not be this way for long. Bush is determined to get a first baseman of big league specifications. He not only is determined, but says he'll do it. If he does and while so doing doesn't have to give away any of his present strength, the Sox may have a fairly profitable summer. There are a few worth while prospects in the class AA minors who can be purchased for cash.

Part of today's exercises involved some muscle stretching by Ted Lyons and Al Thomas, the two worrisome cripples. Thomas actually threw as if he fully realized that spring training was on in full blast. He not only threw, but showed the fast ball for which he was famous up to last spring. He felt no ill effects in his shoulder. Lyons, who hadn't even gripped a ball tightly for a week, also threw, but with less abandon. He claimed his shoulder felt surprisingly limber. Bush is going to pitch both of them before the week is out.

Caraway, Frasier Pitch Today.

After the drill today at the Texas league park, the Sox packed up and moved away to Little Rock, where tomorrow they resume the series with the Giants, who then will return to Memphis to permit the Hose to play three games with the Little Rock team.

Bush planned to let Red Faber make his first start of the year tomorrow, but this afternoon he decided to give the veteran an easier assignment, and in his stead let Caraway and Frasier try to fool the National leaguers. Faber will work the next day and will be followed by Thomas and Lyons on the two succeeding days.

BY CONNIE McGRAW
(Per Westbrook Pegler).

New York, March 31.—Once more the springtime rolls around with its tocsin cry of "play ball," the summons to millions of impatient fans through the length and breadth of this great country from coast to coast with the insatiable lure of what has truly been called the "national game," baseball.

Naturally, at this time of the year, the faithful followers of the old pastime will want to know what changes have been made among the various contenders who are preparing to get away again over the derby route for the prized gonfalon of the championship. So, in my modest way, as manager of one of the contenders in the classic race for the highest honors, it is only fitting that I am going to try to give you the straight dope. Right off the griddle, without attempting to conceal any thing which the fans have a right to know.

Tells Public the Facts.

I have always been one of the pioneers in saying the public is entitled to the facts with regards to the pennant situation, regardless of whom is to blame for any thing that may take place later on. Remember that the "best made plans of mice and men" sometimes do not turn out as you may expect, and particularly in baseball. But I am going to be brutally frank and deal my cards right off the chest so that you may form your conclusions intelligently and not have to grapple in the dark wondering what is going on.

Fans, I am going to start off without beating around the bush by saying that if my pitching stands up this year, as I hope it will, you can look for our aggregation to finish there or thereabouts when the critical days of the annual fall classic of the world series arrive next autumn. That is a bold prediction, but I mean just that.

A Confident Bunch.

Our gang is a confident, aggressive lot of clean living, fun loving athletes, welded together as one happy family and I am confident to state that the team that beats us out for the prized bunting of the championship and the right to take part in the supreme test of the 1931 world series classic is simply a better team, that is all. And let me add that they will know they have been in a fight!

If I was asked to name the principal trait of this aggregation of hustling, aggressive pennant chasers who go to comprise my subordinates this year, that is the one word that I would use to paint the whole picture in a nutshell. These are boys who will never know they are licked until the old ball game is written down in the official box score and mailed to the president of the league. And even then there will be a couple of them ready to go before him and demand him, with all due respect to his high office, for which I have the highest respect as it signifies the supreme authority, to order the contest to be played over on some technicality.

Fighting Spirit Wins.

That is the fighting spirit that wins whether it be in the national pastime or in the more serious game of life itself. For, after all, fans, the older I get in this fascinating sport of ours with its lure for young and old alike regardless of what their sex may be, always giving the best that is in me and only asking the confidence of the fans which is the highest bauble that any man can wear in their heavenly crown when the great umpire calls, you will notice more and more that it isn't so much whether you won the game that counts in the long run but only one thing and that question comes down to this, "Was it on the level?"

To that question I can go to sleep at night looking any man or woman in the eye, be he rich or poor, with a clear conscience and answer them in the only words that anybody calling themselves a sportsman and worthy to hold my place in the national game with its great hold on the confidence and trust of the people in every hamlet, where American hearts beat. Sometimes when I hear of aspersions gnawing at the well springs of sportsmanship in other lines without wishing to bring discredit on boxing or horse racing, as I am a life long admirer of James J. Corbett and Col. Edward R. Bradley, I almost lose my patience over these thoughtless critics. For you will find that on the whole, the main body of sportsmen are clean and playing the game to win at any cost.

But when you come right down to it, the fact remains that the team that gets the pitching very often is bound to win inevitably because there is no sense in denying that pitching is the great factor in any pennant winning combination. I have been frank about our pitching difficulties because I want the fans to understand our problems in this department and not lose confidence if at times we seem to be in a slump. I have no use for alibi hounds and will not have one on my club, but it would be foolish of me to mislead the fans into a foolish paradise of overconfidence when our hurlers are so slow coming around and have them jump on me for buoying up their hopes without justification when the facts are the other way.

With regards to the holdout situation there is little more to be said because every fair minded fan will have to agree that when a star player gets an exalted opinion of their value to the team and tries to hold up the management with outrageous salary demands, the welfare of the team deserves first consideration. Any player who thinks more of their own selfish gain than the success of their fellow players as a whole is not a team player and, personally, I would rather get rid of them, even if they hit .440.

In tomorrow's article I am going to give you the lowdown information on our third base situation.

Pirates Rout Teachout to BeatCubs, 11-7

singled to center, Comorosky scoring and Suhr taking third. Hemsley tripled, scoring Suhr and Thevenow. McClanahan batted for Spencer and cracked the first pitch for the Pirates' sixth homer in two games, scoring Hemsley ahead of him. L. Waner grounded out to Grimm, but Grantham singled to right and went to third on P. Waner's single to center. Traynor, up for the second time in the inning, doubled to left, Grantham scoring and P. Waner stopped at third.

At this point it was decided Teachout had lost his effectiveness and Baecht came in without an adequate warmup. Comorosky bounced to Grimm. Then Suhr walked. By this time Baecht was steamed up and fanned Thevenow without Tommy getting much notion where the ball was going. The Pirates had scored seven runs to make the total count 8 to 5.

Hornsby, Taylor Hit Homers.

It was one, two, three for Cub batsmen in the fifth and sixth innings, but the Pirates were not disposed of so easily, especially in the fifth. Hemsley opened with a single and stopped at third on Jensen's double. Then Baecht made L. Waner send a dinky fly to Stephenson, and fanned Grantham and French. In the seventh Hornsby led off with his fourth successive hit, a homer over the left field fence. Wilson and Stephenson furnished easy outs, but Zack Taylor made a homer, and the score became 8 to 7 in favor of the Pirates.

Mr. Jensen wasn't willing for the score to remain so close, so he led off the Pirate seventh with a triple and scored on L. Waner's fly to Cuyler. Grantham flied to Cuyler and French fanned.

Traynor led off the Pirate's eighth with his fifth hit in five times at bat. After Comorosky had popped to Hornsby, Suhr doubled to center and Traynor stopped at third. Thevenow was called out on strikes but Hemsley doubled to left, scoring Traynor and Suhr, Jensen was thrown out by English.

Ban Johnson Is Laid to Rest in Crypt at Spencer

Spencer, Ind., April 1.—(AP)—The body of Byron Bancroft Johnson, one of the founders and first president of the American league, was laid to rest today in the crypt of a mausoleum he had erected two years ago.

His funeral services, held at the Spencer Christian church, were attended by many of his associates in his long career as president of the American league. Some of them only yesterday at Cleveland had participated in the last rites for Ernest S. Barnard, who followed Johnson into office as president of the league.

The Rev. Wiley S. Hastings, pastor of the Spencer Christian church, officiated at the services. He was assisted by the Rev. John Henry, pastor of the Spencer Presbyterian church. Members of a Masonic lodge at Cincinnati, of which Johnson was a member, held ritualistic services.

Floral tributes were piled high around the bronze casket. They came from the host of friends accumulated by Johnson during his more than a quarter of a century administration of the American league.

RUTH STRIKES OUT AS CLOTHES SHOP PROMOTER

New York, April 1.—(AP)—The stock and fixtures of the Babe Ruth Shop for Men, Inc., located on Broadway, was sold at auction today for $1,000 to satisfy creditors' claims.

Seven months ago Ruth turned haberdasher for a day and handed out hats to a few selected friends of prominence. It was understood he was to share in the profits for use of his name. With the departure of Ruth for spring training camp, sales became few and profits turned into losses.

STATES RESTOCK FISHING WATERS WITH BLACK BASS

Male Stands Guard Over His Family.

BY BOB BECKER.

About this time of the year thousands of adult black bass are in great demand because many states are looking around to see where they can "borrow" a bunch of bronze backs for a short time. The idea is to secure these adult fish, and place them in specially constructed hatcheries and rearing ponds, so that a crop of young bass can be produced for restocking purposes.

The habits of the bass create a specialized problem for the fish culturists. This species of game fish has the interesting characteristic of insisting on guarding its young. Moreover, it is the male fish and not the female that watches over the old home and the youngsters.

Must Protect Whole Family.

Instead of taking the eggs from parent fish and rearing the young in troughs as the hatcheries do with trout, it is necessary to provide housekeeping facilities for the entire bass family. These facilities consist of small lakes or ponds devoid of rough fish which would prey on the bass, and plenty of food.

Therefore states which would raise bass have to give especial attention to this popular American game fish, which possibly is the king of all our fresh water species. Judging by the way some of our best bass fishing waters are being exhausted, states and conservation organizations will have to give increased attention to the large and small mouth bass or else most of us will have to fish for pike and perch.

Changes Colors.

Last summer when we were fishing an unnamed lake near Kenora one of the most fascinating sidelights on our day's small mouth bass fishing involved the changing color patterns of the bronzebacks. It is a known fact [known to the scientist, but rather unfamiliar to many fishermen] that the small mouth bass can change his tints and even his color pattern just like a chameleon. In other words, this fish has the power to close up or open the color cells in his skin to get a wide variety of deep or pale tints.

When resting or feeding on a sand bar nature gives the fish a break by blending it into its background.

If this same bass moves from a bar into a weed bed it is against a dark green background, one in which there are contrasting spots of bright light where the sun shines through the weeds, and deep vivid greens where weeds are in shadow. As soon as the fish swims into the weed bed, presto! its body colors and pattern can be changed. Then we get a dark, heavily marked bass.

SYRIAC VICTOR IN BOWIE STAKE BY 3 LENGTHS

Bowie, Md., April 1.—[Special.]—The sheriff of Prince Georges county and the weather reduced the field in the Parkway purse here today to four horses. Frank Hayes' Syriac, a gelded son of Flying Ebony, was the winner. A driving rain that lasted throughout last night and this morning left the racing strip a churned up mass of mud with the result that Battling On was scratched.

Black Patricia Scratched.

Black Patricia, noted mud runner, and the choice of practically every handicapper in Maryland, also was scratched. The scratch was not announced until just before the race, at which time turf players from as far off as the eastern shore and the Cumberland gap were ready to get on the daughter of Alibi and Mary Patricia.

Close Battle for Mile.

The four which went to the post had a close battle of it for almost a mile of the mile and a sixteenth. Syriac was the odds-on choice and when he finally shook himself from the others at the top of the stretch there was great relief among the form players.

Syriac won by three lengths from John Bosley Jr.'s Billycock, with Korax a close third and Panda last. The time was 1:52 3-5 and Syriac carried top weight of 113 pounds. His mutual return for $2.00 was $3.80, 10 cents more than Toney Princess paid.

WHITNEY PLANS NEW ATTEMPT TO WIN AT AINTREE

LONDON, April 1.—(AP)—Although John Hay Whitney has announced the retirement of Easter Hero, one of the greatest jumpers ever seen on the English turf, the young American sportsman has not given up hopes of winning the Grand National.

Breaks of racing went against Easter Hero in the Aintree event, but young Whitney will send forth Sir Lindsay again next year. Sir Lindsay finished far back this year after taking third in 1930.

Easter Hero once was the property of M. Lowenstein, Belgian financier who disappeared mysteriously from a transchannel airplane. Lowenstein paid £3,000 [$15,000] for the jumper purchasing him from Frank Barbour, who paid only £500 [$1,500] for him.

KNUTE ROCKNE

As I Knew Him

BY ARCH WARD, Sports Editor

They have turned away fans from Soldiers' field, the largest structure of its kind in America, by the thousands. They have been forced to close the gates at Yankee stadium before half the folks who sought admission could be accommodated. Seats for Notre Dame's games in Los Angeles were sold out weeks in advance.

Everybody Could Recognize Rock.

Col. Lindbergh might ride unrecognized in a Jackson park express train. But Knute Rockne would be known if he strolled down the main drag in Mudville, Ark. He had features that were all his own. His bald head, his flattened nose. There could be no mistake. Kids who patronize prairie gridirons, millionaires who seek front row seats at big games—they all knew Rockne, just as they know Babe Ruth and Jack Dempsey. Their kind of fellows comes along only once or twice in a decade.

Rockne perhaps has come closer to the public than any of its heroes. When his health failed in 1929 and threatened recurrence of a leg ailment made activity dangerous in the fall of 1930, doctors warned him to slow up, to forego after dinner talks, radio addresses, newspaper contributions, charity games and the thousand and one other things that made him the busiest man in his line.

But try to keep Rockne away from those charity games in which his old stars were performing for the unemployed! Just try to bar Rock from the mad scramble of the crowd, the appeal to associate with his fellow coaches, the desire to defend the game against the attacks of reformers!

Rockne returned from the Pacific coast last December, where his team had clinched the national championship with a brilliant victory over Southern California, a physically exhausted man. The fans from the coast to the campus had paid homage to Rockne and his men all the way across the continent. Rockne's head had been thumping for a week. His legs were threatening to go back on him, no longer able to stand the strain of so much activity.

Rockne Attended, So Gate Was $200,000.

A team consisting of the famous Four Horsemen of 1924 had promised to play a benefit game in New York the following Sunday for an unemployment fund. Rockne was in no condition to accompany them. Doctors said they would not be responsible for the consequences. But Rockne went. Mayor Jimmy Walker had urged his presence as a box office stimulus.

"Who am I to deny a favor to the mayor of New York?" was the way Rockne put it.

The game raised something like $200,000.

It was the last time Rockne directed a football team. He went immediately to the Mayo brothers' clinic at Rochester, Minn., where he remained until pronounced fit to return to work. He quit writing for newspapers, but he kept on with speaking engagements, movie work and multitudinous side lines.

That was the way with Rockne. Handshakes, smiles, wisecracks—getting closer to the public all the time.

Several have attained fame as football coaches. Many have won renown as public speakers. Others have been famed for their wit, their writings or their work in the movies. But in what other individual was combined the ability to do all these things a bit better than any one else?

His Teams Won 3 National Titles.

They say that success breeds success and in Rockne's case it dates back, of course, to his development of teams that will live forever in football history. Just as Yale dominated the game years ago when football was limited to a small area along the eastern seaboard, so does Notre Dame command the national situation today. Notre Dame is the only team which has been accepted as national champions. And the Irish won the distinction three times—in 1924, 1929 and 1930. They were awarded the honor because of an unbroken string of victories over outstanding teams in all sections of the land.

In these days it is no easy task to stand out as the best squad in the section. To lead the national rankings is next to impossible, so evenly distributed has competition become. Teams from the south frequently invade the east to bowl over opponents who 20 years ago were rated invincible. Football prowess burgeans all over the central states. The Pacific coast last fall claimed power unmatched in an all conquering Southern California eleven. It took Notre Dame to shatter that boast.

Success such as Rockne had at Notre Dame doesn't just happen. There must be definite reasons and a guiding genius.

FERRELL HURLS FULL GAME, BUT INDIANS LOSE, 5-1

New Orleans, La., April 1.—(AP)—Wesley Ferrell, ace of the Cleveland pitching staff, went the full nine innings today, but long hits plus errors gave the New Orleans Pelicans a 5 to 1 decision over the Indians.

A triple by Hale, a pass, a single, and an error counted for two of New Orleans' runs in the fourth. In the eighth, after Jamison dropped an easy fly, Hale hit a double, Luce a triple, and with the aid of another error the Pelicans scored three times. Score:

REDS AT BIRMINGHAM.

Macon, Ga., April 1.—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds wound up an enforced layoff of two days here today with a short workout before leaving for Birmingham, where they are scheduled to meet the Birmingham Barons of the Southern league tomorrow.

BRAVES BREAK CAMP.

St. Petersburg, Fla., April 1.—(AP)—Breaking camp for the annual trek northward kept the Braves busy today, although they found time for an afternoon workout. Judge Emil Fuchs and his wife left for the north ahead of the team, which will follow tomorrow. Their first stop will be in Macon, Ga., for a two game series with Brooklyn.

VANCE SIGNS CONTRACT.

Macon, Ga., April 1.—(AP)—With today's game with Cincinnati halted by bad weather, the Brooklyn Robins gave the center of their stage to Dazzy Vance and the signing of his contract. Vance, a bit peeved at having to come down $2,000 on his salary demands, arrived early this morning and affixed his signature to the $23,000 contract just before noon. He joined the team in the afternoon in a brief workout.

FIVE TEAM RACE—STREET.

Bradenton, Fla., April 1.—(AP)—Gabby Street, whose Cardinals were kept idle by rain this afternoon, when they were scheduled to play the Indianapolis Indians, thinks the National league race will be a five team affair.

"I expect my team to win the pennant," he said, "but it will face stiff opposition." Five teams, he said, appear to be evenly matched—Pirates, Cubs, Giants, Robins and Cardinals.

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 1.—(AP)—Maxie Rosenbloom, New York light heavyweight champion, will meet Billie Jones, Pittsburgh Negro, in ten rounds at Motor Square Garden here next Monday night.

CALZA TO MEET DE LONGE IN MAT WINDUP MONDAY

The wrestling card for the Coliseum next Monday night, which will feature the professional debut of Hank Bruder, the Northwestern football star, was completed last night. There will be four one fall matches, three of them limited to a half hour, and a finish match for the main event.

Bruder will wrestle Rudy Hoffman of De Paul university on this card and if he gets by with Rudy and one or two others he will challenge Joe Savoldi, former Notre Dame football player, to a finish match in the Chicago Stadium.

The finish match on Monday's card will bring together George Calza, the Italian wrestler, and Georges (Don) De Longe, a French giant.

Charles (Buck) Weaver, who played football at the University of Chicago and has done most of his wrestling in New England, will appear against Ali Kaplan.

Zack Malkov, a police sergeant in the north shore park district, will appear in the opening bout with Joe Sperling, former middleweight champion of the Western Electric compa-

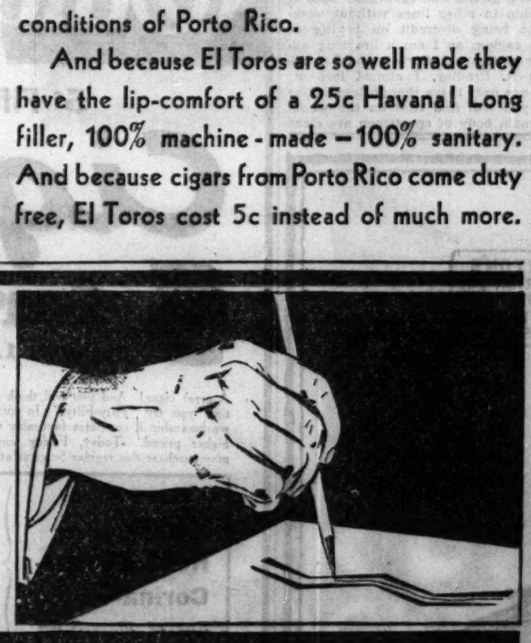
GROUCHY?

If you're grouchy—irritable—if small things upset you—Science says: "It's probably your nerves." And perhaps your smoke is to blame. Play safe—switch to El Toros, the fine flavored cigar that never gets on your nerves.

El Toros are made of the mildest, smoothest, finest-flavored tobacco leaf in the world. This is tobacco grown and ripened in the same tropical climate as Havana but given a wonderful flavor all its own by the ideal soil conditions of Porto Rico.

And because El Toros are so well made they have the lip-comfort of a 25c Havana! Long filler, 100% machine-made—100% sanitary. And because cigars from Porto Rico come duty free, El Toros cost 5c instead of much more.

MAKE THIS TEST!



If your co-ordination (nerve stability) is 100%, you will be able to draw a line midway between the two black lines without lifting your pencil from the paper and without resting your arm on the table. If your line is jumpy or pulls toward the heaviest black parts, you'd better change your smoke.

If you cannot pass this test—switch to EL TOROS for your nerves' sake

If you can pass it—switch to EL TOROS anyway for the flavor's sake

AUTO MEN SEE UPTURN; STEEL OUTPUT SAGS

Caution Conflicts with Optimism.

Business will be suspended throughout the Christian world tomorrow in observance of Good Friday. Commodity and security markets in this country will be closed. Banks will remain open. The New York and Chicago Stock exchanges, the Chicago Board of Trade, and the New York curb market will resume operations Saturday. The cotton and securities markets on the Board of Trade will remain closed until Monday, however. Most of the foreign commodity markets will remain closed until Tuesday.

BY O. A. MATHER.

It would seem that business and industry are subject to two conflicting influences these days. One of these is the desire to expand operations in order to reap full benefit by any upturn in demand, the other is caution pending definite evidence that sustained improvement has begun.

Thus, yesterday brought reports from several of the big automobile companies regarding increasing sales and plans for expanding output. On the other hand, reports from the steel industry showed the second successive weekly decline in production and blamed part of the recession on the automotive industry. All told, it is evident that the major industries still are subject to puzzling irregularities. However, the most cheerful news is that distinct improvement is taking place in the construction industry.

Reduces Operations.

In its operations of the steel industry this week, the Iron Age places steel ingot production at 55 per cent of capacity, compared with 57 per cent a week and two weeks ago. Steel also estimates current operations at 55 per cent, compared with 56 per cent last week and 57 per cent a fortnight ago.

"In the last week or two specifications from the motor car builders have receded," the Iron Age says. "This setback, however, is not regarded as justifying anything more than exaggerated caution, since April output of motor vehicles for this country and Canada promises to total 330,000 to 350,000 units, compared with an estimated production of 275,000 to 300,000 in March, and further seasonal gains seem probable in May.

"The keynote of the situation is that automobile makers are taking nothing for granted, in some cases readjusting factory operations every seven days as reports come in from the retail trade. The award of 125,000 tons of structural steel work by the Pennsylvania railroad, less than a fortnight after placing of 125,000 tons for the Radio City project in New York, has made construction activity the center of interest. A large amount of fabricating steel is still pending and many additional structural projects will mature with the coming of open weather."

Studebaker Picks Up.

Offsetting these reviews are the statements of some of the big motor car companies.

"The March shipment of cars was 9411, the biggest month's business since September, 1929," President A. R. Erskine of the Studebaker corporation announced. "This compares with 6,312 last March, an increase of 11 per cent, and with 4,259 in February this year, an increase of 64 per cent. Unfilled orders on April 1 exceed those for any month during the last year. Factory and dealers' stocks are low."

The Chevrolet division of General Motors has increased its April schedule to 85,088 cars, compared with 75,-288 cars produced last month. The Buick division's schedule is 12,457 this month, compared with 10,550 last month. Shipments of the Cadillac and La Salle divisions last month were 2,223 cars, compared with 1,851 in March last year, while shipments for the first quarter of this year were 6,188, compared with 4,303 in the same period in 1930.

Sales of the Hudson Motor Car company last month gained 33 per cent over February. The Hupp Motor Car corporation shipped 2,361 cars last month, compared with 1,908 in February.

Take Steps to Trim Down Federal Budget Estimates

Washington, D. C., April 1.—(AP)—Efforts looking toward a sharp trimming of federal budget estimates for the fiscal year 1932-'33 were begun today in response to President Hoover's caution that expenditures must be kept down if a tax increase is to be avoided.

Chairman Jones of the senate appropriations committee urged Budget Director Roop "to be certain to keep the estimates down," to include all appropriation allotments in the first general budget, and to submit this to the appropriation committees as soon as possible.

Receipts Off $305,000,000.

Meanwhile income tax receipts for the first nine months of the present fiscal year were shown today by the latest treasury statement to have dropped $305,000,000 below the collections for the corresponding period last year.

On the basis of these figures the treasury faced a probable $500,000,000 decline in such receipts at the end of the fiscal year on June 30.

Senator Jones expressed the belief a tax raise would not be necessary despite the estimated $700,000,000 deficit faced by the treasury on June 30 and possibly another deficit at the end of the next fiscal year, appropriations for which already have been made.

"This does not worry us," he said. "I think we can bridge it over by the issuance of short term certificates. If we can take care of one deficit in this manner I see no reason why we cannot take care of two.

Opposes Long Term Issue.

"I am opposed to issuance of long term bonds, chiefly because of the high interest charges over long periods. I am in favor of raising our revenues by taxation when times are good, but I do not believe we should increase taxes in a time of depression."

Jones said he believed a determined effort would be made by both parties to economize at the next session.

He said he believed the next congress could keep below the $5,000,000,000 mark because it would not be necessary to appropriate any more money for the farm board. The board fund of $500,000,000, all of which has been appropriated, is a revolving one, and Jones said he believed a large part of this will have been returned to the board by next December.

Pays Back $173,000,000.

At the close of business on March 21 the board had been paid back $173,000,000 out of total loans of $462,000,000, and had collected over $3,000,000 in interest.

It was indicated no expenditures would be sought for public works construction in the next congress beyond the amount needed for projects already authorized. A further saving was anticipated through curtailment of these and other emergency appropriations which totaled more than half a billion dollars last session.

MID-CONTINENT CORP. OMITS DIVIDEND DUE TO LOW OIL PRICES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 1.—Several reductions in dividend disbursements were announced today, including a cut in the annual rate of National Supply company from $5 a share to $4 by the declaration of a quarterly dividend of $1 a share. Salt Creek Producers association also decided to reduce its annual basis from $2 to $1.40 a share, declaring a quarterly dividend of 35 cents.

Directors of Mid-Continent Petroleum corporation omitted the quarterly dividend of 50 cents due at this time. A statement said the company earned from operations $1.56 a common share in 1930, but owing to drastic cuts in the price of crude oil and extremely low prices for refined it was necessary to adjust inventory to market prices as of Dec. 31, which reduced net earnings to 80 cents a share.

The statement added that since the first of the year operations, after deducting depreciation and depletion, "have not been on a profitable basis and a second cut in the price of crude oil in March forced a further readjustment in inventory."

Directors of the Paepcke corporation voted to omit the quarterly dividend of $1.75 a share on preferred. The quarterly common dividend had been omitted Feb. 15.

A dividend of 56.373 cents a share is payable today to holders of diversified trustee shares, series B, according to an announcement by American Trustee Share corporation. This represents accumulated dividends during the six months period ended March 16, 1931, and consists of regular dividends of 36.621 cents and extra of 19.752 cents.

Dream of Lake Sea Ports Fades in Light of Figures

BY SCRUTATOR.

Many of the smaller cities along the shores of the great lakes that are cold, or at least lukewarm, toward the idea of an interconnected system of inland waterways connecting the Mississippi and its tributaries with the lakes and Montreal yearn for the day when the St. Lawrence can be gouged out to admit the larger vessels of the seven seas. They want big ships from abroad, not small boats and barges from the Mississippi.

Their faces are to the east and they dream of the time when all lake towns shall be seaports. The fertile valley near at hand is obscured by the mirage of far places and distant climes. Columbus, in search of gold and spices, spurns the lowly potato.

Cities Exports, Imports.

In order to form some idea of what would happen if lake cities should become seaports it might be interesting to consider the case of those cities that are already on the sea.

Government documents say that in 1929 the total value of exports of merchandise from the customs districts on the Atlantic coast from the Canadian border to [and including] Philadelphia was $2,077,395,000. Of this amount $1,903,095,000 went out of the New York City customs district.

This left the comparatively small amount of $174,300,000 divided between Portland, Boston, Providence, and Philadelphia—all of them important industrial centers.

Imports told a similar story. For the same North Atlantic district the total value of general imports in 1929 was $2,733,613,000. Out of this New York seized the lion's share of $2,-152,716,000.

In the South Atlantic district total exports and imports were $544,705,000, Baltimore and Norfolk together getting $403,667,000. Charleston's share was $27,000,000.

Rise at Largest Cities.

In the six years from 1924 through 1929 there was a gradual upward trend in the amount of imports and exports in the North Atlantic districts, but the increases occurred at New York and Philadelphia, the largest cities.

Atlantic steamers choose cities like New York and Philadelphia because they are the focal points of commerce along the seaboard. The railroads lead there and that is where the warehouses, the wholesalers and many of the manufacturers are located.

Along the great lakes the focal points are Toronto, Buffalo, Cleveland, Chicago, and Duluth. It is not likely that these cities will take much ocean traffic from New York. Chicago will get most of the shipping that does come into the lakes.

When deep draft ocean steamers make their maiden fresh water voyages the small lake city may have much in common with Kennebunk, Me., except for lobsters.

FIRST 75 RAILROADS HAVE FEB. OPERATING NET OF $26,708,000

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 1.—The first seventy-five railroads to report the result of their February operations had a net operating income totaling approximately $26,708,000, compared with $56,921,000 in February, 1930, a decline of 53 per cent, and with $79,945,000 in February, 1929, a decrease of 66.5 per cent. The January net operating income of these carriers aggregated $33,160,000.

The gross revenues of these seventy-five railroads in February totaled $317,848,000, against $403,026,000 in February, 1930, a reduction of 21.1 per cent, and $442,382,000 in February, 1929, a drop of 28.1 per cent. February gross of these railroads amounted to $345,144,000.

On the basis of this tabulation it is estimated that the net operating income of all the class 1 railroads in the country during February was around $27,500,000, which would be the lowest for any month since February, 1921, when a deficit of $5,164,000 was reported. Net operating income in February, 1930, totaled $59,452,006 and in February, 1929, $84,770,143. January net operating income was $33,849,116.

Net income of the Louisville and Nashville railroad for 1930 was $6,606,082.15, a decrease of $7,116,684.56.

Pennsy Establishes Legal and Commerce Dep'ts Here

The Pennsylvania Railroad company has established a legal department in Chicago which will be under the direction of James Stillwell, assistant general counsel, who was formerly stationed at Pittsburgh. The commerce department of the road has been transferred here from Pittsburgh and will be in charge of S. C. Mathews, assistant freight traffic manager. Appointment of Theodore Schmidt as an assistant general counsel and the transfer of J. L. Abner to the Chicago office from Pittsburgh was also announced. P. J. Cronin, Chicago district claim agent, has been made chief claim agent in charge of the western territory.

Continental Illinois Net Exceeds Dividends

Net earnings of the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company for the first quarter of this year exceeded dividend requirements, it was announced yesterday coincident with payment of the usual $4 quarterly dividend on the $75,000,000 capital stock. Earnings were in excess of $3,000,000 without considering a comfortable profit earned by the Continental Illinois company, the bank's investment subsidiary.

TRADING IN N. Y. BOND MARKET REACHES PEAK

New York, April 1.—(AP)—The bond market on the New York Stock exchage experienced its most active session this year. Sales aggregated $15,-150,000, compared with the previous full session record of $15,034,000 attained on Jan. 8.

Late activity in the United States treasury 3⅜ per cent bonds of 1941-'43 was principally responsible for this record. Active government bonds generally closed lower, but the decline in the treasury issue mentioned proved temporary. Government obligations were dull until the last half hour.

Trading in the rest of the bond market was much the same as it has been recently. Railroad and foreign obligations, however, showed a rising tendency. Active issues to close higher included German 5½s, Tokio Electric Light 6s, both issues of Uruguayan 6s, both issues of Erie refunding and improvement 5s, Great Northern 7s, and Missouri Pacific series I 5s. The New York Central 4½s of 2013 were unusually active, but steady. Most industrial and public utility bonds were quiet and steady.

Pullman Company Reports Deficit for February

Pullman company, the carrier subsidiary of Pullman, Inc., reported a deficit of $186,718 for its February operations, after taxes, compared with profits of $321,919 in February, 1930. The figures do not include earnings of the manufacturing subsidiaries of Pullman, Inc. February gross earnings totaled $5,345,509 against $6,331,-182 last year.

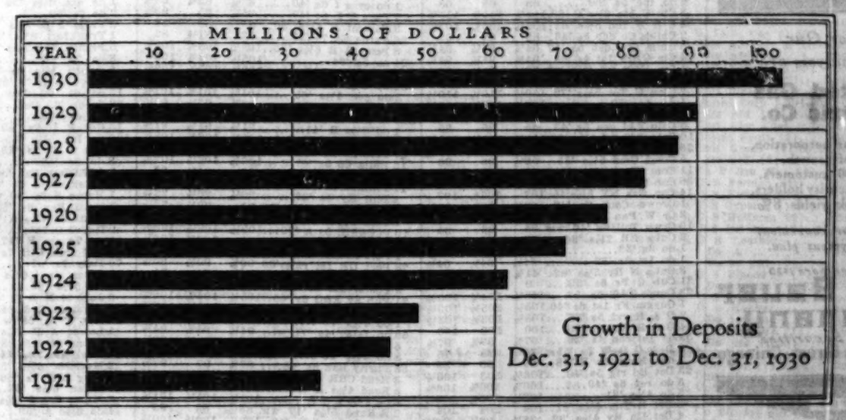
Ten Years of Growth



From $34,000,000 to $103,000,000

WHY have the deposits of the Harris Trust and Savings Bank tripled in ten years?

It is the result of close co-operation with our customers in the building of their business. We can prosper only as they grow and prosper. This philosophy has attracted new business and been helpful in increasing the old business.

The management of the bank has remained the same. There have been no consolidations.

LOOKING AHEAD WITH BUSINESS

March orders for freight cars increased sharply to 2,166, from 24 in February. The total compared with 4,484 in March, 1930. There were eight locomotives ordered during March, compared with the same number in February, and 43 in March last year. No passenger cars have been ordered thus far this year, whereas 169 were ordered in March of 1930. Freight car orders for the first quarter this year totaled 2,190, against 27,027 in the first quarter of 1930.

Increased output and increased consumption of mill products in this country was reported by Herman Steen, secretary of the Millers' National federation.

There were thirteen building permits issued in Chicago yesterday and their total costs amounted to $73,600.

David G. Ong, president of the United States Leather company, told stockholders that "business is a little better." "The turn has come," Mr. Ong said. "It is slow and gradual, but it is quite perceptible."

U. S. Steel Corporation Has Its 30th Birthday

New York, April 1.—(AP)—Today marked the thirtieth anniversary of the founding of the United States Steel corporation, the world's largest industrial enterprise. The day passed without celebration, but officials who took part in the formation of the corporation in 1901 recalled that thirty years ago the steel corporation was more or less an object of suspicion, popularly regarded as a trust. It is now looked upon by many as a model of the industrial organization of the country.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, April 1.—(AP)—Cotton goods showed a slight easing in unfinished lines today in consequence of offerings of small lots from second hands. Finished goods were steady and in moderate demand. Fall buying of wool goods was steady and nearby clothing manufacturers are picking up additional quantities. Silk was steadier here and more eager buying raw markets was reported. Rayon was steady, with finer denier yarns in better request.

PUBLIC SERVICE SELLS 40 MILLION ISSUE OF BONDS

Halsey - Stuart Finances Big Deal Alone.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Halsey, Stuart & Co., bankers for the Insull utility interests, yesterday purchased a $40,000,000 issue of 4½ per cent bonds of the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, the concern which furnishes gas and electrical energy to the Chicago suburban area.

The deal represents the largest piece of public utility financing that has ever been underwritten entirely in Chicago. It was regarded in investment banking circles as an important step in Chicago's growth toward financial autonomy. In addition the transaction represents one of the largest utility financing deals of the year.

Is Refunding Operation.

In selling its bonds at this time the Insull company is taking advantage of the present lower money rates to effect a substantial reduction in its annual interest charges. The issue will mature on April 1, 1981. Over $37,000,000 in securities now outstanding which bear 5 and 5½ per cent will be refunded through the transaction. The annual savings through the lower interest charges will amount to $322,500.

The issues which will be retired are $22,250,000 first lien and refunding mortgage 5½ per cent bonds, due June 1, 1962; $5,000,000 first lien and refunding 5½ per cent bonds, due July 1, 1964, and $10,000,000 of 5 per cent debentures, which mature in September this year.

The bonds will be offered immediately by Halsey, Stuart & Co. at $97.50 to yield 4.625 per cent. Application will be made to list the bonds on the Chicago Stock exchange.

The Public Service company operates in the territory surrounding Chicago comprising 6,000 square miles with a population of more than 1,100,000. Electrical service is furnished about 320 communities and gas is supplied to about 100.

Has Close Relations.

The company has close relations with others of the Insull controlled utilities, such as Commonwealth Edison company and Peoples Gas Light and Coke company. Gas is interchanged under contract with the Peoples Gas and the electrical generating capacity of the company is pooled with Commonwealth Edison.

The company also has interests, through a wholly owned subsidiary, in coal mines, outside power stations and other properties which the management believes will be important factors in the firm's future growth.

CHICAGO STOCKS WEAKEN

The Chicago stock market was weak again yesterday with the active Insull stocks displaying the heaviness which has characterized their market action recently. The selling in Insull Utility and Middle West is reported to be coming from an eastern investment trust which has found it advisable to liquidate some of its holdings. Last year the firm is known to have disposed of a large block of the higher priced Insull shares. It was reported at that time that the stock had been purchased by the Insull interests.

Approve Listings.

Governors of the exchange yesterday approved the listing of 400,000 shares of no par common stock of the Segal Lock and Hardware company. Trading in the issue will begin on further notice.

An additional 100,000 shares of Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line company was also listed. The stock will be used by the company as partial payment for its share in the construction of the Pan Handle Eastern pipe line.

WAVE OF SELLING HITS GRAIN PITS; PRICES DECLINE

Corn Registers New Low for the Season.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Liquidation hit the grain markets a body blow yesterday that sent all deliveries of corn crashing as much as 1¢ from the finish of Tuesday to a new low for the season and since 1922, and May and July rye also dropped to new ground for the current season.

Tired longs started to sell corn futures early and found support lacking and with persistent pressure, partly to close spreads with wheat, each break uncovered a fresh lot of stop loss orders. The decline was not checked until near the finish, when short covering appeared and made a fractional rally. Net losses were 1¾@2¼c, the latter on September, which touched 60½c on the declined and closed ¼c above the bottom, while May was 60⅝@60¾c and July, 62½@62¾c.

Trading started in December corn, with the first sale at 56c. An advance later on scattered buying, but later the liquidation in the old crop months led to increased pressure and a decline to 55¼c, while the close was at 52½c. On the basis of the latter figure it is estimated that farmers in Illinois and Iowa would not receive much over 40c for new No. 2 mixed, while if the quality is poor they would receive considerably less.

Corn Market Lacks Friends.

The persistent failure of an aggressive cash demand for corn to make its appearance, and a belief in some quarters that there will probably be a normal difference between the price of wheat and corn later in the season, despite the pronounced shortage in supplies of the latter grain, have induced some operators to buy wheat and sell corn of late. Expectations that the corn acreage will show a material enlargement this season as well as the prospective increase in the area under oats and barley have tended to increase the pessimistic feeling regarding the future of the market.

Country offerings of cash corn to arrive have dried up as the result of the recent sharp decline in prices, and purchases of only 11,000 bu were reported during the day. Other terminals offered corn but at a figure that failed to interest buyers. Shipping sales were only 36,900 bu.

Wheat Under Pressure.

Relative firmness in the Liverpool wheat market had little effect on prices in America, pressure being current from the start, and later a bearish construction placed on private crop estimates on winter wheat, showing an average of 619,000,000 bu, or 1,000,000 bu more than harvested in 1930, with a small loss in acreage from that seeded last fall, had a depressing effect. At the inside prices covered 1½c under Tuesday's finish, with September selling within a fraction of the lowest figure of the season. Rying of wheat against sales of corn set by holders of bids checked the break, but the new crop months finished lo lower, with July, 59¾@59⅞c and September, 58¾@58⅝c. December after selling at 62¾c early dropped to 61¾c and closed at 62c. May closed unchanged at 82⅝c.

The break in wheat was in the face of reports suggesting that around 1,000,000 bu Manitobas had been sold for export following a like quantity the previous day, and there were indications of further business pending. Winnipeg was firm early, but weakened with Chicago and closed ½@⅞c lower with July at 58⅝c. There was some selling in the Canadian market by Chicago interests. A decrease of around 7 per cent is looked for in the acreage in the three prairie provinces this year.

More bullish advices were received from abroad than for some time. Liverpool reported stocks of Russia wheat practically exhausted as the result of an active milling demand, and the acreage in Australia promises to be 4,000,000 acres, or 30 per cent less than in 1930. Liverpool closed ½@¾d higher, with July at 63c. Germany has revised its milling regulations and 40 per cent of foreign wheat can now be used by mills, compared with 20 per cent previously.

WHEAT CROP FORECAST

A winter wheat crop of 619,000,000 bu, or 15,000,000 bu more than harvested last year, was suggested by the average of the private estimates given to the trade yesterday. Abandoned acreage during the winter was materially below normal, with an average of around 3 per cent. R. O. Cromwell estimating the loss at 3.9 per cent, Murray at slightly below 3 per cent, while Snow said reports ranged from very small to nothing.

Condition of winter wheat in Kansas, as shown by returns to Cromwell, is 95; Nebraska 91, Oklahoma 88, Indiana 89, Ohio 87, Illinois 87, Texas 93, Colorado 90; Pennsylvania 71, Washington 88, and Oregon 93.

A rye crop of around 80,000,000 bu, or 1,000,000 bu less than harvested last year, was suggested.

Murray estimates around 21,970,000 acres of spring wheat will be reaped in the three Canadian provinces this year, a decrease of 1.1 per cent from last year. Condition and indicated yield of winter wheat and condition of rye follow:

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Chicago wheat traders are bearish, particularly on September, which was under pressure by liquidators and a local professional. The disposition is to sell July in outside markets, it is said, and with December now being traded in, there are three months which are entirely free from government operations so far. Conservative people, while considering crop reports favorable, suggest that it is three months to harvest and recall their experience in the past when almost perfect April conditions have proved very disappointing. Farm board officials are looking for a good demand from millers from now on, but the trade in general is a little skeptical about a big demand for cash wheat until they see more being shipped from primary markets to consuming centers.

"It is too early to definitely determine the winter killed area, but local reports from every state of the winter wheat belt are unanimous in declaring the loss either negligible or none at all, so that the abandonment will undoubtedly be one of the smallest ever reported," says Crop Expert B. W. Snow.

"With mill and elevator stocks as of March 1 estimated by the government to be 60,000,000 bu larger than a year ago, and with a probable decrease of 15,000,000 bu to be exported to July 1 this year compared with 1930, would leave 75,000,000 bu more wheat on that date than last year," says the Uhlmann Grain company. "Assuming that the farm board by that time will own 250,000,000 bu of wheat, there will be plenty of free wheat left for all purposes. Average visible supply on July 1 for 10 years has been only 58,000,000 bu," says Mr. Uhlmann.

WALL ST. SELLS COTTON

Pressure on cotton from Wall street and commission houses in general had a depressing influence on values yesterday, despite price fixing in May and buying of new crop months. Prices declined gradually and finished around the bottom, with losses of 66@72 points on futures in Chicago and 96@1 points in other markets. Spots lost 15 points in New York, to 10.55c, with New Orleans off 10 points, to 10.35c, Galveston 10.45c, and Houston 10.35c. Liverpool was 10@2 points lower, with sales of 9,000 bales.

A feature of the news was a private report reducing the acreage 8.4 per cent, which was about half what the trade expected earlier in the season. Sales of fertilizer in the Carolinas and Georgia from Dec. 1 to March 20 were 1,491,000 tons, compared with 2,977,000 tons last year. Prices follow:

LARD STOCKS INCREASE

Lard stocks in Chicago increased 694,405 lbs last month, and are 27,298,503 lbs. As compared with last year they showed a decrease of 16,433,192 lbs. Stocks of dry salted clear bellies made since Oct. 1, 1930, aggregate 16,022,980 lbs, as compared with 11,239,921 lbs a month ago and 13,110,259 lbs last year. Total stocks of meats were aggregate 150,041,614 lbs, as compared with 153,580,768 lbs a month ago and 130,242,655 lbs last year.

The report on lard stocks was contrary to expectations, but coming after the market had closed yesterday had no effect on trading. There was a moderate commission house trade in lard and a fair business in bellies, the latter being sold by outside packers. Prices had a narrow range and closed unchanged to 2½c lower on lard, 5c lower on bellies. Cash trade in both lard and meats was light. Liverpool lard was 2@4d higher. Export clearances of lard were 42,575 lbs and of bacon 25,000 lbs. Prices follow:

Lambs featured the live stock trade again yesterday in an advance to the highest point since last August. The top scored to $9.75, which compares with $8.75 early in March and with $8.40 three months ago. All interests scrambled for stock suitable for the Easter trade, resulting in the earliest clearance in many weeks.

Fancy 50 lb native springers or "hot house" lambs brought $17.50, while 52 lb averages sold at $12.00. This was the first sizable lot of the season. The first last year came on April 11 and sold at $18.00. The first two years ago sold at $22.00 on March 25, and in 1928 the first were sold at $22.00@25.00. Aged sheep shared in the upturn, top ewes at $5.25 equaling the highest since June of last year.

Hogs Meet Slow Sale.

Hogs met slow sale at steady to 25c lower prices, light and underweights suffering most on the break, while extremely heavy "lard" hogs showed strength in some instances. Range of prices reached the narrowest point in more than three weeks, the top and average being only 50c apart at $8.00 and $7.50 respectively.

Heavy grades of hogs averaging 260@310 lbs were sold on the futures market yesterday for delivery during the first half of April at $7.35. April lightweights were bid $7.75 and offered at $8.25, while May light were bid $8.25 and offered at $8.40. June light were offered at $8.60 and bid $8.35. On the "to arrive" market lightweights were bid $7.50, mediums $7.50, and heavy grades $7.25, all for today's delivery.

Lightweight steers and yearlings were scarce and strong to higher yesterday, while the market for medium and heavy beeves developed into a slow weak to lower affair soon after the opening.

Weighty Beeves Head List.

Prime weighty beeves are still at the head of the price list, due partly to the poor quality of yearlings offered lately. Choice 1,370 lb steers sold at $10.75, while $10.25 was paid for 950 lb yearlings. All classes of cows and heifers that were light in weight shared in the full strength of the trade. Calves broke 50c to $1.00.

Australia Pays Interest on Loans to South Wales

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, April 1.—Warrants were received in London today from the Australian government for $2,645,000 interest due the Bank of England and Westminster banks on loans to the government of New South Wales. Interest due to American banks amounting to $626,885 has been handed over to American agents today.

Thus the sensational "default" episode is ended except for legal proceedings which the commonwealth government will take against New South Wales for refusing to pay. It is understood here that Attorney General Brennan of Australia is now preparing to take action against Premier J. T. Land and other New South Wales ministers, individually and collectively, for recovering the interest amounts.
